CRUISING UP RIVER

By GILBERT DRAPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Que., July 31.—(UP)—The R-100 pushed her way up the St. Lawrence steadily but slowly today, making the poorest time of her journey from Cardington, England, to Montreal after a comparatively easy conquest of the Atlantic.

The dirigible encountered contrary winds as she passed from the Strait of Belle Isle into the mouth of the St. Lawrence. After passing the eastern end of Anticosti island about dawn, she made the mainland of North America at Cape Magdelaine, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, at 8 a. m. E. S. T.

From there she struck out into the river, heading for the north shore in an apparent effort to find better sailing conditions. At that point she was encountering a head wind of 25 miles an hour, and her speed was only 34 1-2 miles.

At 8:30 a. m. E.S.T., the liner Empress of Scotland reported that the dirigible had passed her 20 miles out in the river from Mount Louis bay, which is about 20 miles west of Cape Magdelaine.

At 9:10 a. m. the liner Duchess of Bedford sighted the dirigible between the west tip of Anticosti island and Seven Islands bay, on the north shore of the river. At 9:35 a. m., she was reported over Clarke City, near Seven Islands bay.

At 10:10 a. m., the dirigible reached Trinity bay and at 10:25 passed Godbot, Que. Her maneuver apparently had succeeded and her speed was picking up, being estimated at better than 50 miles an hour. The dirigible messaged that she hoped to make this airport at 7 p. m., which she could do by averaging 50 miles an hour to Montreal. Trinity bay is 435 miles from here.

Fresno Man Shoots Wife, Girl, Self

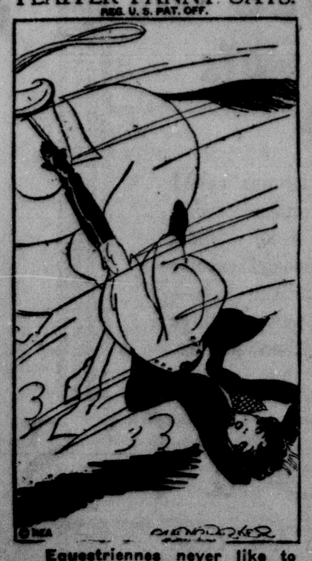

FRESNO, Calif., July 31.—(UP)—Police today said the triple shooting here yesterday by John D. Carter, 52, service station operator, without doubt was premeditated.

Carter shot to death his wife, Mrs. Emma Carter, 43, operator of a small hotel, and seriously wounded Irene L. Cox, 19, her daughter, and then committed suicide by firing a bullet through his brain.

NINE BOMBS DISCOVERED BY N. Y. POLICE IN CHINA TOWN

NEW YORK, July 31.—(UP)—Nine bombs, containing enough nitroglycerine to blow up a city block, were found by police in a rooming house of the Brooklyn Chinese quarter today, and seven Chinese, believed to be connected with a tong war that blazed out in New York's Chinatown last night, were arrested.

In addition to the bombs, which were of the "sugar-bowl" type, filled with black powder, glass and steel, and connected by a long fuse, the police confiscated three revolvers.

The raid was the result of increased activity by the police following the killing of one Chinese in New York and another in Boston, in what was believed to be the forerunner of warfare over smuggled opium.

The suspicious actions of a Chinese riding in a taxicab attracted the attention of two man to a furnished room, where they found the bombs. Information obtained from three men arrested there led to another raid at a second house, where four more suspects were arrested.

Among those held by police are He Yung Ing, 33, a graduate of Northwestern university and a practicing physician, and his brother, Hen Kong Ing, a student at Whittaker college. Dr. Ing gave his permanent address as 47 Mott street, Manhattan, which is near the scene of last night's shooting, in which one man was killed and another seriously wounded.

FORTY-NINE YOUTHS PUZZLE OVER EDISON EXAMINATION TO SELECT BRIGHTEST BOY

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 31.—(UP)—Forty-nine youths, hopeful of winning the title of Thomas A. Edison's brightest boy of 1930, sat down today to puzzle over an examination that carried them from Egyptian deserts to Manchurian kitchens, from Tamerlane to Henry Ford, and from Avagrado's hypothesis to the co-efficient of a micro-farad.

This examination was something more than a test of knowledge of mathematical and chemical formulae; it was a test of common sense and ethics. For example, after the boys had spent two hours and a half on purely scientific questions, they found themselves faced with this nice problem of human behavior:

"You are the head on an expedition which has come to grief in the desert. There is enough food and water left to enable three people to get to the nearest outpost of civilization. The rest must perish. Your companions are: A brilliant scientist, 60 years old; two half breed guides, 58 and 32; the scientist's wife, interested mainly in society manners, aged 39; her little son, aged 6; the girl you are engaged to marry; your best friend, a young man of your own age who has shown great promise in the field of science.

"Which would you choose to live and which to die. Give your reasons."

The examination was divided in four parts, the most lengthy being confined to questions in chemistry, mathematics and physics.

"State avogrado's hypothesis and show how it is used by chemists in the determination of molecular weight," was the first of six questions relating to chemistry. The boys must answer five out of the six.

A typical mathematical question was the following:

"The base of a pyramid is a square, each side of which is 12 inches long. Each of the other edges is 20 inches. Find the altitude and volume of the pyramid."

In physics, among other things, the boys were asked to define the coefficient of friction, of dyne, and of micro-farad.

PUSH SEARCH FOR AIR DERBY PILOT

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, OGDEN, Utah, July 31.—(UP)—Unsuccessful in their initial attempt to find Joe Meehan, Ironton, O., missing all-American air derbyist, airport officials today planned to resume the search which has extended over three states.

Meehan is somewhere between Los Angeles and Ogden. He was one of eleven fliers who took off Tuesday morning for Ogden on the first homeward lap of the coast to coast air race. At Burbank he stopped because of engine trouble but from that point all trace was lost.

Wednesday Floyd Ririe, transport pilot flying a Travelair biplane, covered the flight course between Ogden and Las Vegas. He flew low and kept a close watch for any trace of the lost flier.

From Las Vegas, Nev., Ririe wired airport authorities the search was unavailing. He planned today to continue his search between Las Vegas and Los Angeles and, if successful, t oreturn over the same course to Ogden.

LONDON NAVAL TREATY SIGNED BY KING TODAY

Announcement of Signing Is Made In Commons By Philip Snowden

LONDON, July 31.—(UP)—King George has signed the London Naval treaty ratification, the house of commons was informed today by Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer.

Snowden announced that the ratification would be deposited simultaneously with the ratifications of the treaty by the dominions, the United States and Japan.

The naval treaty was ratified by the house of lords this week, the house of commons already having acted on the agreement.

The United States senate previously had ratified the pact and only the ratification of Japan remains. The treaty has been submitted by the emperor to the Japanese privy council for action.

The fact that the king had signed the treaty was announced by Snowden in the absence of foreign minister Arthur Henderson and Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald.

SEEK SETTLEMENT ON TAHOE QUARREL

TRUCKEE, Calif., July 31.—(UP)—An appeal will be made to the federal court, it was indicated here today, to "pour oil on the blast ridden waters" of Lake Tahoe over which California and Nevada factions were fighting.

The intimation that such would be the case was made by leaders of the Nevada contingent, now under an injunction to prevent them from drawing water from the lake to irrigate ranches in that district. California residents and property owners caused the injunction to be issued to prevent the "defacement of Lake Tahoe's natural beauty."

FLIERS CELEBRATE TODAY

ST. LOUIS, July 31.—(UP)—After celebrating the anniversary of their record flight of a year ago, last night, Forest O'Brine and Dal Jackson piloted their endurance monoplane in circles over Lambert municipal flying field today.

A year ago last night the fliers landed their monoplane, "St. Louis Robin" after establishing a new record of 420 hours which was recently broken by the Hunter brothers of Sparta, Ill.

Reporting "everything going fine," O'Brine and Jackson passed their 245th hour aloft in their present flight at 12:11 p. m.,

PROMINENT LOS ANGELES MAN COMMITS SUICIDE IN GARAGE

His body was found when officers broke into the garage after it was discovered that the motor of his automobile was running but that the doors of the garage were locked from the inside.

Police found that he had chinked up the cracks in the garage with newspapers before he turned on the motor and permitted the lethal fumes to end his life.

His wife Margaret, said he had been despondent recently because of stock market losses.

Weingarten's brother, Charles, was killed by Clarence "Tuffy" Reid in a daylight holdup in Los Angeles eight years ago. Reid was hanged for the crime at San Quentin in 1925.

BUILDING AND LOAN CONVENTION CLOSES

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 31.—(UP)—The 38th convention of the United States Building and Loan League was to close here today with the naming and installation of officers, reports of committees and adjournment to the next meeting, which will be held in Philadelphia in 1931. R. Holtby Myers of Los Angeles, first vice president, was to be elevated to the presidency to succeed Ernest A. Hale of Boston. William E. Best, Pittsburgh, was to be raised to the first vice presidency and Ward B. Whitlock of Springfield, Ill., to second vice president.

VESSELS COLLIDE

LONDON, July 31.—(UP)—The British steamer Narbudda and the Spanish steamer Legazpi were in a sinking condition today after a collision 100 miles east of Gibraltar, a Lloyds dispatch from Gibraltar said.

Salvage steamers from Gibraltar were proceeding to the two vessels' assistance.

Report Says Lingle Murder Soon Will Be Solved By Authorities

CHICAGO, July 31.—(UP)—In its report on the Alfred J. Lingle murder and subsequent charges of racketeering by certain other Chicago newspaper men, the Cook county grand jury today gave credence to some of the charges made by Harry T. Brundidge, St. Louis Star reporter, but declined to indict any of the men Brundidge names on the grounds that the evidence "was not substantiated."

In concluding their report, the grand jurors said they "had every reason to believe that the Lingle murder will soon be solved" and exhorted the citizens of Chicago to "co-operate with the state's attorney and investigators, working solely on the Lingle case."

The grand jury later returned a supplementary report calling on Mayor William Hale Thompson to reinstate Capt. John Stege as chief of detectives. Stege was ousted with William F. Russell, police commissioner, a few days after the Chicago Tribune police reporter was assassinated June 9. Russell and Lingle were close personal friends.

SCHWAB ONLY GETS PALTRY $150,000

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 31.—(UP)—Charles M. Schwab, veteran chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, has received a salary of $150,000 a year since 1925, it was brought out today in Cyrus S. Eaton's suit to block merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with Bethlehem.

The veteran steel man's salary was revealed in a list of salaries and bonuses paid by Bethlehem since 1925 and submitted to the court at the insistence of Eaton's attorneys.

The figure was a complete surprise. It had been supposed that Schwab was receiving an annual salary variously estimated at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 a year.

Calvin Coolidge Says

By CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 31.—In Canada the liberal party has lost control of the government in the recent election and the conservative party will have a clear working majority in the incoming parliament.

Two elements contributed to this result. The first was business depression which usually works against the party in power. Many wage earners were out of work. The price of agricultural products was low. Therefore both the laborers and the farmers turned to the opposition party. The second was a resurgence of the national spirit. The Canadians voted to put Canada above the empire. They are for a tariff that will protect their own domestic interests. While their economic ties with the empire are weakened probably their political ties are unimpaired.

Our investments in Canada run into billions of dollars. Whatever will make the Dominion prosperous would be welcomed by us. We have never directed our tariff policy at the Canadians and do not expect they will direct theirs at us but any general policy of protection to build up the country would in the end make them better customers for our goods. We can best deal with a country that maintains our standards of living.

FEDERAL DRY AGENTS GIVEN NEW PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(UP)—Sensational methods of enforcement will have no place in the administration's future prohibition policy, if the program outlined today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock is followed.

Neither will federal dry agents be allowed to "waste their time upon picayunish, non-commercial cases," the new prohibition chieftain told the 12 administrators, here from all parts of the country for a two-day conference on enforcement methods.

Woodcock stressed reliance upon intelligence rather than brawn in addressing the administrators. He said his aim was more effective enforcement "fairly, honestly, earnestly and lawfully" by the best

Fires Final Shot At London Treaty

The Californian said that the fact the pact was approved by the British house of lords "practically without opposition" proves the "hollowness and sham" of the argument of pro-treaty Americans that the pact was strongly opposed by British naval men.

AMERICANS IN CHINA WARNED BY WASHINGTON

Told By State Department to Withdraw to Places of Safety

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(UP)—Americans residing in the remote Chinese provinces of Hupeh, Hunan, Honan and Kiangshi have received a second warning to withdraw to places of safety because of the increased activity of Chinese bandits, the state department was informed today.

The department was advised that the American legation at Peiping ordered the warning sent Tuesday following the pillaging of Changsha by so-called Communists. Richard P. Butrick, American consul at Hankow has sent a similar warning t othe 419 Americans living in the four provinces.

Two Remain

A report from Butrick received here said the bandits have burned all the public buildings in Changsha and have crossed to the island where the foreign settlement is. The consul reported that all Americans had left Changsha except two, William Lingle, Salisbury, N. C., and Allen Cameron, Lawrence, Kan.

The 45 Americans who left the city before the bandits got control are aboard naval vessels in the river five miles below Changhsha, Butrick said. He estimated American holdings in Changhsha at $565,000 in real estate and goods worth $1,550,000.

Meanwhile, no action toward strengthening the navy's asiatic forces is contemplated here, it was said. The United States now has 6000 sailors and 2400 marines in China.

Those reported safe by Butrick follows:

Americans Leave

Butrick reported that all American residents at Changhsha not specifically mentioned in his telegram had left Changhsha reviously. Some of these Americans, he said, are now in Hankow and others are aboard the U. S. S. Palos.

Developments in China thus far do not warrant the state department in requesting the navy to augment its eastern forces, it was said at the former department today. Diplomatic officials in China are circularizing Americans in all districts where military conflicts or bandit activities seem imminent. They are warning the Americans to evacuate immediately to places of safety.

The state department had no information about demands for $1,000,000 ransom for Cameron and Lingle as reported in dispatches from China.

LONG ISLAND PLANE PASSES 256 HOURS

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., July 31.—(UP)—Louis Reichers and Robert Black rounded out 256 hours in the air at 12:34 p. m. today in their assault on the 553-hour record of the Hunter brothers.

Shortly before last night's refueling contact the pilot of the refueling plane, John S. Donaldson, sponsor of the flight, was arrested on a charge of stealing a plane but the detectives allowed him to supply Reichers and Black with gas, oil, and food before surrendering himself. Donaldson denied the charge, saying the plane was loaned him.

RELATES OLD STORY

Declares M'Donald Made Identification of Two Radicals By Pictures

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—(UP)—Captain Charles Goff, in charge of the bomb detail during investigation of San Francisco's dynamiting outrage, July 22, 1916, today refused to recommend a pardon for Warren K. Billings, although he had previously suggested that executive clemency be extended to Thomas J. Mooney.

Goff was a lieutenant under Duncan Matheson when Billings and Mooney were arrested on charges of complicity in the bombing which killed 10 persons and injured 40.

Matheson appeared on the stand late yesterday and told a special supreme court hearing on the bombing case that both Mooney and Billings should be freed.

Declining to follow his former chief, Goff insisted that the cases were not similar.

MacDonald, a star witness in the original trials, said in a repudiation affidavit that Goff helped in the identification of the two suspects by leading him to their cells and whispering their names.

"I have never made an identification in that manner in my life," Goff declared.

Little Interest

The action of Goff in giving the lie to MacDonald failed to arouse a ripple of interest. The recanting witness has been termed untruthful so often in the last two days that reference to his complete unreliability is becoming tiresome.

As a matter of fact, MacDonald returned to San Francisco from Baltimore for the sole purpose of trying to convince the California supreme court that he lied in 1916 and 1917 when he identified Mooney and Billings as the dynamiters.

MacDonald, still shaken after several appearances as a witness in which everyone concerned tried to show his complete unreliability on all matters pertaining to the dynamiting trials occupied a spectator's seat as the hearing opened today.

Goff was the first witness summoned today. He was questioned by Fred L. Berry, who as deputy assistant district attorney, aided in convicting Mooney and Billings. Berry's role in the present hearing is a special representative of the people.

Goff denied the story told the court by MacDonald two days ago when he asserted that he had never heard of Billings before his arrest.

THERMOMETER HERE REACHES 97 MARK

Although it was hot today, it was not the hottest day of the month. According to records maintained at the Hill and Son store, the peak temperature today was 97 at noon while at 2 p. m., it had dropped to 92 degrees.

It has been warmer on several occasions this month and 98 degrees was recorded on one occasion.

YUMA, Ariz., July 31.—(UP)—A 24-year-old Troy, N. Y., girl today offered herself in marriage to any young man willing to provide a home for her father and monther.

In a letter to a newspaper here, Miss Catherine Charron, who described herself as pretty and petite, asked for aid in finding an eligible bachelor.

After Big Violators

That commercitl violators rather than petty offenders will be the main objective was made clear by the director, who said:

"I think the prohibition laws can be successfully enforced against commercial operations. I shall insist that a steady pressure be maintained against these commercial violations. I disapprove sensational methods."

While Woodcock was continuing his conference with the administrators, Alcohol Commissioner J. M. Doran met today with the 12 alcohol permit supervisors to discuss promulgation of new regulations which become effective September 1.

Doran said reports indicate a larger consumption of industrial alcohol in the next year. He denied any large quantities were being diverted to bootleg channels.

Establishment of schools for training dry agents and building an esprit de corps was cited by Woodcock as another prominent part of the administration program.

Schools for Agents

"These schools are intended to train the agents in methods of gathering evidence, in knowledge of the law and in habits of discipline," the director said.

"They are intended to train the agents to act always as gentlemen and to use their brains rather than their brawn. They will not use weapons except for defense."

Woodcock said he based his hopes for success largely upon these schools. A headquarters school for training instructors will be established in Washington soon. On October 1 a group of 24 picked men who have graduated from a one-month course here will be sent to the various districts to act as schoolmasters.

Police News

Four federal prisoners were lodged in the county jail here yesterday by Los Angeles authorities. They are all to serve short sentences.

Frank Corrales, 38, of Clearwater, was lodged in the county jail late yesterday afternoon by Constable Ed Marion, of Anaheim. He is charged with issuing an alleged fictitious check.

Police were last night asked to search for Watson Paul, 23, and his wife, believed to be on their way here from San Luis Obispo. Police were informed that the car in which they were riding was stolen.

SERVICES TOMORROW

Burial services will be held at Fairhaven cemetery tomorrow at 11:30 a. m. for Martin O'Mara, formerly of Santa Ana, father of Mrs. Elmer Biggs. Mr. O'Mara died in Los Angeles Wednesday night.

tion bidding the boys solemnly to say "when you look back on your life from your death bed, by what facts will you determine whether you have succeeded or failed?"

The rather delicate question about the stranded desert party followed, and after that these questions:

"In the year 1900, how would you have gotten the first cable of a suspension bridge across an impassable gorge one-half a mile wide?"

"If you could prescribe and enforce a system of education for the whole population of the world, on what essentials would you place the greatest emphasis?"

"If you had a brother who wanted to be an artist or a poet, would you encourage him or attempt to dissuade him? Why?

Given Opportunity

"Assuming it were an engineering and financial possibility, and you were given the opportunity of devoting 20 years of your life to the sole charge of digging a hole 30 miles into the earth's interior, would you accept it or turn it down. Give your reasons."

"Suppose your best friend came to you and admitted regretfully that he had deliberately wrecked your chances of winning the Edison scholarship by writing a letter designed to hurt your standing with the judges, what would you do?"

The final question of part II asked the boys to state briefly "How you think communistic propaganda should be dealt with."

Part three consisted of one problem only. A hypothetical dean of a hypothetical university writes to his hypothetical students a letter asking their advice. One of his professors offers to give a series of lectures on Manchurian cooking. If enough of the students are interested, the lectures will be given. And the boys are required to write to the dean and tell him why they want—or do not want—to listen to talks on hte diet of the Manchurians.

History Questions

Part four, the concluding section of the quiz, dealt with history and current events. It asked for approximate date on the Battle of Gettysburg and the reign of Solomon, not to mention the probable birthday of one or two of the dawn-of-history men like Pithecanthropus and Eoanthropus.

This part also contained allusions to noted characters of fictional history, such as Nicholas Nickelby.

Edison also sought to gain some knowledge of the boys' ideas of values—and ethics—in the following question:

"If you owned the following items, set down the approximate price in dollars and cents for which you would sell them, and the sort of purchaser you would select:

(A) Ford coupe which has run 5000 miles.

(B) Basic patent which will reduce the cost of manufacturing shoes 20 cents a pair.

(C) Secret process of manufacturing a drug which will definitely cure cancer.

(E) Trade information which will enable one competitive firm to take $1,000,000 worth of net profits away from another.

(F) The secret of a new poison gas which will make any nation sypreme in war.

(G) Definite proof that the dishonesty of any employe is costing a multi-millionaire $200,00 a year."

Ask Identities

The boys were asked to identify the following: Jane Addams, Leonardida Vinci, Charlemagne, John Ericsson, John Hay, Col. T. E. Lawrence, Pasteur, Marco Polo, Phidias, and Tamerlane.

And the examiners finally wanted to know what causes the seasons of the year and what are chromosomes, as well as the names of the planets in our solar system.

The examination, scheduled for 8 a. m. was half an hour late getting under way. After completion of the first part, the boys were given a light luncheon, and then continued.

Five hours were allowed for completion of the entire test, and announcement of the winner, chosen by Edison's advisory board, will be made tomorrow. The boys will forget their problems at Coney Island as soon as the examination is over.

James H. Compton, Jr., of Wichita, Kas., was the first to complete the examination.

"It was much harder than I thought it would be," he said. "I had a hard time with the part of the test that dealt with physics because it has been a long time since I studied that subject."

In regard to the question of the party stranded in the desert, Compton said he would save the younger of the two guides, his sweetheart and his best friend.

"Why save your sweetheart," he was asked.

"Aw, I don't know," the boy replied.

Compton declared the way he would decide whether his life had been a success would be to see how many friends he had and whether he had been a comfort to his family.

Nathaniel Kurtzman of Whitefish, Mont., said he recommended saving the six-year-old boy, his sweetheart and his best friend in the desert problem. His rules for determining whether his life had been a success were: have I attained my goal; have I improved the world; have I amassed all the cultural and scientific knowledge within my power?

William C. Loy of Michigan City, Ind., said he would save the six-year-old boy, his sweetheart and his best friend.

Court Notes

Charged with speeding, Arthur Moreno, Santa Ana, was fined $20 in police court yesterday and when he was unable to raise the money, was sent to the county jail to serve 10 days.

Charged with vagrany, Henry Wilson, of Philadelphia, was given a 30-day suspended jail sentence in Judge J. F. Talbott's court yesterday.

Charged with possession of liquor L. Sandoval was fined $50 and a similar fine was meted out to R. Rodriguez, arrested at the same time on a drunk charge. Sandoval is said to have had a pint bottle of whiskey on his person at the time he was arrested Tuesday night by Santa Ana police officers.

The case of Ray Wallace, former police officer here, charged with forgery of a $100 note, was continued in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning until August 6 at 9 a.m. Bail of $3000 was held sufficient.

B. Lara, 31, and Nick Gonzales, 59, charged with disturbing the peace, following their arrests last night by Deputy Sheriff Harry Carter, were arraigned in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning and their hearing set for August 21. They asked a jury trial.

cation from pictures of Billings and Mooney and he expressed amazement that a native American, like Billings, would have anything to do with a Preparedness Day bombing," Goff testified.

Examined Pictures

"He examined the pictures alone," Goff said. "Later he said 'here is one of them' and pointed to a picture of Billings, adding 'he is the man who put the suitcase down'."

In picking out Mooney's picture MacDonald was not so sure, Goff told the court. He quoted MacDonald as saying "that looks like the man but I don't think he had a moustache."

Goff said he placed a finger over the moustache and then he quoted MacDonald as saying:

"I am quite sure that is the man."

"I never at any time led MacDonald to Mooney's cell and said, as MacDonald's repudiation affidavit relates, 'This is Mooney. This is your man'."

Goff said MacDonald walked down the cell rows and looked at 60 prisoners before he stopped at Mooney's cell and that he motioned Goff to approach and said he was the man who had accompanied the placer of a dynamite filled suitcase at the scene of the explosion.

"Then I said, 'This is Mooney,'" Goff testified.

The police officer did not recall the matter of Billings' personal identification but said he thought Chief of Police Gus White was with MacDonald then.

"I do not recall having been with MacDonald when he identified Billings in person," Goff told the court.

TRIP TO EGYPT DESCRIBED FOR SERVICE GROUP

Primitive methods of tilling the soil are still in vogue in the Canary islands, in South Africa, and along the Nile river in Egypt, it was revealed at the meeting of the Santa Ana Lions club by James Smiley, who recounted to the club some of his experiences and observations during a four months overseas tour he and his wife recently made.

Discussing traffic conditions in the Canaries, Smiley said that he was told by natives that if a motorist struck and injured a person he was fined $2, and if he killed a person the maximum fine was $10.

Speaking of Grand Canary island in particular, he said business streets are being broadened to 60 and 80 feet by the cutting back of structures that had been erected for years. The average wage there for labor is 55 cents a day and there is no definite ownership of land. The government owns all the land, and every seven years resubdivides the property, with no persons holding for more than the period one piece of ground.

His tour through Morocco and Algiers, in South Africa, disclosed that natives are still plowing with crooked sticks and he said it was not an uncommon sight to see two women and a burro providing the power for such plows.

In travelling along the Nile river, he saw a man attempting to irrigate lands by dipping water in buckets from wells, with frequent sights of four lifts to get water to land with considerable elevation above the river.

The speaker told of some of his observations in Cairo and Luxor, Egypt. At the latter point he said it cost him $6 to take a bath. He visited the Valley of the Kings and commented on relics found in some of the tombs, particularly that of King Tut, which, he said, contained many articles that are in use today, and which have been thought to have been of recent invention. He cited the instance of a speedometer on King Tut's chariot, the instrument registering the number of miles and the speed of the vehicle to which it was attached. Surgical instruments that are considered modern today were found in the tomb. These and other relics taken from the tomb are on display at the museum at Luxor.

Frank Miller presided today as program chairman.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

By and large, men are accustomed to mind their own business because they are concentrated upon their selfish advantage. The serious thing is that such multitudes of men do not know what is their business.

It is your task to develop a strong, wholesome personality through a sincere endeavor to know and to fulfill God's will amid your daily occupations. It is your business to undertake all this because He expects it of you and gives you capacity and strength for it.

The reward is to be such a God consciousness and such a spiritual development as shall fit you to join your dear one in Paradise when the toll of your day is done.

SIGN COSTS MONEY

BENTONVILLE, Ark., July 31.—E. D. Clark, 17, has decided that signs are just a cost of money. Clark lost a 25-mile marathon race from Fayetteville here because he followed a traffic detour sign which made him run five miles further than his opponents. He was among the leaders even with the extra distance.

A. J. CLARK, 54, HANGS SELF IN CLOSET AT HOME

Ill health was believed to have been responsible for the death by suicide late yesterday afternoon of A. J. Clark, 54, owner of the Clark Dollar stores in Los Angeles, in a house where he was living with James Ryan, a friend, in Laguna Beach.

Clark took his life by hanging himself in a clothes closet at the home, using the cord of his dressing gown as a rope.

The body was found within a few minutes after death by Ryan, who returned to the house after a trip to Balboa. Ryan cut the cord with a butcher knife and laid the body on a bed before calling a physician and the police.

Sheriff Sam Jernigan and Abe Johnson, the latter chief of police of Laguna Beach, hurried to the home and made an investigation. The body was removed to the Laguna Beach funeral chapel, where Coroner Brown took charge. Brown said he may not hold an inquest.

Clark had been residing in Laguna Beach for the past two months. He is survived by his widow, who resides in Balboa, it was reported. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Wholesale Firm's Sales For Past 6 Months $5,439,262

Sales totaling $5,439,262.26 and earnings of $60,761.86 for the first six months of 1930 were reported by W. S. Suddaby, president of the Smart and Final company, limited, large wholesale grocery firm in Southern California, with headquarters in Santa Ana, at the meeting of the board of directors this week.

Although sales were $311,243.77 greater than for the same period last year, earnings were substantially less than in 1929 and were slightly less than the average of the past five years. In view of general business conditions, however, the directors were well pleased with the showing made. An analysis of the earnings as applied to the capital structure of the company, shows that after deducting the dividends on preferred stock, they were equivalent to $2.31 per share on the common stock.

Assault Charge In La Habra Dropped

Ending a series of trials and hearings arising out of an asserted wild party in La Habra on the night of July 12, Harold Sutherland, 34, of La Habra, brought to trial this morning on a charge of assault and battery against an officer, had the case dismissed by Judge A. C. Earley.

Leo Friis, deputy district attorney, made a motion to have the case dismissed, stating that a conference had been held between city officials, the La Habra police and the district attorney's office. I. Reed, city attorney, and H. A. Lyon, of Fullerton, represented the city of La Habra while Tom McFadden, of Anaheim represented Sutherland.

Early this week, Sutherland was brought to trial for disturbing the peace but this case also was dismissed.

The candle-power of the sun is expressed by staggering figures—323 followed by 25 noughts, or 3230 quadrillions.

MESANS TOLD PLATFORM OF STUART LUCAS

Another of the delightful neighborhood gatherings fostered by the many Lucas for Supervisor clubs was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Knox, of Tustin avenue, Costa Mesa for a group of two score voters of that immediate district.

Upon being presented Stuart H. Lucas mentioned the four planks, as printed on his cards, upon which he is basing his campaign, pointing out the necessity of having not only a man of business experience, but a man of unquestionable integrity, to act as supervisor, as there was the handling of almost $10,000,000 per annum of the taxpayers' money in the hands of the board. He pointed out that in the interest of county unity that while it was necessary to turn down many applications for funds for various purposes, that the arriving at decisions behind closed doors always tended to creation distrust in the minds of the people refused, while if the reasons for that refusal were known, the majority would see the wisdom of the refusal if it were honestly arrived at.

Lucas stated that the two thirds majority on all bond issues would have a tendency to prevent the exploitation of the property holders by those who wanted to put over measures for personal reasons and he scored the political maneuvers by which the attempt had been made to hang a heavy tax on the whole county in the interest of about three percent of the property owners interested in the flood control measure.

"Having had the honor to be the organizer of the Water Users' association, and as its president to lead the fight against that proposition, at the earnest request of many of my co-workers in that fight which was brought to a successful ending, I have consented to enter this race for supervisor, as my friends believe that I could more successfully carry on that fight from the inside looking out, than from the outside looking in," Lucas said. As this district voted two and a half to one against the bonds, there is every reason to believe that, while the waters have been muddied by a multitude of candidates, before August 26 the proper realization of the gravity of the situation will have been realized by the voters, and they will afford me the opportunity to carry on the work so well begun. I am speaking advisedly, friends, as the whole dam project hingers on this election for the cost of calling another dam election has been included in the county budget."

When asked what he would do for water conservation, Lucas replied that he favored the check dam system as worked out by Olmated in two canyons in Los Angeles county, which he said had been functioning perfectly for 12 years and he called attention to a report in the newspapers that the water officials in Los Angeles county were now turning their attention to that method of control, following the many fiascos in their dam projects.

When informed that it was being reported by the campaigners of one of his opponents that he was against harbor development, Lucas replied that he had worked for and voted for every harbor bond proposition that had been brought out except the one planned by Messrs. Lake, Shafer and Wallace, which tied up anything voted by the county upon the matching dollar for dollar by the government.

He said that three years ago he had favored that plan himself until he had been informed by United States engineer that such a plan was imposible as the government would not even consider such a proposal. As one of the harbor committee of 15 which included J. A. Beek, Lew Wallace, Dr. Hillmer, Harry Welsh, J. B. McNally whose duty it was to keep up on harbor affairs and act in an advisory capacity to the council of Newport Beach, he had been in touch with the government position and these facts were well known to every one of this committee. He stated further that his position had received the endorsement of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce in so much as directors had refused to endorse the measure for the same reasons that he had opposed it.

Lucas also stated that his support of harbor improvement was disinterested, as he owned no property whose value would be directly increased by that improvement.

Norman Paul, American Legion Drum corps candidate in the Fox theaters-Register Popularity contest is the first contestant to reach the 1,000,000 mark. This was achieved with the counting of votes made again last night. Mario Mercurio, who has been running first and second since the contest opened, was still well in the second place, but did not gain materially during the past several days.

Luvina Layton Schade, of the Green Cat cafe, who has been in first and second place since the contest opened, went back into first place again last night after being in second place for more than 10 days. She now has almost 60,000 votes more than Corrine Pennington, her nearest competitor.

A number of candidates showed strength during the last three days, since the votes were last counted, including Ted Newcomb, who is now third in the boys' division; Everett Conkright and Dorothy Reynolds, the latter of Orange. Miss Reynolds has been running a steady race from the start.

The next tabulation of votes will be made Saturday night.

ORANGE HAS HIGH BUILDING PERMITS

Showing that Orange is far above the average in building, a national report received by S. W. Strong, city building inspector, revealed that although permits were much lower than last year, they were still higher in percentage than other towns.

Up to this date last year, Orange had issued $214,525 in permits as compared to the figure for this year, $114,800. This is nearly a reduction of 50 per cent but a big majority of other cities covered in the report showed drops of one-third and lower. March was the best month this year with $36,200 while July had $18,300 as compared with $31,475 for last year.

SCHOOL WORK IS STARTED BY BUILDING FIRM

Work was started today by employes of the Wilson-Bever Construction company on the new buildings and remodeling at the Julia Lathrop junior high school on South Main street. Contracts were recently awarded for this improvement and expansion in the south side junior high school plant by the board of education.

Changes in the interior of the main building and remodeling of the old cafeteria to provide for a music hall are to be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible, it was stated today by R. H. Drake, superintendent of buildings and grounds, in order that the building may be ready for use by the time school opens next September. The construction work also provides for a new cafeteria building at the north of the present building and a new class room unit with eight rooms at the rear of the main building.

An auditorium, which was included in the original plans of the board of education for inclusion i nthe Lathrop program, had to be postponed due to lack of funds, as was a gymnasium and showers at the new Frances Willard plant. The board hopes to be able to finance these projects at some date in the future.

MOTORISTS TO GET PAMPHLETS ON FIRE LAWS

Motorists of Orange county who smoke and throw their cigaret or cigar stubs along highways must watch their "pops and pops" after this, for the state highway patrol and firemen will co-operate in an intensive drive next Saturday to educate drivers to the state law prohibiting the casting of stubs from motor vehicles.

According to John Luxembourger, chief of the Santa Ana fire department, firemen in uniforms will be stationed throughout the county at "stop" boulevard points, and they will hand to motorists who halt in response to the sign pamphlets containing information of the law.

While many motorists are of the opinion that the law applies only to mountainous sections, the fire chief stressed the point that it is effective as well on valley roads as on mountain highways.

Luxembourger pointed out that the summer heat has dried up the grass along roads and there is danger of setting a fire by the throwing of lighted cigar or cigaret stubs from an automobile.

RECORDS OF CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE SUBMITTED SEEN BY PEOPLE'S LEAGUE OF COUNTY

George W. Moody, secretary of the People's League of Orange county, today issued a statement thanking the many citizens who have responded generously to its call for membership subscriptions, published four weeks ago. Moody said:

"As stated at that time, its purpose is to aid in securing information that will help the voters to relieve themselves from the influence of machine politics. To do this, it has been necessary to secure information concerning the various candidates for office who will be voted upon at the primaries August 26th.

"We will very soon now present to you many facts and the records of several candidates, in so far as our investigators have been able to discover them.

"It is possible that the People's league will suggest the names of those candidates who more nearly represent the people as a whole, but at the present time it is not attempting to endorse candidates as such, but rather to furnish information concerning the candidates to the voters for their own judgment.

"Already the forces which heretofore have been practically selecting the candidates and the officers for the county are acknowledging, because of the league's activity, that a new day has dawned for Orange county's political action. It is acknowledged that several of the candidates whose only claim to preferment is that they are the candidates of a small group of politicians are almost certain of defeat and that they will be replaced,—in the judgment of this group itself—by candidates who have come out on their own responsibility in the interest of performing the function of the offices to the satisfaction of the people.

"The People's league is not against candidates simply because they are so-called courthouse candidates; it is against machine controlled candidates wherever they may be found, and there are several glaring instances of men who are not in the courthouse, who are so machine controlled."

JENKEN TELLS ADVANTAGES OF WEED CLEAN-UP

The annual weed clean-up campaign conducted here by the city for a number of years has resulted virtually in the elimination of grass fires in the city, according to a declaration today by Clyde Jenken, city engineer.

The city official said there had been in the last three years only two or three grass fires, and that they were of little consequence.

"I doubt if any city in the state of California can show a freedom from grass fires equal to the record of this city," the engineer said. "This condition is due entirely to the practice of the city of cleaning weeds from vacant lots during the month of May. Owners are invited to clean their own properties, and the city steps in and clears the weeds where owners fail to do so. The cost is added to the property tax bill. There has been very little complaint on the part of owners to the procedure of doing the work and collecting the cost through the tax collecting department.

"Experience has taught us that unless the city leads the way and forces the clearing of lots, owners will defer the work until June or July. Drying weeds on lots during the two months offer a fire hazard seldom realized by the general public. There is little doubt but that the annual practice of weed clearing has saved residents of the city thousands of dollars in fire losses—losses that certainly would have been sustained had weeds been permitted to grow to maturity and dry up on vacant and other lots in the community."

Presbyterians Of County Plan Three Meetings Yearly

A good attendance and an interesting program marked the first union meeting of the 10 Presbyterian churches in the county at Anaheim city park last evening, and plans were laid for three such meetings each year.

Organization of a county wide church union, which had been proposed for the denomination, did not materialize at the gathering last night. A committee, composed of one member from each church in the county, was authorized to work out a program for the future meetings of the churches.

The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Santa Ana, who is president of the Presbyterian Ministers' association in the county, presided at the meeting last night, which opened with a pot luck supper. Speakers were Dr. Hildreth Caldwell, a medical missionary from Punjab, India, and Dr. Murdock McLeod, of San Francisco.

CHINA EVENTS DESCRIBED BY HARRY WORLEY

Editor's Note—A number of people in the city are in receipt of an especially fine statement of the situation in China seen through the eyes of the Rev. Harry W. Worley, who is in charge of the Methodist Theological seminary at Foochow.

This statement is one of the cleverest and most succinct statements we have seen on the Chinese situation, and undoubtedly will help clarify it in the minds of many. An added interest in this article is the fact that Mrs. Worley is the sister of Mrs. O. Scott McFarland. The Rev. Mr. Worley has written this article under the head of "What's Happening in China." He says:

"Seven month have passed since the last copy of this little folder went out. We have seen the return of the year, when generals go out to battle," to paraphrase II Samuel 11:1. The armies are battling on extensive fronts. The opposition to the Central government seem to be even more widespread than it was last year in June, but still with uncanny skill Chiang Kai Shek keeps in the saddle. Not less than five distinct revolutions aimed at the overthrow of the Central government have failed in the last 23 months since Peking was captured and unification announced. The sixth and most formidable is now in process of warlike settlement. How it will eventuate, anyone is at liberty to guess, but no one knows.

"If the Kuomintang or Nationalist party had come to power by virtue of the franchise of the people, or if the people by direct vote had selected Chiang Kai Shek for president, much could be said against those who are thus disturbing the peace of the country. But the Kuomintang is in power by virtue of a compromised military victory, so much can be said for the opponents of Chiang. What do I mean by a compromised military victory? When the armies of the Kuomintang started out from Canton on that memorable day in July, 1926, to unify the country and capture Peking, they had three army corps with a total strength of about 60,000 men. As they traveled northward they fought a few brilliant and strategic battles. But for the most part they made overtures to the military units that opposed them. With rare exceptions these units, whether ex-bandits or well-trained soldiers, accepted the terms of the Nationalists, and were incorporated in the armies of the Kuomintang. Before Peking had been captured the original three army corps of the Kuomintang had been swelled to thirty-eight! Neither these soldiers nor their officers had been converted to the principles of the Kuomintang, or to any real patriotism. It was just expedient for them to unite in this way, and hope for a turn of events which would permit them to return to their old game of banditry and military oppression of the people. If the armies of the Kuomintang had ruthlessly exterminated these armies of ex-bandits and mercenary troops, they would have found themselves in a position of absolute authority, able to do much for the peace of the country. But they had compromised their position and strength by taking into their fold many times their own numbers of unpatriotic and mercenary troops. It was a compromised military victory. Now they are facing these troops, who are trying to oust Chiang Kai Shek, and wrest his position from him.

"The paragraph above gives in very short form the reason for the continued fighting which has characterized China's civil life since the capture of Peking, and the unification of the country was announced less than two years ago.

"Doubtless the papers at home are full of stories of the present great effort to overthrow the Nanking government. Generals Yen Hsi Shang and Feng Yu Shang are calling on all the patriotic citizens of the country to unite in an attempt to drive out the traitor Chiang Kai Shek, who they say has usurped the presidency and surrounded himself with a large group of rapacious and self-seeking relatives. President Chiang has also issued proclamations calling on all the loyal citizens to unite in driving out these pestilential war lords who will not submit to the authority of the Central government. Easily a million soldiers are engaged on a wide front from Hankow to Shantung. The suffering and economic loss in the territory of the fighting is perfectly enormous. But more serious still is the loss of prestige to the whole country which such continued fighting entails.

"Back of all these storm clouds there is a silver lining as far as our work and safety is concerned. The normal attitude of the Chinese is not one of hatred for the foreigner. The unnatural wave of anti-foreign feeling, worked up by the Russian agitators in 1927, has largely subsided, so we have nothing to fear from the common people. The Chinese government is very anxious to receive the favorable recognition of the western powers. It knows that it must protect the lives and property of foreigners within its territory to receive this recognition. So from the people we have nothing to fear, and from the government we are afforded adequate protection. Consequently we have a sense of security in going about our work, which is quite out of proportion to the anxiety of many of our friends. Do not understand this to mean that all missionaries in all parts of China are safe. This is far from the case. But in view of the unsettled condition of the country at large, we have been surprisingly safe."

PEACE EFFORTS DISCUSSED IN KREG SPEECH

BY L. L. BEEMAN

I will continue my explanation of the efforts to end the war. In addition to those already mentioned there were three other efforts to establish peace made before the final one. One by the International Socialists, one by the Socialists of Germany and Austria, and one by the pope. The Internationalist Socialists' demand for peace was brought about by the Russian revolution. A Swede by the name of Branting, who was at the head of a Dutch-Scandinavian Socialist committee, invited Socialists of all nations to a meeting at Stockholm in March, 1917. The governments of the United States, France and England withheld passports from Socialist delegates and thus prevented them from attending. This Stockholm meeting failed. Then the Socialists of Germany and Austria met and drew up a peace program with the following provisions: (1) No annexations of territory. (2) No indemnities should be paid. That is to prevent any nation from making money out of the war. (3) Self-government should be given the subject peoples of Austria-Hungary. (4) Independence for Finland and Poland. (5) Commerce and commercial transportation lines on land and sea should be under the administration of an international authority. (6) The prohibition of the capture and arming of merchant vessels.

Pope Asks Peace

On August 1, 1917, the Catholic church through Pope Benedict XV, asked the belligerent powers to make peace on the following terms: (1) "Replace material force by the moral force of right." (2) Reduction of armaments. (3) The settlement of international disputes by arbitration. (4) Freedom of the seas. (5) No indemnities should be paid except in certain special cases. (6) The evacuation and restoring of all occupied territories. (7) An examination of rival territorial claims taking into consideration the aspirations of the populations.

President Wilson spoke for the Allies and flatly refused to accept the proposals tthough they included many of his most important "Fourteen points." He refused on the ground that the Allies could not negotiate with the irresponsible German officials. He said the German people must repudiate them, that the Allies would negotiate only with the German people.

Peace Principles

It is interesting to note in all these peace proposals that there are several principles in common. They are: (1) Freedom of the seas. (2) Freedom of trade. (3) Reduction of armaments. (4) The "self-determination of races," that is, any race or people should be free to determine for itself the kind of government it should have.

This fourth principle had more far-reaching results and caused more serious complications than any other principle. It is the fundamental principle of democracy and Locke and Jefferson said it is a natural and inherent right that cannot be taken away from a people, that it applies to all people everywhere.

In England, France, Italy and Russia till the revolution there, it was regarded as a good principle to be applied to the Central Powers, their enemies, but not to themselves. It was merely a military expedient for themselves. If all the subject races under the control of the Hohenzollerns, Hapsburgs and the Sultan were led to revolt and set up independent governments, the Allies of course would win easily. This is proven by the secret treaties by which Italy was to get not only her Italian territory and subjects but the Dalmatian coast inhabited by Serbs. Russia was to get Turkey in Europe and the Straits. Roumanians under Austrian authority were to bet set free and restored to Roumania, but Roumanians under Russian autocracy were not to be given their freedom and allowed to join their fellow countrymen. The Armenians under Turkish rule were to be given freedom but a much greater number of Armenians under Russian domination were not.

Independence Urged

The Poles, Czecho-Slovaks, Hungarians, Italians and Bosnians under the authority of Germany and Austria were urged to set up independent governments by the Allies. Some of them did and were recognized by France, England, United States. But they did not urge this great blessing upon the Finns, Esthonians, Latvians, Ukranians, and Armenians under the worst autocracy in the world, Russia, till after the Russian revolution and Russia became their enemy. After Russia had withdrawn from the war the secret treaty made with the Czar by which Russia was to get Constantinople was nullified by the Allies. Then to carry out the agreement between England, France and Italy and take care of Italian promises and interests the Greeks and Armenians and other Christians within the Turkish empire were sacrificed. There was no such thing as independence and self-government for them under the protection of the Allies. The massacre and deportation of these people was allowed to go on and is unparalleled in modern times, unless it be under the old regime in Russia. Some one has suggested that an appropriate epitaph for this million of Christians who were throughout the war enemies of Germany and friends of the Allies and who were massacred by the Turks would be, "They lost their lives because they were loyal to those who could have saved them."

Promise Forgotten

It should be noticed that England and France took and still hold against the will of the people of Palestine, Mesopotamia and Syria. Lord Balfour, foreign secretary for England, promised the Jews on November 2, 1917, Palestine for a national home, a promise forgotten as soon as the war was over. England did grant Hedjez, (Arabia) independence if she would revolt against Turkey. This promise she has kept but there were good military reasons for this. Egypt was given her freedom by England, but because of some trouble later, Egypt is at present under the domination of her old master, England.

Central Powers

We are now ready for the surrender of the Central Powers. You will remember that the famous Hindenburg line held at the same place for a little over three years, from December 1914 to the winter of 1918. During March 1918, the Germans began a new offensive along a 150 miles battle front on the west, extending from Rheims to Lille France. By June, they had driven the Allies back along this entire 150 or 200 mile line. The Germans had advanced to Chateau Thierry again, only 40 miles from Paris. The German big guns from behind the lines were dropping shells in Paris. All was fear and consternation in France and among the Allies. In May, the soldiers of the United States were first called into action at Chateau Thierry in a last heroic effort to check the onslaughts of the German army. They held an dthere was great rejoicing everywhere among the Allies. The French and their allies took heart again. On July the first, Marshal Foch ordered an offensive along the entire line from Switzerland to the sea, a distance of about 600 miles.

By this time there were over one million United States soldiers in France, well equipped and most of them ready for action. Three months later there were more than two million United States men in France. By September the Germans had been driven back past the Old Hindenburg line. The Allies were winning all along the line. This gave new hope to the Allies in the east, in the Balkans. A new army was organized there. It was composed of Serb, Greek, English and French troops. This army attacked Bulgaria and soon won a crushing victory. Bulgaria surrendered unconditionally on September 29, 1918. This was a serious blow to the Central Powers as it took one of them out of the war and divided them by cutting Turkey off. It also cut Germany off from rich and valuable supplies for her army from the east. General Allenby with a British Army had captured Palestine in 1917. He now took the offensive against Turkey from the south, capturing Syria and Mesopotamia and was pushing on north. At the same time Turkey was open to attack from the west. Thus exposed, she surrendered unconditionally on October 31.

Austria Crushed

The Italian army had taken the offensive against the Austrians. As Germany was now unable to send any assistance Austria was defeated and driven out of Italy. The subject peoples within the old Hapsburg empire now saw their opportunity for independence and freedom. With the encouragement and promised help of the Allies, they began to withdraw and set up new governments of their own. The Poles, the Czechs and Slovaks and Hungarians withdrew and set up three new republics. The Roumanians, Jugo-Slav and Italians also withdrew and each joined their fellow countrymen in new nations. Old Austria proper was helpless before the Allied armies, her people were starving and her government threatened with revolution. She threw herself on the mercy of the Allies and surrendered unconditionally on November 3.

As early as the middle of September the German military staff saw the "handwriting on the wall." The invincible German army was already defeated and might collapse at any time. The Allies, flushed with victory, were pressing forward rapidly and would within a few days or weeks be invading German soil. Consequently General Hindenburg and Ludendorff appealed to President Wilson for terms of armistice. President Wilson refused to treat with the old military and civil authorities, telling them that the German government must be changed so as to permit the people to rule, with whom he would talk terms of peace. Soon thereafter some changes were made in the laws and Wilson was informed that the people of Germany were now exercising the power. Wilson again refused to treat, saying the government had not been essentially changed and added that, "the nations of the world do not and can not trust the word of those who have hitherto been the masters of German policy." This meant that both the German military and civil officials must abdicate or resign and allow others to take charge of affairs in Germany. By October the German people suddenly got their eyes open. After four years of assurances of victory, territorial expansion and huge war indemnities, the truth could no longer be kept from them.

Kaiser Abdicates

The invincible German army was already defeated, soldiers and sailors were mutining, and the whole army was on the verge of surrender or collapse. Things moved quickly after this. The Kaiser abdicated, the chancellor resigned in favor of Frederick Ebert, the leader of the German Social Democrats in the Reichstag. The Kaiser and his government were gone, a new republican government was set up with Ebert as president. This new government was accepted by the German army and navy and the German officials, both state and national. The only opposition came from the radical socialists. Their two leaders, Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg were killed and opposition stopped.

On November 8, President Wilson turned the matter of peace over to Marshal Foch to make known to the German people the terms upon which they would agree to peace. These terms had been agreed upon among the Allied leaders. The new German government accepted the terms and the armistice was signed November 11, 1918. Thus ended the greatest of all wars and also the meteoric career of the German empire after an existence of 47 years. You will note I said the end of the German empire, not the German nation or people. They have a great record of past achievement and will yet in the future achieve many more great and good things.

RETIRED ARMY OFFICER TALKS TO LIONS CLUB

ORANGE, July 31.—Lt. Steve Donnley retired officer of the U. S. navy was the speaker at the Lions club yesterday when he gave interesting incidents of his career which extended over a period of 38 years when he enlisted in the marines as a boy of scarcely 14 years of age until his recent retirement with the rank of senior lieutenant.

The difference between naval craft of the present day and naval craft of his early years as a seaman, were told by the speaker.

Diving methods of the past and present, were explained by the naval officer who said that while a diver might be lowered 300 feet in the water in three minutes time, it might take hours before he could be brought safely back to the surface after having been under such extreme pressure.

In former years the diver was left in the sea and drawn to the surface slowly, the speaker declared, but at the present time he may be brought up quickly and placed in a tank where the pressure approximates that of the water from which he was taken. The pressure is gradually lessened by mechanical means until danger of physical injury is removed.

The part Donnley played in the World war was of especial interest and the story of his capture by a German submarine in the Mediterranean was dramatically related. The more modern phases of warfare and of aviation in which Lt. Donnley is greatly interested, were told, the speaker telling of forced landings he had made as a flyer and other thrilling air experiences.

At the close of his talk the officer was asked to sing "My Wild Irish Rose" and he responded with "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," as an encore.

Oscar Leichtfuss was song leader and a newly organized Lions quartet sang several selections. The quartet includes Jack Price, John Fouch, Paul Meunch, and Norbert Lentz. John Fouch was program chairman.

DEER IN PARK REMEMBERS EL MODENA FRIEND

ORANGE, July 31.—Geo. Bartley, constable of Orange township, firmly believes that animals have good memories and as proof of this he offers the fact that the doe which he gave as an addition to the Irvine park herd three years ago has never forgotten him and never fails to greet him with a friendly nudge of her head whenever he visits the park.

Bartley bought the doe in the north and for three months kept her at his home at El Modena where she became greatly attached to him. Later he presented her to the park and often visited her there, taking with him things which she was fond of eating. The doe, whose name is "Nannie" is now a proud grandmother as two of her fawns are mothers.

At the present time Bartley says there are 14 deer in the herd, the greater number of the animals being does. Nannie's first fawn was a doe which was named "Violet."

There are two spiked bucks which caretakers at the park are anxious to dispose of, Bartley says.

The herd is viewed by hundreds of visitors to the park each week but only Nannie and Violet are especially friendly to human beings.

DISCUSSION ON NEW CHRISTIAN SERVICE HELD

ORANGE, July 31.—A very interesting and lively discussion was held last night by the members of the Christian church as they again considered the proposed change to the "Graded Unified Service of Worship and Instruction." The pastor, Franklin H. Minck, led the discussion, on "Advantages and Disadvantages of the Proposed Plan."

Some of the disadvantages were felt to be without much real foundation, but it was felt that there are some difficulties connected with the fact that the plan is new. This involves a great deal of teaching before it will be understood. The difficulty of being on time at the early hour was raised and the fact that the two church services would divide the morning congregation into two parts. The whole question here is whether enough will come to compensate for the division or whether circumstances will alter so that one church service can be held at 9:30 a. m.

The advantages were also discussed. It was felt that the young people are entitled to a vital part in the church service which will thus be of interest to them. It will unite their loyalties to the church rather than splitting it between Sunday school, Christian Endeavor and church. It gives people a chance of coming to a 9 or an 11 a. m. church service. An earlier dinner or an earlier start on a trip will be possible by coming at nine. It gives more time for Christian education. It provides for one worship service for each person rather than one at Sunday school and another at church. Preparation is made for every worship service one week in advance. This instruction will make the worship vital to the lives of the people. And finally it was felt that having the two services would result in more people hearing the gospel preached.

No decision will be made until September.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

Miss Cruickshank In Finals

S. A. NET STAR WINNER OVER EDITH CROSS

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 31.—Two California women tennis stars advanced to the final round of the Seabright invitation tournament today.

Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper, Oakland, Calif., defeated Virginia Hilleary, of Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-2, while Miss Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Calif., beat Miss Edith Cross, another Pacific Coast player, 6-2, 6-3.

Both Miss Cruickshank and Mrs. Harper were in top form and ran through their matches without the loss of a set.

Miss Cruickshank, tenth ranking

American singles player, eliminated the country's third ranking star when she won from Miss Cross.

Mrs. Harper's victory was at the expense of a young player whose triumphs this summer have been the sensation of eastern tournaments. Miss Hilleary is ranked fourteenth.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 31.—Continuing his sensational tennis career on eastern courts, Ellsworth Vines, lanky Pasadena, Cal., youth, entered the semi-final round of the Seabright invitation tournament today to face Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., second ranking player. It was the second meeting between the pair within a week, Vines having beaten Hunter in five sets in the Metropolitan turf courts championship Sunday.

'Cozy' Dolan Is Arrested As Club Raided

CHICAGO, July 31.—"Cozy" Dolan, former New York Giant coach who was barred from organized baseball by Commissioner Landis in 1924, was under arrest today, charged with violating the prohibition laws.

Federal dry agents, led by Thadd Rowden, new deputy administrator for this district, raided Dolan's Gold Coast Night club late last night, confiscated 12 cases of liquor, 500 bottles of beer and a quantity of wine and arrested Dolan and six other men.

In 1924, Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell were accused of attempting to bribe Heinie Sand of Philadelphia to "throw" a game so the Giants could win the pennant.

LEGION SCORES EASY VICTORY: EASTERNS WIN

City league night baseball fanciers said today that the team to whip for the second half championship was the American Legion, which won its third straight victory of the new season when it manhandled the Excelsior creamery, 18 to 2, in the Bowl last night.

With the venerable veteran, "Oil" Jones, in his 1914 form, the Excelsiors had a tough time making any headway against the river of funs that poured all around them. Jones limited the Milk-Peddlers to five hits, three of which were bunched to score the two Excelsior tallies in the fourth, while his buddies were blasting bingles to every section of the Bowl.

The Legion made two runs in the first, six in the third and four in both the fourth and seventh. Fred Robertson contributed three hits. Barker, Wood, Bacon, Murillo and Boyle all hit safely twice.

The first half of the doubleheader also witnessed a one-sided slug-fest, with the Eastern Oil out in front of the Courthouse, 15 to 8. Bacon paced the Oilers with four bingles. Friend got three and Hudson, Smith, Lutz and Wishardt two.

The Auto Club of Orange County plays the Pacific Telephone company tonight. The score:

FOOTBALL NOTE

An innovation in midwestern football circles—the numbering of his players, both fore and aft—will be tried out this fall by Noble Kizer, below, young head football coach at Purdue university, who plans to make it easy for spectators, radio announcers and newspaper correspondents to identify the Boilermakers.

The jersey of each athlete will bear an eight-inch number on the back and a six-inch number on the front.

JESS FAVORED: HERNANDEZ IN SEMI-WINDUP

Two little fistic robots who can give and take punishment mingle tonight in an eight-round main event at Promoter H. T. Foust's Orange County Athletic club. One is Tony Moreno, the "fighting fool" from Placentia; the other Jess Gabucco, game, tough little Filipino.

They will be exchanging leather for the third time, trying to decide which is the better man—a much disputed subject up to now.

Gabucco knocked out Moreno the first time he met up with Ralph Pantusso's courageous protege. Jess was hotter than a firecracker that night, and he was fighting a raw, inexperienced youngster from the bushes who was scared stiff as he sat in a corner of a "big time" ring for the first time in his life. Fans will remember that the bout was staged in Hollywood.

Year Between Bouts

There was an interlude of a solid year before Moreno got a chance to erase the stigma of that defeat, one of the very few on his record book.

Promoter Foust paired Moreno and Gabucco at Delhi two weeks ago tonight, and Moreno won. The decision was questioned but Moreno won just the same.

So the bantams, scaling 124 pounds, enter the ring all square this evening.

Gabucco has been installed a slight favorite but there is no particular reason why except that most everybody except Referee Steve Nyland believed the Filipino was a little better than Tony two weeks ago.

Moreno is a bad one to bet against, however, and the argument looks like a tossup in every respect.

Fast Fight Predicted

One thing is certain. Barring a quick knockout, Delhi fans should see one of the fastest fights of the season. Moreno and Gabucco are geared to speed, and they hit well for little fellows, too. Both can "take it" so the odds are against a repetition of their Hollywood battle.

Steve Nyland will be the third man in the ring again.

The state boxing commission now allows clubs to pick their own officials. Foust has selected Nyland, Bob White and Jack McDonald as the Delhi referees because they have done the best work here. It happens to be Nyland's turn to work tonight. McDonald will be in there next week and White the week after.

Hernandez Favored

Ortego has never shown at Foust's arena but he is reported to be good and game enough to test the rugged Hernandez, about ready to step out as a main-eventer in his own right.

An Ortego triumph would set Hernandez back in his classwork considerably but such an event is not likely. Hernandez is always a good bet. He is young and strong and ambitious.

"Spike" Harvey and Mickey Koshell head the preliminaries.

The other bouts probably will have to carry this one. Harvey is strictly a boxer and Koshell is just so-so. Harvey should outbox the Mick.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Four or five times is all that Bill Tilden ever uses one tennis racquet ..He discards it then for a new one..The discards always go to William T. Tilden III, No. 1 ranking player on the Haverford school team and nephew of Big Bill II.. Young Bill bids fair to become as great in the tennis game as his uncle..He's the son of Herbert M. Tilden, Big Bill's brother, who died 15 years ago..Philadelphia tennis fans say that Herb was better than Bill..but he gave up competitive play to develop his brother into the greatest tennis player this country has known..Young Bill looks like Uncle Bill..he's 16, weighs 175, stands a half inch over six feet tall ..and has a marked facial resemblance to his uncle.."Uncle Bill showed me how to hold a racquet a long time ago," said the boy.. "It's one of the first things I can remember"..Bill III wears knickers when he plays..Which offers quite a contrast to Bill II in white ducks.

NEW WORLDS TO CONQUER

It is evident that William Woodward reads more than just the racing news on the sports pages. He has announced that Gallant Fox, his sturdy thoroughbred, will go to England in search of prizes, immediately following the American three-year-old champion's campaign in this country.

Mr. Woodward must have noted in the sports pages that Americans haveb een capturing British honors right and left this year. The double triumph of Bobby Jones in golf and the tennis victories of Bill Tilden, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody must have convinced Gallant Fox's owner that the time to strike is while the iron is hot.

And so the son of Sir Gallahad III-Marguerite, who has won six consecutive stake race victories this season, will be led aboard an ocean liner and shipped to England, immediately following the running of

WISE PLAYERS MOST APT TO PULL 'BONERS'

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, July 31.—There apparently comes a time in the lives of men, even the most subtle of them, when the mind turns traitor and refuses to have anything further to do with the rest of the body. When that time comes, their legs start doing things at random—with the inevitable result.

Burleigh Grimes is known all over the baseball wheel as an intelligent ball player who is perfectly capable of doing his own pitching and hitting—and thinking. An analytical type, his opinions on ball field matters are respected, and, indeed, valued. Yet on the occasion of his first appearance in a Boston box score, he committed the unpardonable sin. He very abruptly stole third with the bases filled.

As a matter of fact, it might seem that only the wise are capable of outstanding absurdities in the plain view of all that baseball affords. The dullard is a conscious painstaking thinker. He quickly settles into the grove of baseball tactics and is careful never to transgress routine. Maybe he dimly realizes that he is not quite bright and so is constantly vigilant against mental error.

How else can one account for the fact that highly intelligent men like Fred Merkle, Dave Bancroft, Lazzeri, Koenig, and others have been guilty of the immemorial bone?

I have no acquaintance, personal or otherwise with the equipment of John Anderson, the original anatomist o fthe diamond. All one knows is that he is famed in rhyme and sonnet as the pioneer of a play that calls for a clean steal of second with all of the bases occupied.

"Red" Faber Did It, Too

Nor does one hear of Urban "Red" Faber, the venerable gentleman of Chicago, as being notable for a lack of intelligence. Yet in the midst of the 1917 world series, of which he was the pitching hero, he stole third quite without warning. In fact, he even neglected to take the base runners on first and third into his confiednce.

By this time, the point about the high degree of Merkle's intelligence has been sufficiently emphasized. So has the fact that his negligence was important only be-

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

Nothing succeeds like success, and so today the girl nobody knew is the most observed of the observers.

With any kind of luck at all, Josephine Cruickshank—Santa Ana's own Helen Wills Moody—will rank one-two-three-four among America's women tennis players by the end of her summer's campaign on Eastern courts.

There is no more improved player in the country than this comely envoy who has labored against so many unfortunate circumstances in the past.

Already this season she has beaten virtually every woman who ranks above her in the official ratings of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

First she won the National Collegiate singles championship. Schoolgirl opposition was just a breeze for Miss Cruickshank who went through the tournament with the loss of but four games.

At Essex, one of the major tournaments, Miss Josephine was eliminated only in the semi-finals by her doubles partner, "Midge" Gladman of Santa Monica, but only after three sets, 1-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Today she reached the final round at Seabright by defeating Miss Edith Cross, third ranking American woman player, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3. Other victims in this tournament include Dorothy Weisel, California state champion, at 6-3, 10-8; Ethel Burkhardt, eighth ranking in the nation, 8-6, 6-4, and Mary Lamme of New York, 7-5, 5-7, 6-2.

Mrs. Harper is one of the finest shotmakers in the world but Miss Cruickshank defeated her at Essex, 8-6, 2-6, 6-2, and if she is on her game probably will repeat at Seabright.

While she is too fine a sportswoman ever to complaint, tennis followers know that Miss Cruickshank was the unluckiest of players the two times she competed in the National Women's tournament at Forest Hills.

We all have the right to hope that misfortune does not overtake her on this, the most successful of her invasions.

Two years ago, her first entry into the "big league" of courtdom, the Santa Ana girl was paired in the very first round against the invincible Helen Wills, now Mrs. Moody, who is without an equal in the tennis world. The then Miss Wills naturally defeated Miss Cruickshank. Scores were 6-1, 6-0.

Lightning never repeats, they claim, but it did last season. Miss Cruickshank's first round opponent was Phoebe Watson, a member of the British Wightman cup team and in many ways England's premier player. Mrs. Watson eliminated Miss Josephine in straight sets, although the Santa Anan played some fine tennis.

On the strength of her splendid form this summer, it is reasonable to assume that the tennis powers-that-be will "seed" Miss Cruickshank in the 1930 tournament. This is done with all ranking players. It is a system that prevents outstanding players from meeting in the early rounds and exterminating each other to the elimination of public interest before the semi-final and final rounds are reached.

Miss Cruickshank will play in tournaments at East Hampton and Rye before going to Forest Hills for the Nationals which begin August 18.

'TUFFY' STOPS HEENEY, SPOILS BOUT FOR MAX

NEW YORK, July 31.—"Tuffy" Griffiths, of Sioux City, Ia., scored a technical knockout over Tom Heeney of New Zealand, when Heeney was unable to answer the bell for the final round of a scheduled 10-round bout at the Queensboro stadium last night.

Griffiths deserved his victory for he had done most all of the leading and received almost no punishment from the Anzac.

Griffiths, who scaled 187 against Heeney's 205 1-2, was credited with winning every round after the third. Heeney won the first round because Griffiths had been knocked halfway through the ropes within the first minute of the round. The second and third were even.

Unlike most recent bouts, the contest produced no aftermaths. Boxing circles here had it that Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, intended to use Heeney as a "warm-up" for his charge if Heeney made a creditable showing against the Iowan. Heeney, however, showed nothing to warrant such a move. He was saved from a knockout when the bell ended the ninth round. Griffiths had scored solid blows to the head and body near the end of the ninth,

Heeney went down, came back up in a hunch, ready to accept the coup de grace when the bell sounded.

HUNTINGTON BEACH STARS' FRIDAY FOES

Santa Ana night baseball fans can take their pick of two attractive games tomorrow night.

They either can trek to Huntington Beach and see the Stars arrayed for the last time this year against Howard Morning, or they can remain at home and watch Santa Ana and Westminster fight it out for the Orange County "B" league championship in the Bowl.

Both contests promise to be close and interesting.. After weeks of bad baseball, Morning, once greatest of all owl pitchers, has regained his old form and figures to give Santa Ana a torrid argument all the way. Joe Cornelius will work for the Stars, according to Manager Herb Salveson's plans.

SHOOTING with SHUTE

by DENNY SHUTE

I have heard many golfers say that holding a position at the head of the field, after attaining leadership before the final round begins, is one of the hardest things about medal play golf. I disagree with them.

Being in front never has held any terrors for me. Frankly, I think that is the main reason I have enjoyed greater success as a professional than I did as an amateur.

While leading the field there are many things to think about, but I usually figure out just what I have to do, then do it. I would, as a matter of fact, rather be ahead than a few strokes behind. It seems easier to me to hold a lead than to go out and get one.

In the two big tournaments I won during the winter, I got away to a lead before the final round and held it. In each case, I just figured out what I had to do, not making it too hard on myself, and did it.

I started the final round of the Los Angeles Open determined to get a 75. I knew that El Espinosa, who was following me, would have to get a 71 to tie me (I had a four-stroke lead) and would have to be under par to beat me.

Taking the rain and the slow condition of the course into consideration, I didn't think he had a chance to break par, or equal it. Furthermore, I didn't figure I did, either. However, a 75 seemed like easy sailing for me, so I went out after it. I actually came in with a 74 and had two three-putt greens I wouldn't have had if I had been concentrating. I think that method cures the inclination to get worried and lose ground, a fault of so many players when they're out in front.

cause it was the means of deciding the 1908 pennant race. Likewise the fact that he only did what many another had done in similar circumstances — without, however being apprehended. Merkle simply was the victim of fate.

Bancroft's lapse and that of Lazzeri and Koenig were far more reprehensible, yet I doubt if many now recall the former and I have talked with baseball men who never even heard of the latter, although it happened only a few weeks ago. It happened, as a matter of fact, on the opening day in Philadelphia. Haas was on first base and was forced at second, Koenig to Lazzeri. The latter deemed the side to have been retired, and, rolling the ball into the middle of the infield, started for the bench.

Koenig was a little brighter, but not enough so. He retrieved the ball, and to the amazement of all, he started chasing Haas, the man who had been retired only a moment before, toward third. Meantime Simmons, advanced unmolested from first base. He scored, within the minute on a clean single to the outfield.

As for David J. Bancroft, admittedly one of the split-second thinkers of the profession, he was at the time of his shame McGraw's field captain and, as such, was required to be so smart that he even was expected to know what McGraw was thinking. The Giants were playing the Cubs this time and Bancroft was on third base, with first and second also occupied. But the man on first got too frisky and was picked off, leaving that base "open."

A moment later, the batter walked, and to the astonishment of everybody, Bancroft calmly started walking toward the plate. Bob O'Farrell, then catching for the Cubs, saw him coming, and, just as calmly, he waited, ball in hand. When Mr. Bancroft got close enough to tag, Mr. O'Farrell tagged him and the incident was closed.

TRAINS SLAUGHTER DEER IN COLORADO

DENVER, July 31.—(INS)—Colorado game officials today were puzzling over a method of reventing the unrecedented slaughter of door by railroad locomotives running west of Pueblo, between Salida and Canon City.

Deer have become so lentiful in that section that on almost every trip of a railroad train one or more of the animals are killed, according to the game officials.

At the approach of a train, the deer become confused and often seek to escape by running along the railroad track.

Five deer were killed at one time by a train the other day, and, although the number of such deaths is on the increase, no plan to save the deer has yet been worked out, according to R. G. Parvin, state game and fish commissioner.

Mickey Walker Is Knockout Winner

NEWARK, N. J., July 31.—Mickey Walker of Rumson, N. J., world's middleweight champion, knocked out Willie Oster of Boston, former navy champion, in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout before a crowd of 20,000 at Dreamland park last night. Walker's title was not at stake as both boxers came over the middleweight limit.

CHANCES LOOK GOOD

Mr. Woodward's decision to ship the American champion to foreign tracks was not reached until after he had given it considerable thought. The successes he has known abroad with his extensive string of thoroughbreds during the past few years was a determining factor. It is barely possible, too, that Mr. Woodward looked upon this as an American year of triumphs in England, in view of what has gone on.

The Fox will be given several weeks to become fully acclimated and familiar to running on sod. His trainer's instructions will be to get him in perfect condition and then race him in as many stakes as he may prove eligible to start in.

There is every reason to believe that Gallant Fox will win on British soil as he has won in this country. He has the speed and if he is allowed to become accustomed to English racing conditions, he should succeed. Reigh Count, the American three-year-old champion in 1928, made an extensive tour of England and enriched his owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz of Chicago, by several thousand dollars. Lord Derby who watched Gallant Fox race to an easy victory in the Kentucky derby said he could step in the fastest company with success.

Scout II, son of Sir Gallahad III and half brother of Gallant Fox, was listed among the favorites in the Epsom Downs derby. He finished outside of the money, but his decisive victory later in the Lincolnshire places him in high rank among the thoroughbreds of England.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Connie Mack, who worried a little about his wobbly pitching and shady hitting recently, now declares that his boys will win out.. "They're beginning to click now," are the words of the veteran manager..Connie still likes to talk of the last world series..In spite of what everybody said of Howard Ehmke and "Lefty" Grove in that series, Connie thinks Earnshaw did the niftiest job of pitching..although he lost, 3 to 1..John McGraw still lives in hopes that he'll find a Jewish ball player who can play good ball..Scout Dick Kinsella, who roams the coast circuit for McGraw, was instructed to supply at least one Jewish lad this season ..His contribution was Harry Rosenberg..If Rosenberg becomes a turnstile magnet this year, it is because the Bronx boys like the way he hits fungoes to the outfielders in practice.

John Pesek, the Nebraska Tiger man, who claims he can't get guys like Sonnenberg, Londos and Shikat to wrestle him, would go into the fight game right now . . . if Al Haft, his manager, would let him . . . The flame was kindled in Pesek after he had seen Carnera in a boxing exhibition. . . . "Listen, Al," and Haft listened, "if that big fellow can make a million dollars in the fight game, I can make two million," said the Tiger Man. . . . He's handy with his dukes, at that . . . Pesek's like a lot of other fellows, though—fellows who predominate in one branch of sport . . . Jack Dempsey pestered Jack Kearns with a crazy desire to take up wrestling. . . . Babe Ruth once wanted to become a boxer . . . Willie Hoppe always wanted to be a ball player. . . . Denny Shute would become a wrestler if they'd create a flea-weight division . . . and George Simpson always envied the husky football players.

Wolgast Signs To Box Chato Laredo

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—Midget Wolgast of New York, flyweight champion, today signed for a match with Chato Laredo, Mexican titleholder, here August 19. Wolgast, who gained a technical knockout over Speedy Dado Tuesday night, will meet Canto Robleto at the Hollywood Legion arena next week.

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, July 31.—Miss Hazel Armantrout and LaVerne P. Philbrick were calling on friends in Midway City recently. The young couple had been to Santa Ana where they took out a marriage license. Miss Armantrout is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Armantrout who recently moved from Midway City to Lancaster. Mr. Armantrout was the local pharmacist and Mrs. Armantrout first postmistress of Midway City. Miss Armantrout was going from here to Balboa to take a friend back to Lancaster with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper and two sons who have been the house-guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Shirey the past month, left Tuesday for their home in Lancaster, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Ashworth of South Dakota, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keller of Adams street, Midway City. Mr. Ashworth is Mrs. Keller's brother.

Miss Norene Thompson is spending a few days in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Whittet entertained as recent guests Dr. and Mrs. H. Herold, friends from Alhambra. The two couples motored to Newport Beach for a swim and later the Whittet's were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Herold at dinner in Long Beach.

Mrs. Houlihan, who has been on vacation, has returned from a two weeks spent at Lake Arrowhead where Mr. Houlihan spent a part of the time.

Since her return home Mrs. Houlihan has been in Long Beach where she was the guest at a party Friday evening and remained over with friends in that city until Sunday.

Miss Lillian Arnett returned Monday evening from Cedar Pines where she was the week-end guest of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. P. Heil and family and Mr. and Mrs. Armand Heil and family returned Tuesday night from a 10 days' vacation spent at Big Basin. The party of 11 camped out oil of the time they were away and while at the resort made two side trips, one to Santa Cruz and the other to San Jose. They went by way of the inland route, returning by the coast route.

Mrs. Ed. L. Hensley and daughter, Miss Illamae Hensley and Miss Margaret Edward were at a reception held at the Municipal club house at Recreation park, Long Beach, by the Woman's Symphony Orchestra of Long Beach of which they three are members. The local group were among the honorees of the social affair, the reception being for those playing orchestral instruments. Mrs. Hensley and Miss Hensley gave two trumpet duets on the evening's program. About 150 were in attendance at the reception.

Mrs. Maud Doty, sister of Mrs. Ed. L. Hensley, who has been a guest in the Hensley home, has returned to her home at Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Late News From Orange County Communities

Remarkable Life Saving Crew Developed At Laguna

EFFICIENCY OF GUARDS SHOWN IN TRIAL TEST

LAGUNA BEACH, July 31.—First aid and life saving efficiency were demonstrated just before noon Wednesday in an authorized test on the central beach. The purpose was to make sure of co-ordination of the crews, of the training of the guards particularly and of the use of apparatus in emergency.

Though the test was unexpected by the first aid squad of the fire department, the quick response made and the efficient manner in which the crew worked showed the training given. It was the first opportunity that the beach guards had had to make an emergency rescue. More than a dozen ways in which the work could be improved were discovered as a result of the emergency test, it was reported by Dana Lamb. These ranged from launching of the boat to the handling of the crowd after the rescued person was brought in. As a result, it is expected that many improvements will be made.

The fact that many persons might be frightened was expected by those who knew of the test, but the desirability of demonstrating under actual conditions was considered essential.

Nearly 120 persons have been given some training in lifesaving and first aid on the beach, a crew of 26 trained guards has been developed, 16 of whom are adults, and three women guards are in attendance devoting their attention to small children. Few communities anywhere can boast of such preparedness, it is claimed.

The competent manner in which the first aid squad of the fire department took charge of the case was the subject of much favorable comment. During the last two years the most essential part of the department has been this corps. Comparatively few calls have been made this year on it.

Miss Harriet Shattuck was the young woman serving as "victim" in the "rescue" Wednesday.

Arrested, Pays Bail, Visits Tia Juana, Then Weds

SAN CLEMENTE, July 31.—A speeding auto Tia Juana bound, a vigilant cop, Harry Comber, a judge, Fred S. Warner, and a fine all resulted in a marriage at San Clemente Monday. It all happened this way.

Last week Max West, 24, Los Angeles and his fiancee, Helen Becker, 20, Hollywood, were speeding to Tia Juana marriage bound. At San Clemente they were arrested for traffic violation, put up bail and went on their way, but in Tia Juana they could not get married due to new Mexican legislation. They came back to San Clemente where the judge fined West $20. On hearing of the marriage plans, Judge Warner stated he would remit the fine when the couple wed.

West went to Santa Ana, secured a license to wed on Saturday and was married in San Clemente on Monday. They then proceeded to Tia Juana where the honeymoon was spent. The marriage was performed by Judge Landell in the Ole Hanson patio, as Warner was absent.

HUMMING BIRD MOTHS CAUGHT IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, July 31.—Other specimens of "humming-bird" moths are being "captured" following the announcement of the moth that the police department had "kept in jail" over night only for it to die before morning.

Dick Gearhart, 8, of 224 Berkeley avenue, Fullerton has caught three of the rare moths in his neighborhood.

The humming-bird moth known more scientifically as Celerio Lineata, has been reported from Santa Barbara county in large numbers but as yet has not penetrated the south to a great extent, it is said.

Dick Gearhart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Gearhart. The Gearharts report that they saw one of the moths at Laguna Beach July 4, but did not know then what it was. This is believed to be the earliest report on one of the moths south of Santa Barbara.

Young Gearhart makes a hobby of collecting moth specimens, having about 25 now, according to his parents.

CLEMENTE GOLFERS NEARLY WIN MATCH

SAN CLEMENTE, July 31.—San Clemente golfers nearly stole the show at the regular monthly golf tourney of the Orange County Coast association held at Catalina this week. As it was, Jess Heinecke and Bob Plume of the Spanish village tied for second place, just a stroke behind Bus Talbert and J. K. MacDonald of Huntington Beach who had a 119 for low net. James Knight and Jess Armitage of Sunset Beach with 120 tied with Plume and Heinecke. Third honors went to G. Scherck and Hal Warner with a net 123.

MacDonald parred the Catalina course with a 67 which gave him low gross honors. Knight with a 51 was the leader among the low net players. Heinecke's 74 was second gross while Scherck's 55 was second low net score.

Hal Warner, Heinecke, Plume, Win Keerl, J. C. Herbsman, G. Scherck and A. Travaglini and Hr. and Mrs. Dan Mulherron comprised the San Clemente party. An Italian dinner at Milano cafe, Long Beach, Sunday night climaxed the outing.

LETTER TELLS REASON OF AIR BASE SHIFTING

FULLERTON, July 31. — The policy of moving the army air base from San Diego, separating it from the navy base, has been a forced necessity due to the lack of ground on the North Island site, it is explained in a letter received here today by H. M. May, secretary of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce, in reply to a telegram protesting the removal.

"Due to the increased activity in the navy on North Island, sufficient space is not available to accommodate both the army and the navy activities at Rockwell field. Therefore the army air corps is forced to procure other sites," the letter said.

Moving of the corps will not weaken defense, it was claimed because of the great mobility of the units "making it possible to concentrate these units at vital points within a very short period of time."

"It has been decided," the letter stated, "to station the army air corps activities as follows: Air depot at Alameda county, the bombardment group at Marin county, and the pursuit group at Marsh field . It will be noted that this is an increase over the present army air corps units."

GETS 50 DAYS ON CHARGE OF THEFT

Investigation by the district attorney's office and members of the county fruit patrol of sales of fruit made by a Mexican to a Japanese merchant at Artesia, resulted yesterday in the confession of the guilty man and his sentence in Fullerton justice court.

Sam Snodgrass, of the fruit patrol, began the investigation, which through the co-operation of the Artesia merchant who gave the authorities the auto license of the man who was bringing the fruit, and the work of the district attorney's office, resulted in the apprehension of the asserted culprit. The suspected man, Steven Reyes, 43, who lives on the ranch of Paul Nicholas from which the thefts totaling 12 boxes of fruit had been made, confessed his activities after a grilling from Deputy District Attorney Sam Collins. He entered a plea of guilty to petty theft in the justice court and was given a fine of $1000, with his choice of spending 50 days in the county jail in lieu of paying the fine.

DEFER ACTION ON FULLERTON CLEANING SHOP

FULLERTON, July 31.—Discussion of the right for the Unique Cleaners to continue in business at 122 East Amerige avenue, its present location, even though it be remodeled to conform to the new state law, was given late yesterday when the city council met with Frank D. Scovel, state deputy fire marshal.

Definite action will be taken by the city council at its regular meeting next Tuesday relative to the cleaning establishment.

Scovel said that the state would compel the remodeling of the plant even if it remained in the present location.

The question before the city council centers on whether the city building code will be cited to compel the removal of the plant. Scovel said that the state does not limit the stringency of any municipal regulations.

The entire question arose about four weeks ago when H. L. Dawson, proprietor of Unique Cleaners, made application for a permit to remodel his establishment in accordance with the new state law on cleaning plants. Property owners near the plant petitioned the council to compel the plant to move to an "industrial section" because of the obnoxious fumes and odors of the place as well as the automobile parking in front of the resident homes.

Members of the city council present at the meeting yesterday were Mayor W. L. Hale, O. A. Kreighbaum and W. B. Potter. Fire Chief R. R. Davis and Acting Building Inspector C. M. Thorpe also attended.

Westminster Water Bonds To Be Sold

WESTMINSTER, July 31.—It is estimated that it will be about six months before the work of installing the Westminster municipal water system can be begun, that being the minimum time considered possible in which the bonds may be advertised and sold and all necessary legal proceedings gone through with.

This will give time for the system to be in working order before the water troubles for next summer begin.

BUENA PARK, July 31.—Tom Pickerill, secretary of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce, gave a talk on the "Cost of Crime and Carelessness," before the Buena Park Kiwanis club Tuesday evening. He stated that Orange county alone spends $480,000 a year on crime, not including the amount spent by the state and nation. His admonition was to prevent crime and thereby reduce this tremendous expense. He commended church school and clubs as agencies to educate crime, as education is the means by which the number of prisons and the extent of the police forces will be reduced. The speaker was introduced by W. H. Whitemore, who was in charge of the program.

Visitors present were S. T. Treff of La Habra, P. H. Mattner, John Strickland and T. D. Robertson of Fullerton and R. Quinnel of Los Angeles.

This Man Puzzled --- Lost 19 Pounds of Fat

Wants to Know Where The Fat Went to

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

This man was fat—60 pounds overweight—wanted to stay home every night and nurse the old arm chair—getting in and out of his auto was all the exercise he cared for—his desire for any form of activity had died years ago.

Then one night as he read the evening paper cheering news broke for him—he read the story of Kruschen Salts—what it was doing for the fat folks of America—they were losing fat—and plenty of it.

The next morning he started—one generous half teaspoon of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast—every morning the same—in a week he wanted to walk to business—he didn't know why—but the urge for activity seemed to flood his whole being and he followed the urge.

His wife was astonished—delighted—and when one evening he said with eagerness—"Let's go to a show tonight, dear,"—her joy was unbounded.

That virile Kruschen feeling that means more energy—more vigor—more ambition took possession of him—he took long walks every day—and enjoyed them.

He got on the scales one evening and came home with sprightly step—"eleven pounds of fat gone" he almost hollered—he danced a few steps with the activeness of youth—and his wife danced with him.

Soon 19 pounds of unneeded and unwanted fat had left him and he marveled—and his friends marveled with him.

"Where did it all go to?" he asked and no one could answer.

Kruschen Salts drives poisonous waste from the system—it acts on liver, kidneys and stomach and keeps them in tip-top condition—it keeps you feeling fit and fine all the time.

Mateer's Drug Co., and Givens and Cannon and leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts for 85c a bottle which lasts 4 weeks.—adv.

Tree Sitter Down After Staying Up For Over 96 Hours

Santa Ana was once more without a representative tree sitter last night, when Bruce Harnois, treetop dweller, made a forced landing from his platform on account of "engine trouble," after exactly 96 hours and 25 minutes in the boughs.

The "engine trouble," after a thorough investigation by his mother, was found to consist of stomache and headache, due to lack of exercise. Bruce also had insurficient sleep, his family said, because of people passing during the night and stopping under the tree. Another reason for his coming down, Bruce stated, was that he had to appear as a witness in the Huntington Beach justice court today. Having not quite negotiated 100 hours the contestant was still 400 and some odd hours away from the old car offered to him as a prize by his brother.

SUGGEST PARTY FOR BEACH ON 25TH BIRTHDAY

NEWPORT-BALBOA, July 31.—A 10-day celebration next year to mark a quarter-century of existence of the city of Newport Beach is suggested by Secretary G. C. Macleod of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce in an article in the annual harbor deveolpment edition of the local newspapers issued today.

The City of Newport Beach was incorporated September 1, 1906, and on September 1, 1931, it will be 25 years old. With the city's natal day coming September 1, Labor Day September 7 and Admission day September 9, next year, there will be a fine opportunity, the article says, for an event to celebrate the progress attained in this city's first 25 years, especially during the past few years.

The election to decide whether Newport Beach should be incorporated was held August 21, 1906, and the small beginnings of the city may be seen from the fact that although it was the "busy" summer season, the vote was: for incorporation 42, against 12.

In 1910 the federal census showed the city's population as 465, in 1920 it was 894, and this year, 2200. Newport Beach township, which includes the city and Costa Mesa, have 5237 and had the fastest growth in Orange county during the last decade, although the county as a whole grew nearly 100 per cent.

John King, now living in Los Angeles, was the first chairman of the board of city trustees, which met for the first time September 3, 1906. The other members of the board were C. T. Lancaster, deceased; George T. Peabody, also now living in Los Angeles; A. L. Lester and A. N. Smith, the latter still residing here.

The first city marshal was J. W. Stuckenbruck, the first city treasurer J. H. Sharps and the first city clerk, L. S. Wilkinson. Stuckenbruck and Sharps are both dead. Wilkinson only a few months ago was pensioned by the Southern Pacific and is still active in civic affairs here.

20-30 CLUB IN FULLERTON IS PLANNING MEET

ANAHEIM, July 31.—One hundred and fifty members and their wives are expected to be present when the Anaheim 20-30 club entertain representatives from all other Southren California organizations of that name at a preconvention meeting to be held here on Saturday, August 9.

Clinton Griggs, vice-president of the club, has been given general charge of arrangements for the affair and some interesting events have been planned. Opening the day's activities will be a luncheon at the Elks' clubhouse for the delegates, and a bridge-luncheon at the same place, for wives and friends of the club members.

At the business session in the afternoon plans will be made for the state convention to be held at San Jose August 29 to September 1. The business session will be followed by a dinner-dance in the evening.

At the weekly meeting of the club Dr. Ray Lieser, past president of the Oceanside 20-30 club, one of the largest organizations in Southern California, addressed the local club with helpful methods of promoting the growth and interest in service club circles.

Members of the Orange county units of the California National Guard now in camp at San Luis Obispo enjoyed their annual "big feed" at camp last night, with a turkey dinner and all the accompaniments thereof, according to word received from Lieut. James B. Pettit. Ice cream was one of the features of the dinner, which is regarded as one of the highlights of the training camp period.

The three companies, Headquarters and Company L, from Santa Ana, and Company I, from Orange, have been completing their summer training this week and are scheduled to arrive in Santa Ana about 6 o'clock Saturday evening. This week they have participated in a demonstration of a company attack, anti-aircraft combat and the review of the 79th brigade, which is composed of 184th and 185th Infantry regiments.

During the company attack, which took place Tuesday, the three Orange county companies were consolidated to give the effect of a war strength company, under the command of Capt. Ralph Johnson, of Riverside. During the demonstration the headquarters company, from Santa Ana, established the command post and message center and moved these forward as the front line advanced, maintaining constant communication.

The anti-aircraft combat was featured by an attack from three planes of the 115th observation squadron. These planes made a power dive on the troops, dropping dummy bombs, made of paper bags filled with flour. The soldiers were issued blank ammunition with which to return the fire from the planes.

The 40th division tank corps, aviation squad, signal company and military police company arrived at the camp this week and Major General David P. Barrows, commanding the 40th division participated in the brigade review as the reviewing officer. He was accompanied by his full staff and Brigadier General Wallace Mason, commanding officer of the 79th brigade.

Plans are being made for the returning companies to be met on their arrival Saturday by the American Legion drum corps, which will escort the Guard units to the armory on North Birch street. The men will be dismissed as soon as all equipment is properly cared for, according to Lieutenant Pettit, which will probably be about two hours after their arrival.

NEW PEARSON CLUB ORGANIZED IN S. A.

At an enthusiastic meeting yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Francis Dresser, on North French street, a Santa Ana women's "Pearson for Sheriff" club was organized.

Principal addresses were made by Verne A. Baker, of Fullerton, county director of the Pearson campaign, and Mrs. Sarah Brown, of Tustin, a W. C. T. U. official, in which the qualifications of Pearson as a trained police administrative officer and as a man whose life was in accord with law enforcement as well as the necessity of electing a man ot this important enforcement position in the county, who could be depended on to impartially enforce all laws, were stressed.

Plans for future meetings of the club and joint meetings with other women's clubs and men's clubs which have been organized in the interests of Pearson's candidacy were discussed.

Decision to maintain the Community chest office and activities on a year 'round basis, but in line with a suggestion of the secretary-manager, R. R. Miller, keep the office open only half time, was reached by the executive committee of the Santa Ana Community chest in a meeting at the chest office late yesterday afternoon.

Miller pointed out that the work of the organization had not yet reached the point where it required the full time service of an executive during the entire year after the work was fully organized as it has been this year, and stated that he had been selected by the Santa Monica Community chest to have charge of the work there on a part time basis, and advised that the work of the Santa Ana office was now in such condition that it could be handled satisfactory on the half day basis.

The committee took action on the recommendations of the secretary-manager, and during the coming year, with the exception of the campaign period, the office will be maintained on a half day schedule. The action will result in a saving to the chest of $1400 per year, which means that it will operate at a cost lower than any other city of the size of Santa Ana.

The Santa Ana office will be open six days a week during the mornings, under the new plan, Miller stated. He is to begin his duties at Santa Monica August 1. This is the first year the Santa Monica chest has opertaed on the year 'round basis.

The annual drives in the two communities have been set at dates that will permit the proper direction of the two efforts without conflict, and Miller advised that the Santa Ana office would be open full time during the period of the campaign. The date in Santa Monica is the third week in September and in Santa Ana the last week in October.

Sets For Deaf People Are Installed By Theater In Santa Ana

All Register subscribers who are deaf or partially deaf are invited to the Fox Broadway theater to try the theater's new deaf sets, instruments installed which produce the sound from the films through ear phones and which have been highly satisfactory wherever they have been shown.

The Fox theaters throughout Southern California have installed deaf sets, following the successful use of them at the Chinese theater in Hollywood, where they were tried first.

Any Register subscriber can obtain the sets at the box window. An usher will attach them to a plug in the floor and any sound coming from the screen will be transmitted to the guest. The patron of the theater is requested to make a deposit for the ear phones, which will be returned when the instruments are returned to the box office.

The new invention is a product of the Western Electric company and has been perfected after several years of research.

BOAT SPEEDERS WILL FIGHT AT CITY ORDINANCE

NEWPORT-BALBOA, July 31.—Operators of speedboats in Newport Bay will fight the city's ban on speed and other prohibitions in the ordinance which it was decided recently to enforce more strictly.

This was reported today, as more than a dozen speedboat men were preparing to engage attorneys to defend them on charges of excess speed, laid yesterday following arrests made by Harbor Master M. S. Robinson.

Among other warnings recently given the boatmen were signs put up in various parts of the bay. The city ordinance prohibits boats running more than 10 miles per hour in all parts of the bay within the city limits, which now includes practically every part of the lower bay, and more than six miles in turning basins and other designated places.

It was recently alleged in letters sent to the city council that the fast boats were endangering lives and property and the city fathers at that time gave instructions to the police and harbor master to enforce the ordinance.

Constitutional and other questions will be raised in defense of the boat operators, it is stated. A defense fund is being raised by the boat men and other business men interested in seeing the boats have as much sway as possible, it was reported today.

CLUB SECURES NOODLES FAGAN FOR PROGRAM

Noodles Fagan, internationally known entertainer and toastmaster, will be master of ceremonies at the meeting of the Santa Ana Breakfast club Thursday morning of next week, when candidates for county offices will be special guests of the club, it was announced by B. Z. McKinney, president, at the meeting of the club this morning.

Gene Kahen, who is chairman of the committee arranging the program, said that members should bring friends and that there would be an hour's entertainment full of "kicks."

President McKinney added the further information that invitations had been issued to Gov. C. C. Young, James Rolph, Buron Fitts and Milton K. Young and that it was expected one of the candidates for governor would be present.

McKinney impressed upon members the necessity of making reservations in advance if they contemplated bringing their wives or friends to the meeting.

Harold Matthews developed an entertaining musical program for the session of the club this morning, such popular entertainers as Miss Bobbie McKean and Mrs. Ruth Garrison participating. Accompanied by Mrs. Harrison, Miss McKean sang "Mystery Song" and "Spring Time in the Rockies."

Mario Mercurio, who is a contestant in the Register-Fox Theaters popularity contest, delighted his auditors with the fine rendition of two vocal numbers, accompanied at the piano by Normen Harvey, club pianist.

Charming House-guest Is Made Incentive For Party

Joining in their hospitality, which found most fitting expression in the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. John Vernon at 2020 Santiago street, Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Harvey T. Riggle entertained with a delightful card party last evening, honoring the latter's house guest, Miss Esther Rhodes, of Seymore, Mo. Baskets of roses and dahlias in soft hues of pink formed a floral background for the affair, and served as the introduction to the color motif of the evening.

Both bridge and 500 were in order, and when the last hand had been played and scores all tallied, Mrs. Joseph Ryan, high in bridge, was awarded a much-coveted cactus plant set in an artistic little jar. Mrs. Jack Van Beek and Mrs. Oliver Wickersheim, who held first and second high scores in five hundred, found that they, too were favored with the unique cactus gifts. Mrs. Herbert L. Krahling and Mrs. George H. Roper were consoled with the daintiest of pink crystal bon-bon dishes. Miss Rhodes, the honoree, also shared in the prize awards, for she was given an exquisite negligee as special guest gift.

During the refreshment hour, the tables were spread with lovely madeira luncheon sets, and each one was centered with a slender pink taper, enhanced by a tulle bow in the same soft hue. The menu course as well, continued the delicate color motif.

Miss Rhodes has been the house guest of Mrs. Riggle for the past six weeks, and will leave Sunday for points north, and from there will continue on her way homeward. She will be the honoree at a steak-bake in Irvine park Friday evening, planned by Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Riggle as a last farewell courtesy.

Those present last evening, other than Miss Esther Rhodes, were Mesdames Olen F. Turner, Herbert L. Krahling, George H. Franzen, Jack Van Beek, Joseph Ryan, Harold Bell, George H. Roper, Oliver Wickersheim, Garland Coltrane, and the co-hostesses, Mrs. John Vernon and Mrs. Harvey T. Riggle.

Those present other than Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and their sons, Charles and Roy, were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Bowman of Tustin, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bach, and Miss Mary Craig.

Popular Girl Reveals Her Engagement in Novel Manner

That Miss Marie Rudolph, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rudolph, 921 Hickory street, was to be a September bride, wedding A. R. Muckenthaler of Paxico, Kans., on the twenty-second of the month, was the interesting news which climaxed a delightful party given last night by Mrs. Dean C. Hanson, 416 Orange avenue.

Guests assembled for an evening of bridge, found the tables arranged in a cool and lovely setting in which hydrangeas, asters and dahlias were effectively mingled. In the ensuing contest, Mrs. John M. Board scored high, to be rewarded with a graceful flower bowl in ebon glass. Miss Rudolph was presented the consolation gift for low score, an equally charming black glass candy jar.

Mrs. Hanson chose the refreshment hour as the time to disclose the betrothal news, and served a delicious two-course supper at tables arranged with pastel tinted asters and nut-cups, which were extremely effective in conjunction with her pretty linens. Bonbons wrapped in bright-colored tin foil were passed at the conclusion of the supper interval, and with each bonbon was a tiny card inscribed with the engagement news, and the chosen wedding date of the young people.

Mr. Muckenthaler's appearance on the scene, was an additional happy surprise, and the guests were delighted at the opportunity of meeting him and extending their congratulations in person. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Muckenthaler sr., of Paxico.

Mrs. Hanson's guests were Mrs. Glen E. Welsh, Mrs. Fred C. Wahl, Mrs. John M. Board, Mrs. Irene Tibbs, Mrs. Phoebe Simpson, Mrs. Minnie Harris, Mrs. Thomas P. Douglas, Mrs. Virgil E. Todd, Mrs. R. Samuel Fink, Mrs. G. Russell Fisher, Mrs. Joseph Catherina, Miss Grace Puterbaugh, Miss Elizabeth Campbell, Miss Vena Belle Bryant, Miss Louise Bryant, Miss Margaret Young, Miss Harriett Whidden, Miss Sophie Ehlen, Miss Dorothy Beckman, and the honoree, Miss Rudolph.

Quill Pen Folk Seek Joys of Anaheim City Park

Forming one of the innumerable parties which yesterday afternoon responded to the lure of the beautiful park which the neighboring city of Anaheim shares so generously with the county as a whole, Santa Ana Quill Pen members and guests enjoyed a refreshing swim and a picnic supper as a cool finale to a hot day.

The club has staged frequent little parties at the neighboring park, but never had a pleasanter time than this. In the late afternoon many of the members swam while others strolled through the park, pausing to admire the lily pools, conceded to be the finest in the state, due to the unremitting care of a master gardner, or gathered in little groups to rest beneath the park trees. Everything was so cool and delightful that flagging energies—and appetites—were revived, and the twilight supper hour gained in interest.

Scalloped potatoes and Spanish meat balls, that had sounded too hot earlier in the day, were found thoroughly appetizing when removed from the grills, and, served with cold salads, sandwiches and the usual picnic fare, paved the way for delicious home-made cake and crisply cold watermelon.

In the evening many of the club-members and guests again sought the plunge, joining the merry crowd that swam in the brilliant light, their bathing-capped heads glistening in the water until the great pool looked like a giant's Hallowe'en tub, filled with bobbing apples.

The event provided a surprise feature for one of the guests, when Miss Charlotte Harnois, daughter of a Quill Pen member, was presented with two sets of matched bed-linen that the club might be represented in the home she is to establish early in the autumn following her marriage to Chester Siegel.

Sharing the happy occasion were Mrs. Harry M. Smith, Mrs. R. A. Cushman, Mrs. Herman Reuter, Mrs. J. U. Viau, Mrs. N. E. Wells, Mrs. Samuel B. Marshall, Mrs. Marshall Harnois, Mrs. J. F. Adams, Mrs. J. D. Campbell, Mrs. Emmett Elliott, Miss Verona Wells, Miss Dorothy Clarkson, Miss Charlotte Harnois, Miss Virginia Viau, Miss Esther Loerch, William Fritcher, Vincent Elliott and Neil Adams.

Pegasus Club Revels In Pleasures of Seashore

With club members offering the hospitality of their beach cottages during the summer months, all-day meetings are becoming more and more popular with the Pegasus club and yesterday's session in the Balboa home of Mrs. George Bond was a most pleasureable one.

Luncheon was a noon feature, and the appetizing menu was served buffet style, under the capable supervision of Mrs. Roy Brown and Mrs. Roy Winchester.

Opening the program in the afternoon, which had been planned by the hostess, Mrs. George Bond, Mrs. Roy Winchester read one of Cornwall's poems, "The Sea," while Mrs. Bond continued with an original story, "The Tie That Binds." Wedding in Long Beach Unites Well-known Santa Anans

A host of friends in this city will be warmly interested in news of the marriage in Long Beach on Tuesday evening, July 29, of Edward Gray, 825 North Ross street, and Mrs. Fannie O. Russell, 1405 1-2 Coronado avenue, Long Beach.

The ceremony took place in the early evening, in the East Long Beach Methodist Episcopal church, with the pastor, the Rev. R.K. Swenerton, officiating. There were only the members of the family circle present, and after the wedding vows had been taken, all were entertained in the George Moore home, Coronado avenue.

A delicious chicken dinner had been prepared by Mrs. Moore, a daughter of the bride, and was served at a charmingly appointed table. Covers were laid for the honor guests, the new Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gray, the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. George Moore, and the young people of the home, Gladys and Homer Moore.

Mr. Gray is well known in this vicinity as a retired orange grower and rancher, and his bride is equally well known as she is a trained nurse of wide experience. The happy couple are now enjoying a honeymoon trip which will include visits to various Southland beaches, and after August 15 they will return to Santa Ana where they will be at home to their friends at 839 North Ross street.

Altar Society Stages Successful Party

Amidst luxuriant shrubbery and every imaginable summer blossom, St. Anne's Altar society members held their public card party on the parish grounds to the rear of the church edifice on Borchard street, last evening. Their efforts in planning the pleasureable event were well rewarded, for a large number of people gathered to enjoy the pleasant garden and the opportunity to indulge in cards and mingle with congenial friends.

Bridge was just a shade the more popular game of the evening, with eleven tables in progress, while the devotees of 500 were content with nine tables. Bridge awards went to Mrs. Charles Fenske and Fred Gillen, high score, Mrs. George Young and Jack Campbell, second high, and Mrs. Murray J. Louge and Uroin Engleman, third high. Prizes in 500 were given Miss Irene Colombini and Vincent Weicher for high score, Mrs. M. Nichols and Anthony Knights sr., second high, and Mrs. Roy Burns and Anthony Knights jr., third high. Hubert Gohres received the grand prize of the evening.

Members of St. Anne's Altar society were very much pleased with the success of the entertainment and attributed it to the faithful committee composed of Mesdames Charles Borchard, Antone Borchard, Barney Brock, L. Merrick, Charles Stack, James Colombini, Mary Castler and Bayard Spell. Proceeds will go to the Altar society funds.

High Noon Wedding Was Outstanding Event Of the Day

Baskets of silver sage, intermingled with golden brown cat-tails, and massed with a wealth of fern, potted palms, and other greenery, increased the charm of the chapel of the First Methodist church, for the wedding rites which took place at high noon today, uniting Miss Zelma Beemer of this city, and Ray Walworth of Orange. A basket of waxen white roses, placed in the center of the altar, and other baskets of asters in tones of pink shading into mauve, added color to the impressive scene.

Preceding the ceremony, Cleo Bowers Hein sang "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied by Miss Eva Ramsey at the piano, who also gave a beautiful rendition of Lohengrin's Wedding March, as the bridal procession formed down the aisle.

The bride was charming in a period gown of white taffeta, with the skirt fashioned of tulle. A filmy veil was caught to her soft brown hair by a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bride's bouquet of exquisite white rosebuds.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Ruth Beemer, who also wore a period frock of green taffeta, and carried pink sweet peas. Millard Beemer, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The impressive service was read by the Reverend George A. Warner, D. D., who is the pastor of both young people.

Immediately following the ceremony, the new Mr. and Mrs. Walworth left for a brief honeymoon of unknown destination. On their return, they will locate in this city. They plan to take a more extensive trip this fall, visiting in Illinois and Ohio where Mr. Walworth has property.

For her honeymoon costume, Mrs. Walworth wore a black and white ensemble, with black and white accessories. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Beemer, 1102 West Seventeenth street, and attended Santa Ana high school, and the Orange County Business college.

Mr. Walworth is one of the prominent young business men of Orange, where he is employed as foreman of the Owens Roofing company. He attended the schools of Williamsfield, O., and is a member and past dictator of the L. O. O. M. Both young people are well known in this vicinity, where interest in their romance and wedding has been expressed in a series of delightful parties and showers complimenting them.

Seashore Beckons Lively Young People

Again Corona Del Mar was chosen as the mecca for an evening of fun, when members of the Epworth league, young people's group of the First Methodist Episcopal church, 22 in number, met on the sands last night for an evening of pleasure.

The cool surf with its foamy breakers offered relief from the heat of the day, and many took advantage of this opportunity for a swim. Following swimming the group gathered about the campfire and toasted the ever-popular weiners and marshmallows.

Group singing was enjoyed while an interesting impromptu program was presented, including a group of readings by Miss Emma Williams, a reading by Herman Goodwin, and the most thrilling of ghost stories related by Miss June Arnold.

The successful affair was in charge of Miss Helen O'Brien, social chairman of the league.

Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

Make Your Own Glazed Fruits

Everyone enjoys glazed fruits but they are so costly it is mostly a case of look-and-long. There is no reason why you should not have quantities if you will spend the time to make them.

Sections of orange, pineapple, peaches, whole plums, whole and halved apricots, cherries, large currants and gooseberries (the giant variety) afford plenty of variety and practice.

To make the syrup boil a pound of berry sugar with 2-3 cup of water until it becomes brittle when dropped in cold water. Add a little lemon juice or half teaspoon of cream of tartar to prevent the syrup gaining. While using the syrup keep it liquid by placing the container in hot water, and do not stir, ever—it grains when you do, and must be thinned and re-boiled.

With oranges, peel and separate into sections without breaking the thin skin. Take each piece on a skewer, or long hat pin, dip into the hot syrup until completely coated, then hang them over the edge of a bowl or put on a buttered plate to dry.

Repeat the process as often as you wish—until they are as candied as you like, I should say. Canned pineapple sections, whipped dry, can be used. With the other fruits mentioned, choose fruit not too ripe, very choice as to size and color, and use the syrup as directed. Store in boxes between waxed paper.

Orange, lemon and grapefruit rind can be candied at the same time. Just cut in sections and parboil before dipping.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Ginger Pop

1 pound sugar
1 ounce cream of tartar
1 ounce powdered ginger
Juice of 2 lemons
4 quarts boiling water
1 compressed yeast cake

To the 4 quarts of boiling water add the sugar mixed with the powdered ginger and juice of 2 lemons. Stir until dissolved and the ginger has thoroughly seasoned the liquid. Take from the fire, add the cream of tartar and stir well.

Cool to blood warmth, stir in the dissolved yeast cake and let stand, covered for 24 hours. Skim off the froth, siphon off the pop, bottle, cap securely, and keep in a cool place. Put on ice before drinking or pour over chopped ice.

This is a satisfying drink for child and adult on a hot day. A quart bottle will make eight glasses fuls served over chopped ice. Each glass will have a calory value of 50, which is found in the sugar, an energy-making food.

Piles Go Quick

Piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Only an internal medicine can remove the cause. That's why external remedies and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has such a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief even in chronic and stubborn case, that Schramm-Johnson says try HEM-ROID at my expense. Your Pile suffering must end or money back. —Adv.

SCENE IN 'QUEEN HIGH'

'ANYBODY'S WAR' IN LAST RUN TONIGHT

"Anybody's War," one of the funniest motion pictures that has been seen here in the past several months, closes its Santa Ana run today. The film opened last Monday at the Fox Broadway theater.

Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, play the leading roles and the plot concerns the activities of Moran, who is seen as the official dog catcher at Buford, Tenn., when the war breaks out.

He goes to France and becomes a great hero, returning to Buford, still wondering what it is all about.

'QUEEN HIGH' OPENS RUN HERE FRIDAY

"Queen High," a stage comedy, has been made into a Paramount all-talking picture and will be shown at the Fox-Broadway theater Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Charles Ruggles, one of the outstanding comedians of the screen, has the leading role, while Stanley Smith and Ginger Rogers play important roles. The story is more or less of a musical comedy.

When Frank Mandel first proposed to adapt "Queen High," his firm's Broadway musical comedy, to the screen, he was told that it would run far longer than the due to the complexity of its action conventional feature picture length, and plot.

FIGHT IN BALLROOM FEATURES UNTAMED

Contrary to general custom, when Robert Montgomery and Don Terry argue over Joan Crawford, they do not go "outside" to complete the discussion. Curtain cords are dragged down to make a ring, and fair young female seconds in evening clothes fan the battlers between rounds.

The battle between the two players has decided reality, because both players are boxers of experience.

"Untamed," adapted by Willard Mack, is a story of a girl brought up in a Central American jungle. On her way to civilization she falls in love with the first white young man she meets—and stays in love.

The cast includes Ernest Torrence, Holmes Herbert, Robert Montgomery, John Miljan, Gwen Lee, Tom O'Brien, Grace Cunard, Don Terry.

The 50,000th telephone in the city of Memphis, Tenn., was installed not long ago, almost 50 years after Memphis' first telephone was placed in service. Memphis is now one of the four cities in the nine southern states to achieve the 50,000th mark in telephones, the others being Atlanta, Louisville and New Orleans. In the last nine years the number of telephones in the city has doubled. When service was started in the city there were but 25 subscribers.

CITY IN MOROCCO BUILT FOR PICTURE

Hollywood's ability to reproduce anything from a railway station to Taj Mahal is well known, and yet there have been few sets to equal one erected at Fox Film corporation Hollywood studios recently for "Women Everywhere," the Movietone musical romance of Morocco and the Foreign Legion, which opens today at the Fox West Coast theater.

A Moroccan city, complete in every detail, its narrow winding streets replete with the savor of the Orient, was erected on one of the vast sound stages.

Nothing which properly belonged to such a city was eliminated. All was life size. There was a water font, with its small craft at anchor; numerous cafes, with their interiors; street after street of quaint houses; a prison, battlemented walls, a cinema and many other structures, all faithful copies of similar buildings in North Africa.

This marvelous set was supplemented by others, hardly less interesting, which was necessary for the action of the drama. A complete tramp steamer, moored at the docks of a French seaport, was built, as well as a desert fort of the Foreign Legion.

"Women Everywhere" features J. Harold Murray, Fifi Dorsay, George Grossmith and Clyde Cook. Alexander Korda directed the production.

At the end of September, 1929, according to the British postmaster-general, about 44 per cent of the rural postoffices and railway stations in Great Britain were without public telephone call facilities.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

"Why do you Tinies laugh at me? That girl's as pretty as can be and I'm just being friendly," said Clowny, with a frown. "I'll bet you'd like to meet her, too, and so I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll wave at her again and motion for her to come down."

So Clowny motioned for a while and then the girl began to smile. She shortly left the balcony and disappeared from sight. In just about a moment she came running out. Said Clowny, "Gee, I'm glad to meet you." Then he shook her hand with all his might.

Then Clowny introduced her to the others. They all liked her, too. She told them 'bout some pretty things that they could see nearby. Then she exclaimed, "I must go now. I hope you get along somehow." She went back in the house then and this made wee Clowny sigh.

The Travel Man soon broke the spell. Said he, "I know a spot that's swell. I'm sure you will enjoy it and you'll see some real queer folks." "All right," said Scouty, "lead the way. That's what we're looking for today. I'll bet it will be great, unless it's just one of your jokes."

But they soon found that he was right, because a queer well loomed in sight. 'Twas right on top a spread of rocks, with people gathered round. They all had goatskins, which they'd fill and little water did they spill. Said Carp, "Gee, that water comes from way down in the ground."

The Tinies watched until each skin was filled and then they rushed right in. "We want a drink," cried Scouty. "Here's a dandy tin cup, see?" They drank and drank and drank some more. 'Twas well the well had lots in store. The Travel Man said, "My, that's as refreshing as can be."

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.
2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you used is one in good usage.
3. The order of the letters can not be changed.

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES CANAL ZONE TODAY

BALBOA, C. Z., July 31.—(UP)—Little damage was reported in the Canal zone today, although sections near here were shaken by an earthquake of severe intensity yesterday.

The temblors were described as the most severe since those of 1913. The earth trembled for approximately one minute and for some time it was feared extreme damage would be done.

Many people ran to the streets in terror.

Court Notes

Two complaints to quiet title were filed in superior court yesterday afternoon. A. F. Zaizer, Leo Borchard and D. E. Ford, plaintiffs, are asking the court to give them exclusive title to certain tracts of land in Orange county. The defendant in the case is W. E. Richardson. The other suit was filed by D. E. NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, July 31.—(UP)—Further selling of public utility and special issues unsettled the list on the curb market in a quiet session today and the market as a whole moved toward lower levels, with attempts at resistance to bearish pressure confined to a few of the oil stocks.

Prominent among the latter was Vacuum, which was well supported and advanced more than a point. Misouri Kansas Pipe line moved up fractionally, but Standard of Indiana and Houston were in supply at fractional concessions. However, oils showed better resistance to the downward movement as a result of a generally oversold condition and those that were off were narrowly so.

Bearish drives were launched with renewed vigor against some of the deaders in the public utility division, with declines ranging from fractions to almost 5 points taking place in America Gas, Electric Bond and Share, Cities Service, Eastern States Power B, St. Regis Paper and Associated Gas A. United Light encountered good support and was bid up fractionally. The issue has a reputation of meeting strong support on recessions and bears are hesitant about making offerings of the stock.

Special issues throughout the industrial list were targets for selling, these including Deere and Company, which sank to a new low on a 2 point drop, and Lerner stores, the later tobogganing almost 9 points to a fresh bottom. Investment Trusts weakened with the general trend. Goldman sachs eased a fraction, while Blue Ridge preferred sold off more than a point.

CHICAGO BD OF TRADE

CHICAGO, July 31.—(UP)—Surging upward more than 2c on the Board of Trade today after its weakness of yesterday, wheat closed sharply higher despite some late selling by houses with Eastern connections. Short covering was heavy with offerings rather limited. Great strength in corn, an unexpected show of strength by Liverpool and a surprising good export business were the chief factors. Hedging pressure was light.

At the close wheat was 1¼c to 1½c higher⅞ corn was ⅝c higher for July with the other months 2½ to 3c up, and oats were 1 to 1⅝c higher. Provisions were very strong.

NEW YORK STOCKS

The Dow, Jones & Company industrial average (preliminary calculation) advanced 3.18 points to 234.26 while the railroad average declined 0.65 to 130.90.

Sales today totaled 2,162,770 shares, against ,507,280 shares yesterday.

For a few minutes in the last half hour bears tried to duplicate the depresion of the early trading. They succeeded for a time in dislodging considerable stock but rallying tendencias quickly were resumed and many of the earlier highs were bettered in the last 10 minutes of trading.

The prime mover of the market was Gillette Safety Razor. This issue soared above 88, compared with a previous close of 82⅜ and frightened the bearish element in other sections of the list. Shorts bid frantically to obtain Gillette stock and soon the issue was leading at a premium in the loan crowd with 10,000 shares needd by the bears.

Autostrop Safety razor rose to a new high for they ear at 81¾ up 4¼ points and held most of the advance. Talk in Wall street was that this company and Gillette would merger on a share for share exchange of stock.

Short covering spread from Gillette to other stocks and soon the tide was turned in the entire market. Even the utilities participated in the subsequent buying.

Consolidated Gas, which supplies New York City with gas and electricity, was hard hit in the early trading on news that the public service commission was working to reduce electricity rates here. It rallied later, however, and was near the previous close at the end of the day, having made up its earlier decline fo more than 3 points.

United States Sttel resumed its advance interrupted yesterday and came close to 166 against a previous close of 164¼.

You hold an ownership interest in the common stocks of 28 great basic industries—the very heart of American business. And the stocks are held in trust for you by The Chase National Bank of New York as Trustee. All bothersome details are attended to by the Trustees—you merely clip a coupon twice a year and receive in cash your pro rata share of the trust earnings.

For the calendar year 1929, cash distributions to holders of CORPORATE TRUST SHARES were $1.96 per share or in excess of 17% on average market price. For the first six months of 1930 each share paid $1.31. 17-year historical record (1913-1929) shows return of over 14% average per year on average price.

RESIDENTS OF LAGUNA BEACH DISCUSS TITLE

LAGUNA BEACH, July 31.—That the courts should be asked to decide the ownership of the foot of Ruby street was the opinion expressed by citizens at the hearing before the council sitting as a committee Tuesday evening. The meeting was held to give interested persons an opportunity to present their views before the council.

John Jehle read a paper prepared by him which recounted the several transactions from the original patent to H .S. Goff in 1887 to date, and finished with the opinion that the city should take all needed steps to retain ownership.

Lillian Whiting referred to a similar problem in the vicinity of Sugar Loaf and thought that the city sohuld hold the street.

Stillman Jamieson, purchaser of the property presented his case. He said that he first purchased a 50-foot lot from Mrs. Grace Booth but was subsequently informed by her that she owned the adjoining street. He had supposed he was buying a corner lot, he said. Not wishing to have someone build next to him, he then bought the 25-foot lot considered as a street. He told of his plans for building on the property.

A. B. Marshall, president of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke of the many streets terminating at the ocean, said all were needed and asserted that the matter was one for the court to decide. He asked what right the Goffs had to sell the street, used for 43 years subsequently by the public. His assertion that the lot was listed for sale as a corner lot was subsequently withdrawn.

G. E. Thompson agreed with Marshall, believing the street is a public right of way to state and city owned tidelands, and hoped that an attorney would be employed as special counsel to work with the city attorney.

Roy W. Peacock, Realty Board president, urged that the matter be taken to the court for settlement. He referred, as had Thompson, to the park on the Cliffs, as valuable public property, and though tthe disputed street had a valuation of perhaps $10,000.

City Attorney Leslie F. Kimmell said that it seemed that any right the city has goes back to the Goffs or to the map, filed subsequent to certain sales, but doubted that the dedication as a park could be sustained because of no work done. The strongest points in favor of the city, he thought, was the failure to pay taxes on the street and the general belief by the public that it is a street. The whole matter might depend on user, but was a matter to be proven in court. The question, he believed, was whether the dedication was a matter of actual fact.

Others participating in the discussion were Frank Gowan, Fern Burford, Mr. Byrne, with some questions by members of the council present, Mayor J. E. Bishop, C. R. Clapp and M. B. McMillan. Action was not taken as it was merely a committee meeting.

PLAN GOLF MATCH FOR SAN CLEMENTE

SAN CLEMENTE, July 31.—Miniature golf course stars will take part in an 18 hole tournament on San Clemente's course on Sunday, August 9, according to Manager Ralph Young. Young states that handicaps will be based on scores turned in at his course office. Prizes will be awarded visitors. At present Bill Van, youthful star, holds the course record with a 45.

Arrangements are being made to hold a tournament with San Juan Capistrano putters, a 10-man team competing for each town. Hugo Forster will have charge of the Mission putt, putt stars while Hal Warner will lead the Spanish village players. After this tourney, scheduled for the near future, it is planned to challenge the Laguna Beach and Oceanside stars.

NEW AIR MAIL PATH SURVEYED BY GOVERNMENT

NEWPORT-BALBOA, July 31.—A new air mail route is being surveyed by the government, running from El Paso, Texas., to Seattle, via the coast, and the Martin airport, between Santa Ana and Newport bay, will be a station on the route, members of the Newport Beach Exchange club were told at their meeting at the Yacht club yesterday by L. D. "Skip" Ayers, one of the aviators at the Martin airport.

Ayers said that flying boats running between Newport bay and Catalina would provide a service which would be appreciated by many visitors to the Magic Isle from Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and San Diego counties. He predicted rapid growth of air transportation in the part of the country.

The Misses Mary, Margaret and Frances Foster, sisters, of Santa Ana, who are frequent entertainers over radio KREG of Santa Ana entertained the members.

Owing to the yacht regattas here next week the regular Wednesday meeting of the Exchange club at the Yacht club will not be held. Instead the Beach Exchangites will meet with the Santa Ana Exchange club at the Santa Ana cafe next Tuesday noon.

CURRENCY SAVED

ZEELAND, Mich., July 31.—A pocketbook containing $35, lost eight years ago, was recovered this week by the loser. Back in 1922 Jacob Slagh was assisting his brother-in-law, Koene Vanden Bosch, near Harlem, harvest hay and lost his pocketbook. Vanden Bosch last week while cultivating corn in the same field spied the purse, so worn it fell apart when handled. It was carefully kept together and brought to its owner who turned it over to the United States treasury department for redemption of the currency it contained.

FIVE IN ONE

That there are candidates in the field for the various offices in the county, and particularly for the office of the Board of Supervisors, who believe that the officials should represent the voters and the taxpayers, and not simply themselves and a few others, should appeal to the voters of Orange county.

Behind closed doors the business of the county has been carried on, so that the will of the one becomes the will of all on all important matters, and the various districts have really no representation when it comes to issues. As far as the determination of most matters is concerned, we might just as well save the expense of the other members of the Board, and let one man have the complete power as to have this unnecessary expenditure for other supervisors, when as a matter of fact they are brought into perfect agreement before their vote is announced in public. Just as election approaches, there have been a few exceptions, notably that of the re-appraisal of the values in Orange county.

The refusal to save money in legal advertising for the taxpayers is another evidence of a belief that the members of the Board as at present constituted consider friendships and prejudices rather than business in the determination of the payment of taxpayers' money.

Recently the taxpayers paid for legal advertising in one bill an amount of $4408.46, while if the Board of Supervisors had accepted the proposal of a paper that has undoubtedly four times the circulation, it would have saved a total in that one bill alone of not less than $1990.92. The reasons they did not do this are well known. The Register objected to the employment upon the pay roll of the county of a man who was using his office to exploit the poorest element of our population, the Mexican people.

With affidavits and testimony before them, giving these facts, the Board of Supervisors declared they would retain this man "for the good of the Mexicans." We objected to this, and criticized it. There has never been one solitary defense of the action, but the Board of Supervisors in retaliation, voted to take the legal advertising from the paper, and placed it in a paper reaching but a fraction of as many people in the county, and paid the same money for it.

The argument which they understand is the argument of "money." "If you will support us, and not criticize us, you get the taxpayers' money. If you don't support us, we will use the taxpayers' money for our friends whether it is good business or not." We have carried the advertising in spite of all this as far as we could, without expense, printing it free in order that the major portion of the population in Orange county could have the benefit. When such a large amount was to be placed that we could not afford to print it without expense, we made a proposal to reduce the price, where several thousand dollars would be saved, thinking that at any rate the Board of Supervisors would consider the taxpayers' interest, and not be governed by politics and their prejudices.

But we were mistaken. Three of these men are now asking for the support of the voters and taxpayers.

We are confident that thousands of voters in the county, in the interest of a square deal for the taxpayers; in the interest of having the people know exactly what is being done, and why it is being done; in the interest of the principles of real Americanization which is opposed to exploitation and in favor of burden bearing and in favor of a free and not a muzzled press, will desire to have members of the Board of Supervisors who are responsive to the people, and to all of the people instead of to but a small fraction of the people.

"A sports writer," says one of them, "has an audience hanging on his words." Which seems to be the only alternative for those who have placed bets on sports writers' hunches—and lost.

LIVING COSTS DROP

The Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor announced a few days ago that the cost of living throughout the country was one-fourth less in June than it was at the peak of prices in the same month ten years ago. Furthermore, since June of last year the cost of living average dropped 2.1 per cent.

The greatest decrease in cost of living expenses, between December and June, was in the price of foods.

To the householder with a steady income, the news is good, even though the cost of living index in the United States in June was 166.6, based on the cost in 1913 as 100.

In the table of statistics which were drawn up for different cities, Los Angeles, which may be taken as indicative of this region does not rank particularly high in percentage of decrease in cost of living as compared with other cities. While the fact may not be consoling to the short-sighted home-manager, taking a long economic view of the matter, it is all to the good. An excessive drop means that someone is taking losses and that is more undesirable than a high cost of living, especially since wages had been adjusted to the living cost.

Therefore, these statistics which indicate that this section of the country is taking the drop gradually, are even more interesting than the news of the drop is to the housewife. The drop between December 1929 and June 1930 for Los Angeles was 2.9 per cent, for Boston it was 3.1, for Houston it was 3.4, for Detroit 3.1, for Philadelphia 3.4, for Norfolk 3.2, for New York 3, for San Francisco 3.

NOT SURPRISED

We were not surprised at the Associated Chamber of Commerce failing to act on the matter of the bonds for the harbor at Newport Beach. Nothing could be clearer at the present time than that a proposed bond issue, coupled up with the necessity of Federal support in order to make the money available would insure that Newport would get nothing. Hence the leaders in Newport have shown wisdom in refusing to accept such a proposal.

On the other hand, an issue of bonds probably in any amount would find little or no support by the people in the county if it were not attached to some such condition, and certainly an amount sufficient to insure the work being done properly could only pass in the county by a miracle.

The Register recognized this situation some time ago when it was presented, and refused to be a party to the proposed plan, for we knew there was politics, rather than a heart-felt desire to assist Newport Beach, behind it. As so frequently happens in that kind of a situation, when all of the facts are known, it ends in an impasse.

A French scientist has announced a plan of harnessing the energy of the Gulf stream. Well, he has a strong current to begin with.

HE WANTED GENE

It is hard to be told that you aren't wanted and it is a rare person indeed who can overlook the fact that he is persona non grata and do the one a kindness with whom you are not in favor, especially when "heaping coals of fire on the head" is not appreciated.

It all happened to Mrs. Gene Tunney. Touring a hospital, she stopped at the bedside of a boy and was introduced. "I don't want to see Mrs. Tunney. I want to see the fighter. It's tough to be here with all the other kids seeing Gene," spoke out the bed-ridden boy.

"Man's Inhumanity"

San Diego Union

When we read that Dr. T. Latow, dental surgeon, urges the public to obviate dental troubles by feeding their children as carefully as they feed their cattle, we are tempted to address a somewhat parallel plea to the great American railway companies. We would ask the railways to prevent suffering among their passengers by transporting them as carefully as they transport green vegetables.

It is possible to ship a cantaloupe across the Great American desert to the ultimate consumer in Chicago or New York without wilting it. It should be possible to do as much for a human being.

Experienced travelers will testify that there is no more heartrending spectacle in the whole category of human hardship than the sight of a transcontinental train load of tourists halted at Needles, Barstow, Yuma, or any one of a number of other warm spots on the journey across these United States. Despite all the advance of modern engineering, and the more-than-luxury built into many of the vehicles for which Pullman-fare-plus is exacted, the passengers are exposed to all the discomforts of dust and heat. While the humble cantaloupe nestles comfortably in the below-zero coolness of a refrigerator car, the human being who has paid good money for civilized transportation hangs limply over the back of a hot plush chair and torments himself with memories of mint juleps too historic to do him any good.

This is unjust. It is not common sense. It inflicts a kind of suffering that is almost certainly unnecessary, and it burdens a very appreciable handicap upon the great states served by the railways. Railway travel will be more profitable to all concerned when the Pullman passenger is no longer compelled to envy the inarticulate and ice-cold cantaloupe.

San Bernardino Sun

At last somebody has found a burglar under a bed.

The finder had drawn cash from a bank for a stay in a sanitarium where he was going next day. He went out on an errand, leaving the money in a bureau drawer. When he returned the room was in disorder and the money missing. He saw a pair of shoes sticking out from the bed. They did not look like his shoes. He pulled. The shoes came and the rest of the burglar came along with them. The burglar, needless to say, was young and new to the game.

What has become of the old maids who never got into a bed without looking under it for the burglar who might be hiding there, waiting to steal the gold watch and the earrings inherited from Greataunt Jane? That's easy. They are buyers or private secretaries with grand clothes and perfect marcels, who never need to think of looking under the bed. They pull it out from its closet and let it down in the living room of their expensive apartment. Aunt Emma's trinkets are in the safe deposit box, money is represented by the check book and fears are non-existent.

Except for the age-old fear shared by them with Aunt Emma and Greataunt Jane. But that is another psychology.

Golf Takes to Cover

New York Times

The craze for miniature golf courses continues to spread, with new links sprouting on vacant city lots all over the country. The latest development threatens to tame the game still further and make it an indoor sport.

The owners of a movie house, now dark, in Kew Gardens, are planning to tear down the screen, turn a deaf ear to the talkies, and install a fairway down the enchanted aisles. The balcony would become a sort of country-club veranda, where ice cream and soft drinks would be served to tired players. Here, too, would be discussed the wagers with which players are said to add zest to the miniature game.

If the house is one of those refrigerated palaces that gave rise to this Summer's simile, "as cool as the movies," it may be expected to draw golfers from its outdoor neighbors. An opportunity to enjoy the cool temperatures of the Scotch moors on a sizzling July day and to escape the rigors of wintry blasts in January should make the theater course a year-round delight for the golfer who takes his game in small doses.

Incidentally, musicians thrown out of work by the mechanical talkies, and even some of the more desperate of unemployed actors, might find work on the links or as caddies, in a pleasantly familiar atmosphere.

APPEARANCES

The python, I've been often told
Within him hides a heart of gold,

And when you stroll the jungle through
Is very much afraid of you.

The shark, though nimble and alert
Will never bite unless he's hurt,

Is not as bad as he appears.

The centipede prefers to crawl
Along the ceiling or the wall

Instead of walking through your hair
And planting dabs of venom there.

This creeping friend of human kind
They say is very much maligned.

The Bengal tiger chiefly cares
About his personal affairs,

And for your blood he does not thirst
Unless, perchance, you bite him first.

Are seldom either thieves or crooks.

Appearances in man or beast
Should not misguide us in the least

As this queer world we journey through,
But just the same they always do!

"The Elastic Work Day"

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Where is the worker who has not longed for an Elestic Work Day—one that would contract automatically whenever he felt the urge to play more and work less?

But this year several million men, with the urge to work more, have had thrust upon them another kind of Elastic Work Day—the kind that contracts until there is nothing left of it.

These self-disappearing work days, says President L. F. Loree of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, can be ruled out by intelligent planning. Witness the success of the Delaware and Hudson. In the present business depression not one of its employees has lost his job.

This real achievement came as the result of a sensible and practical "Elastic Work Day." The day stretches out toward ten hours when work is unusually heavy. The day contracts toward eight hours when work is not so plentiful. Thus a business depression brings fewer hours, not fewer workers.

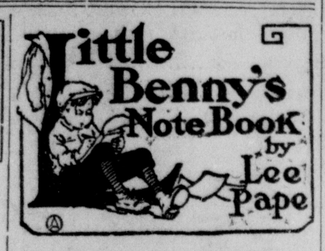

This plan reduced the labor turnover from 1,450 in 1920 to 172 in 1929—a reduction of over 88 per cent.

In 1920 the difference between the largest number employed in the maintenance branches and the smallest number was 1,914. In 1929 the difference was only 418.

"Both the men and the company," says President Loree, "benefit by the continuous employment of a group of men educated to its methods and trained to work together. The plan is highly appreciated and is very popular."

Much more popular, no doubt, than the explanation still offered to workers by various companies that men lose their jobs periodically "as a result of natural law," and nothing can be done about it.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE HUMAN MILK JAR

I have just spent an exhilarating week-end on a Westchester farm an hour's ride by motor from the rush and roar of New York.

And the hours I spent in the dairy barn and creamery of my host's estate were a post-graduate course in social politics.

Since the coming of democracy, society has been fluid.

In pre-democratic days men were born and remained in a definite class or craft status.

In democratic days men, regardless of the class or craft status into which they were born, may land anywhere, higher or lower, according to their abilities and their application of energy.

In a democracy, the cream of genius is free to rise to the top of the human milk jar.

This fact has in it the possibility of peril as well as the possibility of progress.

Human greatness has always refused to be cradled exclusively in any single social class.

The poor and despised classes have always thrown up, now and then, their quota of genius; and to the end of time they will continue to breed occasional greatness.

Before democracy came into being, when the lower classes bred a genius, he had to stay put in his class; there was no free passage he could take into the higher classes. This meant that at all times the lower classes of pre-democratic days held me nof significant ability in their ranks, men whose greatness had never had the chance to show its mettle in positions of leadership.

Today it is different.

Democratic opportunity lures men out of the lower classes as soon as their ability is demonstrated, thus keeping the lower classes continually denuded of the able men they produce, so that the lower classes of a democratic society are actually lower in their stock of ability than the lower classes of an aristocratic society.

Democracy's greatest danger lies in just this lower stratum of its people which it keeps stripped of its able men.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

ENOUGH

Our country has more things and more of those things than any country in the world. Our children have more and have it more variously, more abundantly, than any children in the world. They have so much that it is time to stop and ask how much is enough? How little is plenty?

It is our own grasping attitude that affects the children. We want to be comfortable so we begin to accumulate comfort. We want to safeguard our comfort so we can feel safe and we reach out for something more. Then we must protect that something more until we are slaves to the getting and the saving and the protecting of our goods.

It isn't necessary to own a thing in order to enjoy it and to benefit by its existence. I can look at the old maple next door, enjoy its beauty and its shade without wanting to own it, if I am a sensible person. But if I am not, if I want everything I see, I will begin planning to get the bit of land that bears that old maple and probably give myself a lot more trouble. I'll plan to get the money to buy it. I'll lie awake after that, every time the wind blows hard trembling lest it blow my treasure away. I might better have been a reasonable man and allowed my neighbor to own the tree. The shade and the beauty of it might have been enough for me.

When children hear us talking about getting this and owning that, they think that getting and owning and holding on to things is the end and aim of existence and in their enthusiasm and power go the older generation one better every time. There is real danger that they will never learn how little can be enough until their possessions smother them.

It would be interesting to try to teach a child to discover how little can be enough for him. I'm not picturing the joys of poverty. Poverty kills the soul. I'm trying to point out the beauty in sufficiency, the spiritual thrill in the feeling that one can master his world with a sling and a pebble and a keen brain.

We don't give brains half a chance these days. Before they can get under way somebody makes them useless by handing the child the job already done, the gift ready made, the hope in a neatly wrapped box marked so-much-to-the-dozen. He is so smoothered in muchness that the bare beauty of little, the complete enjoyment of power through imagination and personal effort is lost.

It is better to supply necessities and leave room for the creation of wants than to heap up possessions. Wants keep a child growing, providing the quality of his wants is high. It is better to put time and energy in cultivating his hungers, enriching his idea of wants, than it is to gather muchness for him. How LITTLE can be enough? That way happiness lies.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor announced a few days ago that the cost of living throughout the country was one-fourth less in June than it was at the peak of prices in the same month ten years ago. Furthermore, since June of last year the cost of living average dropped 2.1 per cent.

The greatest decrease in cost of living expenses, between December and June, was in the price of foods.

To the householder with a steady income, the news is good, even though the cost of living index in the United States in June was 166.6, based on the cost in 1913 as 100.

In the table of statistics which were drawn up for different cities, Los Angeles, which may be taken as indicative of this region does not rank particularly high in percentage of decrease in cost of living as compared with other cities. While the fact may not be consoling to the short-sighted home-manager, taking a long economic view of the matter, it is all to the good. An excessive drop means that someone is taking losses and that is more undesirable than a high cost of living, especially since wages had been adjusted to the living cost.

Therefore, these statistics which indicate that this section of the country is taking the drop gradually, are even more interesting than the news of the drop is to the housewife. The drop between December 1929 and June 1930 for Los Angeles was 2.9 per cent, for Boston it was 3.1, for Houston it was 3.4, for Detroit 3.1, for Philadelphia 3.4, for Norfolk 3.2, for New York 3, for San Francisco 3.

NOT SURPRISED

We were not surprised at the Associated Chamber of Commerce failing to act on the matter of the bonds for the harbor at Newport Beach. Nothing could be clearer at the present time than that a proposed bond issue, coupled up with the necessity of Federal support in order to make the money available would insure that Newport would get nothing. Hence the leaders in Newport have shown wisdom in refusing to accept such a proposal.

On the other hand, an issue of bonds probably in any amount would find little or no support by the people in the county if it were not attached to some such condition, and certainly an amount sufficient to insure the work being done properly could only pass in the county by a miracle.

The Register recognized this situation some time ago when it was presented, and refused to be a party to the proposed plan, for we knew there was politics, rather than a heart-felt desire to assist Newport Beach, behind it. As so frequently happens in that kind of a situation, when all of the facts are known, it ends in an impasse.

A French scientist has announced a plan of harnessing the energy of the Gulf stream. Well, he has a strong current to begin with.

HE WANTED GENE

It is hard to be told that you aren't wanted and it is a rare person indeed who can overlook the fact that he is persona non grata and do the one a kindness with whom you are not in favor, especially when "heaping coals of fire on the head" is not appreciated.

It all happened to Mrs. Gene Tunney. Touring a hospital, she stopped at the bedside of a boy and was introduced. "I don't want to see Mrs. Tunney. I want to see the fighter. It's tough to be here with all the other kids seeing Gene," spoke out the bed-ridden boy.

"Man's Inhumanity"

San Diego Union

When we read that Dr. T. Latow, dental surgeon, urges the public to obviate dental troubles by feeding their children as carefully as they feed their cattle, we are tempted to address a somewhat parallel plea to the great American railway companies. We would ask the railways to prevent suffering among their passengers by transporting them as carefully as they transport green vegetables.

It is possible to ship a cantaloupe across the Great American desert to the ultimate consumer in Chicago or New York without wilting it. It should be possible to do as much for a human being.

Experienced travelers will testify that there is no more heartrending spectacle in the whole category of human hardship than the sight of a transcontinental train load of tourists halted at Needles, Barstow, Yuma, or any one of a number of other warm spots on the journey across these United States. Despite all the advance of modern engineering, and the more-than-luxury built into many of the vehicles for which Pullman-fare-plus is exacted, the passengers are exposed to all the discomforts of dust and heat. While the humble cantaloupe nestles comfortably in the below-zero coolness of a refrigerator car, the human being who has paid good money for civilized transportation hangs limply over the back of a hot plush chair and torments himself with memories of mint juleps too historic to do him any good.

This is unjust. It is not common sense. It inflicts a kind of suffering that is almost certainly unnecessary, and it burdens a very appreciable handicap upon the great states served by the railways. Railway travel will be more profitable to all concerned when the Pullman passenger is no longer compelled to envy the inarticulate and ice-cold cantaloupe.

At last somebody has found a burglar under a bed.

The finder had drawn cash from a bank for a stay in a sanitarium where he was going next day. He went out on an errand, leaving the money in a bureau drawer. When he returned the room was in disorder and the money missing. He saw a pair of shoes sticking out from the bed. They did not look like his shoes. He pulled. The shoes came and the rest of the burglar came along with them. The burglar, needless to say, was young and new to the game.

What has become of the old maids who never got into a bed without looking under it for the burglar who might be hiding there, waiting to steal the gold watch and the earrings inherited from Greataunt Jane? That's easy. They are buyers or private secretaries with grand clothes and perfect marcels, who never need to think of looking under the bed. They pull it out from its closet and let it down in the living room of their expensive apartment. Aunt Emma's trinkets are in the safe deposit box, money is represented by the check book and fears are non-existent.

Except for the age-old fear shared by them with Aunt Emma and Greataunt Jane. But that is another psychology.

Golf Takes to Cover

New York Times

The craze for miniature golf courses continues to spread, with new links sprouting on vacant city lots all over the country. The latest development threatens to tame the game still further and make it an indoor sport.

The owners of a movie house, now dark, in Kew Gardens, are planning to tear down the screen, turn a deaf ear to the talkies, and install a fairway down the enchanted aisles. The balcony would become a sort of country-club veranda, where ice cream and soft drinks would be served to tired players. Here, too, would be discussed the wagers with which players are said to add zest to the miniature game.

If the house is one of those refrigerated palaces that gave rise to this Summer's simile, "as cool as the movies," it may be expected to draw golfers from its outdoor neighbors. An opportunity to enjoy the cool temperatures of the Scotch moors on a sizzling July day and to escape the rigors of wintry blasts in January should make the theater course a year-round delight for the golfer who takes his game in small doses.

Incidentally, musicians thrown out of work by the mechanical talkies, and even some of the more desperate of unemployed actors, might find work on the links or as caddies, in a pleasantly familiar atmosphere.

APPEARANCES

The python, I've been often told
Within him hides a heart of gold,

And when you stroll the jungle through
Is very much afraid of you.

The shark, though nimble and alert
Will never bite unless he's hurt,

Is not as bad as he appears.

The centipede prefers to crawl
Along the ceiling or the wall

Instead of walking through your hair
And planting dabs of venom there.

This creeping friend of human kind
They say is very much maligned.

About his personal affairs,

And for your blood he does not thirst
Unless, perchance, you bite him first.

Are seldom either thieves or crooks.

Appearances in man or beast
Should not misguide us in the least

As this queer world we journey through,
But just the same they always do!

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Where is the worker who has not longed for an Elestic Work Day—one that would contract automatically whenever he felt the urge to play more and work less?

But this year several million men, with the urge to work more, have had thrust upon them another kind of Elastic Work Day—the kind that contracts until there is nothing left of it.

These self-disappearing work days, says President L. F. Loree of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, can be ruled out by intelligent planning. Witness the success of the Delaware and Hudson. In the present business depression not one of its employees has lost his job.

This real achievement came as the result of a sensible and practical "Elastic Work Day." The day stretches out toward ten hours when work is unusually heavy. The day contracts toward eight hours when work is not so plentiful. Thus a business depression brings fewer hours, not fewer workers.

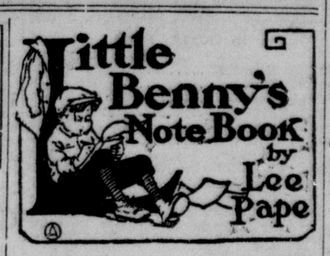

This plan reduced the labor turnover from 1,450 in 1920 to 172 in 1929—a reduction of over 88 per cent.

In 1920 the difference between the largest number employed in the maintenance branches and the smallest number was 1,914. In 1929 the difference was only 418.

"Both the men and the company," says President Loree, "benefit by the continuous employment of a group of men educated to its methods and trained to work together. The plan is highly appreciated and is very popular."

Much more popular, no doubt, than the explanation still offered to workers by various companies that men lose their jobs periodically "as a result of natural law," and nothing can be done about it.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE HUMAN MILK JAR

I have just spent an exhilarating week-end on a Westchester farm an hour's ride by motor from the rush and roar of New York.

And the hours I spent in the dairy barn and creamery of my host's estate were a post-graduate course in social politics.

Since the coming of democracy, society has been fluid.

In pre-democratic days men were born and remained in a definite class or craft status.

In democratic days men, regardless of the class or craft status into which they were born, may land anywhere, higher or lower, according to their abilities and their application of energy.

In a democracy, the cream of genius is free to rise to the top of the human milk jar.

This fact has in it the possibility of peril as well as the possibility of progress.

Human greatness has always refused to be cradled exclusively in any single social class.

The poor and despised classes have always thrown up, now and then, their quota of genius; and to the end of time they will continue to breed occasional greatness.

Before democracy came into being, when the lower classes bred a genius, he had to stay put in his class; there was no free passage he could take into the higher classes. This meant that at all times the lower classes of pre-democratic days held me nof significant ability in their ranks, men whose greatness had never had the chance to show its mettle in positions of leadership.

Today it is different.

Democratic opportunity lures men out of the lower classes as soon as their ability is demonstrated, thus keeping the lower classes continually denuded of the able men they produce, so that the lower classes of a democratic society are actually lower in their stock of ability than the lower classes of an aristocratic society.

Democracy's greatest danger lies in just this lower stratum of its people which it keeps stripped of its able men.

OUR CHILDREN

ENOUGH

Our country has more things and more of those things than any country in the world. Our children have more and have it more variously, more abundantly, than any children in the world. They have so much that it is time to stop and ask how much is enough? How little is plenty?

It is our own grasping attitude that affects the children. We want to be comfortable so we begin to accumulate comfort. We want to safeguard our comfort so we can feel safe and we reach out for something more. Then we must protect that something more until we are slaves to the getting and the saving and the protecting of our goods.

It isn't necessary to own a thing in order to enjoy it and to benefit by its existence. I can look at the old maple next door, enjoy its beauty and its shade without wanting to own it, if I am a sensible person. But if I am not, if I want everything I see, I will begin planning to get the bit of land that bears that old maple and probably give myself a lot more trouble. I'll plan to get the money to buy it. I'll lie awake after that, every time the wind blows hard trembling lest it blow my treasure away. I might better have been a reasonable man and allowed my neighbor to own the tree. The shade and the beauty of it might have been enough for me.

When children hear us talking about getting this and owning that, they think that getting and owning and holding on to things is the end and aim of existence and in their enthusiasm and power go the older generation one better every time. There is real danger that they will never learn how little can be enough until their possessions smother them.

It would be interesting to try to teach a child to discover how little can be enough for him. I'm not picturing the joys of poverty. Poverty kills the soul. I'm trying to point out the beauty in sufficiency, the spiritual thrill in the feeling that one can master his world with a sling and a pebble and a keen brain.

We don't give brains half a chance these days. Before they can get under way somebody makes them useless by handing the child the job already done, the gift ready made, the hope in a neatly wrapped box marked so-much-the-dozen. He is so smoothered in muchness that the bare beauty of little, the complete enjoyment of power through imagination and personal effort is lost.

It is better to supply necessities and leave room for the creation of wants than to heap up possessions. Wants keep a child growing, providing the quality of his wants is high. It is better to put time and energy in cultivating his hungers, enriching his idea of wants, than it is to gather muchness for him. How LITTLE can be enough? That way happiness lies.

Giant British Dirigible Nears End Of Long Journey

BIG AIRSHIP MEETS HEAD WINDS TODAY

Expected to Reach Montreal 7 o'Clock Tonight According to Reports

CRUISING UP RIVER

By GILBERT DRAPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Que., July 31.—(UP)—The R-100 pushed her way up the St. Lawrence steadily but slowly today, making the poorest time of her journey from Cardington, England, to Montreal after a comparatively easy conquest of the Atlantic.

The dirigible encountered contrary winds as she passed from the Strait of Belle Isle into the mouth of the St. Lawrence. After passing the eastern end of Anticosti island about dawn, she made the mainland of North America at Cape Magdelaine, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, at 8 a. m. E. S. T.

From there she struck out into the river, heading for the north shore in an apparent effort to find better sailing conditions. At that point she was encountering a head wind of 25 miles an hour, and her speed was only 34 1-2 miles.

At 8:30 a. m. E.S.T., the liner Empress of Scotland reported that the dirigible had passed her 20 miles out in the river from Mount Louis bay, which is about 20 miles west of Cape Magdelaine.

At 9:10 a. m. the liner Duchess of Bedford sighted the dirigible between the west tip of Anticosti island and Seven Islands bay, on the north shore of the river. At 9:35 a. m., she was reported over Clarke City, near Seven Islands bay.

At 10:10 a. m., the dirigible reached Trinity bay and at 10:25 passed Godbot, Que. Her maneuver apparently had succeeded and her speed was picking up, being estimated at better than 50 miles an hour. The dirigible messaged that she hoped to make this airport at 7 p. m., which she could do by averaging 50 miles an hour to Montreal. Trinity bay is 435 miles from here.

NEW YORK, July 31.—(UP)—Nine bombs, containing enough nitroglycerine to blow up a city block, were found by police in a rooming house of the Brooklyn Chinese quarter today, and seven Chinese, believed to be connected with a tong war that blazed out in New York's Chinatown last night, were arrested.

In addition to the bombs, which were of the "sugar-bowl" type, filled with black powder, glass and steel, and connected by a long fuse, the police confiscated three revolvers.

The raid was the result of increased activity by the police following the killing of one Chinese in New York and another in Boston, in what was believed to be the forerunner of warfare over smuggled opium.

The suspicious actions of a Chinese riding in a taxicab attracted the attention of two man to a furnished room, where they found the bombs. Information obtained from three men arrested there led to another raid at a second house, where four more suspects were arrested.

Among those held by police are He Yung Ing, 33, a graduate of Northwestern university and a practicing physician, and his brother, Hen Kong Ing, a student at Whittaker college. Dr. Ing gave his permanent address as 47 Mott street, Manhattan, which is near the scene of last night's shooting, in which one man was killed and another seriously wounded.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 31.—(UP)—Forty-nine youths, hopeful of winning the title of Thomas A. Edison's brightest boy of 1930, sat down today to puzzle over an examination that carried them from Egyptian deserts to Manchurian kitchens, from Tamerlane to Henry Ford, and from Avagrado's hypothesis to the co-efficient of a micro-farad.

This examination was something more than a test of knowledge of mathematical and chemical formulae; it was a test of common sense and ethics. For example, after the boys had spent two hours and a half on purely scientific questions, they found themselves faced with this nice problem of human behavior:

"You are the head on an expedition which has come to grief in the desert. There is enough food and water left to enable three people to get to the nearest outpost of civilization. The rest must perish. Your companions are: A brilliant scientist, 60 years old; two half breed guides, 58 and 32; the scientist's wife, interested mainly in society manners, aged 39; her little son, aged 6; the girl you are engaged to marry; your best friend, a young man of your own age who has shown great promise in the field of science.

"Which would you choose to live and which to die. Give your reasons."

The examination was divided in four parts, the most lengthy being confined to questions in chemistry, mathematics and physics.

"State avogrado's hypothesis and show how it is used by chemists in the determination of molecular weight," was the first of six questions relating to chemistry. The boys must answer five out of the six.

A typical mathematical question was the following:

"The base of a pyramid is a square, each side of which is 12 inches long. Each of the other edges is 20 inches. Find the altitude and volume of the pyramid."

In physics, among other things, the boys were asked to define the coefficient of friction, of dyne, and of micro-farad.

PUSH SEARCH FOR AIR DERBY PILOT

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, OGDEN, Utah, July 31.—(UP)—Unsuccessful in their initial attempt to find Joe Meehan, Ironton, O., missing all-American air derbyist, airport officials today planned to resume the search which has extended over three states.

Meehan is somewhere between Los Angeles and Ogden. He was one of eleven fliers who took off Tuesday morning for Ogden on the first homeward lap of the coast to coast air race. At Burbank he stopped because of engine trouble but from that point all trace was lost.

Wednesday Floyd Ririe, transport pilot flying a Travelair biplane, covered the flight course between Ogden and Las Vegas. He flew low and kept a close watch for any trace of the lost flier.

From Las Vegas, Nev., Ririe wired airport authorities the search was unavailing. He planned today to continue his search between Las Vegas and Los Angeles and, if successful, t oreturn over the same course to Ogden.

LONDON NAVAL TREATY SIGNED BY KING TODAY

Announcement of Signing Is Made In Commons By Philip Snowden

LONDON, July 31.—(UP)—King George has signed the London Naval treaty ratification, the house of commons was informed today by Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer.

Snowden announced that the ratification would be deposited simultaneously with the ratifications of the treaty by the dominions, the United States and Japan.

The naval treaty was ratified by the house of lords this week, the house of commons already having acted on the agreement.

The United States senate previously had ratified the pact and only the ratification of Japan remains. The treaty has been submitted by the emperor to the Japanese privy council for action.

The fact that the king had signed the treaty was announced by Snowden in the absence of foreign minister Arthur Henderson and Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald.

TRUCKEE, Calif., July 31.—(UP)—An appeal will be made to the federal court, it was indicated here today, to "pour oil on the blast ridden waters" of Lake Tahoe over which California and Nevada factions were fighting.

The intimation that such would be the case was made by leaders of the Nevada contingent, now under an injunction to prevent them from drawing water from the lake to irrigate ranches in that district. California residents and property owners caused the injunction to be issued to prevent the "defacement of Lake Tahoe's natural beauty."

His body was found when officers broke into the garage after it was discovered that the motor of his automobile was running but that the doors of the garage were locked from the inside.

Police found that he had chinked up the cracks in the garage with newspapers before he turned on the motor and permitted the lethal fumes to end his life.

His wife Margaret, said he had been despondent recently because of stock market losses.

Weingarten's brother, Charles, was killed by Clarence "Tuffy" Reid in a daylight holdup in Los Angeles eight years ago. Reid was hanged for the crime at San Quentin in 1925.

Report Says Lingle Murder Soon Will Be Solved By Authorities

CHICAGO, July 31.—(UP)—In its report on the Alfred J. Lingle murder and subsequent charges of racketeering by certain other Chicago newspaper men, the Cook county grand jury today gave credence to some of the charges made by Harry T. Brundidge, St. Louis Star reporter, but declined to indict any of the men Brundidge names on the grounds that the evidence "was not substantiated."

In concluding their report, the grand jurors said they "had every reason to believe that the Lingle murder will soon be solved" and exhorted the citizens of Chicago to "co-operate with the state's attorney and investigators, working solely on the Lingle case."

The grand jury later returned a supplementary report calling on Mayor William Hale Thompson to reinstate Capt. John Stege as chief of detectives. Stege was ousted with William F. Russell, police commissioner, a few days after the Chicago Tribune police reporter was assassinated June 9. Russell and Lingle were close personal friends.

SCHWAB ONLY GETS PALTRY $150,000

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 31.—(UP)—Charles M. Schwab, veteran chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, has received a salary of $150,000 a year since 1925, it was brought out today in Cyrus S. Eaton's suit to block merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with Bethlehem.

The veteran steel man's salary was revealed in a list of salaries and bonuses paid by Bethlehem since 1925 and submitted to the court at the insistence of Eaton's attorneys.

The figure was a complete surprise. It had been supposed that Schwab was receiving an annual salary variously estimated at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 a year.

Calvin Coolidge Says

By CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 31.—In Canada the liberal party has lost control of the government in the recent election and the conservative party will have a clear working majority in the incoming parliament.

Two elements contributed to this result. The first was business depression which usually works against the party in power. Many wage earners were out of work. The price of agricultural products was low. Therefore both the laborers and the farmers turned to the opposition party. The second was a resurgence of the national spirit. The Canadians voted to put Canada above the empire. They are for a tariff that will protect their own domestic interests. While their economic ties with the empire are weakened probably their political ties are unimpaired.

Our investments in Canada run into billions of dollars. Whatever will make the Dominion prosperous would be welcomed by us. We have never directed our tariff policy at the Canadians and do not expect they will direct theirs at us but any general policy of protection to build up the country would in the end make them better customers for our goods. We can best deal with a country that maintains our standards of living.

FEDERAL DRY AGENTS GIVEN NEW PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(UP)—Sensational methods of enforcement will have no place in the administration's future prohibition policy, if the program outlined today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock is followed.

Neither will federal dry agents be allowed to "waste their time upon picayunish, non-commercial cases," the new prohibition chieftain told the 12 administrators, here from all parts of the country for a two-day conference on enforcement methods.

Woodcock stressed reliance upon intelligence rather than brawn in addressing the administrators. He said his aim was more effective enforcement "fairly, honestly, earnestly and lawfully" by the best

Fires Final Shot At London Treaty

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(UP)—A parting shot at the London naval treaty was fired by Senator Hiram Johnson, Repn., Calif., before he left for the west coast. Johnson, leaer of the senate fight against ratification of the pact, predicted that a process of "debunking" soon would show the treaty to be no better than the Washington treaty of 1922.

The Californian said that the fact the pact was approved by the British house of lords "practically without opposition" proves the "hollowness and sham" of the argument of protreaty Americans that the pact was strongly opposed by British naval men.

AMERICANS IN CHINA WARNED BY WASHINGTON

Told By State Department to Withdraw to Places of Safety

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(UP)—Americans residing in the remote Chinese provinces of Hupeh, Hunan, Honan and Kiangshi have received a second warning to withdraw to places of safety because of the increased activity of Chinese bandits, the state department was informed today.

The department was advised that the American legation at Peiping ordered the warning sent Tuesday following the pillaging of Changsha by so-called Communists. Richard P. Butrick, American consul at Hankow has sent a similar warning t othe 419 Americans living in the four provinces.

Two Remain

A report from Butrick received here said the bandits have burned all the public buildings in Changsha and have crossed to the island where the foreign settlement is. The consul reported that all Americans had left Changsha except two, William Lingle, Salisbury, N. C., and Allen Cameron, Lawrence, Kan.

The 45 Americans who left the city before the bandits got control are aboard naval vessels in the river five miles below Changhsha, Butrick said. He estimated American holdings in Changhsha at $565,000 in real estate and goods worth $1,550,000.

Meanwhile, no action toward strengthening the navy's asiatic forces is contemplated here, it was said. The United States now has 6000 sailors and 2400 marines in China.

Those reported safe by Butrick follows:

Americans Leave

Butrick reported that all American residents at Changhsha not specifically mentioned in his telegram had left Changhsha reviously. Some of these Americans, he said, are now in Hankow and others are aboard the U. S. S. Palos.

Developments in China thus far do not warrant the state department in requesting the navy to augment its eastern forces, it was said at the former department today. Diplomatic officials in China are circularizing Americans in all districts where military conflicts or bandit activities seem imminent. They are warning the Americans to evacuate immediately to places of safety.

The state department had no information about demands for $1,000,000 ransom for Cameron and Lingle as reported in dispatches from China.

LONG ISLAND PLANE PASSES 256 HOURS

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., July 31.—(UP)—Louis Reichers and Robert Black rounded out 256 hours in the air at 12:34 p. m. today in their assault on the 553-hour record of the Hunter brothers.

Shortly before last night's refueling contact the pilot of the refueling plane, John S. Donaldson, sponsor of the flight, was arrested on a charge of stealing a plane but the detectives allowed him to supply Reichers and Black with gas, oil, and food before surrendering himself. Donaldson denied the charge, saying the plane was loaned him.

Declares M'Donald Made Identification of Two Radicals By Pictures

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—(UP)—Captain Charles Goff, in charge of the bomb detail during investigation of San Francisco's dynamiting outrage, July 22, 1916, today refused to recommend a pardon for Warren K. Billings, although he had previously suggested that executive clemency be extended to Thomas J. Mooney.

Goff was a lieutenant under Duncan Matheson when Billings and Mooney were arrested on charges of complicity in the bombing which killed 10 persons and injured 40.

Matheson appeared on the stand late yesterday and told a special supreme court hearing on the bombing case that both Mooney and Billings should be freed.

Declining to follow his former chief, Goff insisted that the cases were not similar.

MacDonald, a star witness in the original trials, said in a repudiation affidavit that Goff helped in the identification of the two suspects by leading him to their cells and whispering their names.

"I have never made an identification in that manner in my life," Goff declared.

Little Interest

The action of Goff in giving the lie to MacDonald failed to arouse a ripple of interest. The recanting witness has been termed untruthful so often in the last two days that reference to his complete unreliability is becoming tiresome.

As a matter of fact, MacDonald returned to San Francisco from Baltimore for the sole purpose of trying to convince the California supreme court that he lied in 1916 and 1917 when he identified Mooney and Billings as the dynamiters.

MacDonald, still shaken after several appearances as a witness in which everyone concerned tried to show his complete unreliability on all matters pertaining to the dynamiting trials occupied a spectator's seat as the hearing opened today.

Goff was the first witness summoned today. He was questioned by Fred L. Berry, who as deputy assistant district attorney, aided in convicting Mooney and Billings. Berry's role in the present hearing is a special representative of the people.

Goff denied the story told the court by MacDonald two days ago when he asserted that he had never heard of Billings before his arrest.

THERMOMETER HERE REACHES 97 MARK

Although it was hot today, it was not the hottest day of the month. According to records maintained at the Hill and Son store, the peak temperature today was 97 at noon while at 2 p. m., it had dropped to 92 degrees.

It has been warmer on several occasions this month and 98 degrees was recorded on one occasion.

OFFERS TO MARRY ANYONE FOR HOME

YUMA, Ariz., July 31.—(UP)—A 24-year-old Troy, N. Y., girl today offered herself in marriage to any young man willing to provide a home for her father and monther.

In a letter to a newspaper here, Miss Catherine Charron, who described herself as pretty and petite, asked for aid in finding an eligible bachelor.

After Big Violators

That commercitl violators rather than petty offenders will be the main objective was made clear by the director, who said:

"I think the prohibition laws can be successfully enforced against commercial operations. I shall insist that a steady pressure be maintained against these commercial violations. I disapprove sensational methods."

While Woodcock was continuing his conference with the administrators, Alcohol Commissioner J. M. Doran met today with the 12 alcohol permit supervisors to discuss promulgation of new regulations which become effective September 1.

Doran said reports indicate a larger consumption of industrial alcohol in the next year. He denied any large quantities were being diverted to bootleg channels.

Establishment of schools for training dry agents and building an esprit de corps was cited by Woodcock as another prominent part of the administration program.

Schools for Agents

"These schools are intended to train the agents in methods of gathering evidence, in knowledge of the law and in habits of discipline," the director said.

"They are intended to train the agents to act always as gentlemen and to use their brains rather than their brawn. They will not use weapons except for defense."

Woodcock said he based his hopes for success largely upon these schools. A headquarters school for training instructors will be established in Washington soon. On October 1 a group of 24 picked men who have graduated from a one-month course here will be sent to the various districts to act as schoolmasters.

Police News

Four federal prisoners were lodged in the county jail here yesterday by Los Angeles authorities. They are all to serve short sentences.

Frank Corrales, 38, of Clearwater, was lodged in the county jail late yesterday afternoon by Constable Ed Marion, of Anaheim. He is charged with issuing an alleged fictitious check.

Police were last night asked to search for Watson Paul, 23, and his wife, believed to be on their way here from San Luis Obispo. Police were informed that the car in which they were riding was stolen.

SERVICES TOMORROW

Burial services will be held at Fairhaven cemetery tomorrow at 11:30 a. m. for Martin O'Mara, formerly of Santa Ana, father of Mrs. Elmer Biggs. Mr. O'Mara died in Los Angeles Wednesday night.

tion bidding the boys solemnly to say "when you look back on your life from your death bed, by what facts will you determine whether you have succeeded or failed?"

The rather delicate question about the stranded desert party followed, and after that these questions:

"In the year 1900, how would you have gotten the first cable of a suspension bridge across an impassable gorge one-half a mile wide?"

"If you could prescribe and enforce a system of education for the whole population of the world, on what essentials would you place the greatest emphasis?"

"If you had a brother who wanted to be an artist or a poet, would you encourage him or attempt to dissuade him? Why?

Given Opportunity

"Assuming it were an engineering and financial possibility, and you were given the opportunity of devoting 20 years of your life to the sole charge of digging a hole 30 miles into the earth's interior, would you accept it or turn it down. Give your reasons."

"Suppose your best friend came to you and admitted regretfully that he had deliberately wrecked your chances of winning the Edison scholarship by writing a letter designed to hurt your standing with the judges, what would you do?"

The final question of part II asked the boys to state briefly "How you think communistic propaganda should be dealt with."

Part three consisted of one problem only. A hypothetical dean of a hypothetical university writes to his hypothetical students a letter asking their advice. One of his professors offers to give a series of lectures on Manchurian cooking. If enough of the students are interested, the lectures will be given. And the boys are required to write to the dean and tell him why they want—or do not want—to listen to talks on hte diet of the Manchurians.

History Questions

Part four, the concluding section of the quiz, dealt with history and current events. It asked for approximate date on the Battle of Gettysburg and the reign of Solomon, not to mention the probable birthday of one or two of the dawn-of-history men like Pithecanthropus and Eoanthropus.

This part also contained allusions to noted characters of fictional history, such as Nicholas Nickelby.

Edison also sought to gain some knowledge of the boys' ideas of values—and ethics—in the following question:

"If you owned the following items, set down the approximate price in dollars and cents for which you would sell them, and the sort of purchaser you would select:

(A) Ford coupe which has run 5000 miles.

(B) Basic patent which will reduce the cost of manufacturing shoes 20 cents a pair.

(C) Secret process of manufacturing a drug which will definitely cure cancer.

(E) Trade information which will enable one competitive firm to take $1,000,000 worth of net profits away from another.

(F) The secret of a new poison gas which will make any nation sypreme in war.

(G) Definite proof that the dishonesty of any employe is costing a multi-millionaire $200,00 a year."

Ask Identities

And the examiners finally wanted to know what causes the seasons of the year and what are chromosomes, as well as the names of the planets in our solar system.

The examination, scheduled for 8 a. m. was half an hour late getting under way. After completion of the first part, the boys were given a light luncheon, and then continued.

Five hours were allowed for completion of the entire test, and announcement of the winner, chosen by Edison's advisory board, will be made tomorrow. The boys will forget their problems at Coney Island as soon as the examination is over.

James H. Compton, Jr., of Wichita, Kas., was the first to complete the examination.

"It was much harder than I thought it would be," he said. "I had a hard time with the part of the test that dealt with physics because it has been a long time since I studied that subject."

In regard to the question of the party stranded in the desert, Compton said he would save the younger of the two guides, his sweetheart and his best friend.

"Why save your sweetheart," he was asked.

"Aw, I don't know," the boy replied.

Compton declared the way he would decide whether his life had been a success would be to see how many friends he had and whether he had been a comfort to his family.

Nathaniel Kurtzman of Whitefish, Mont., said he recommended saving the six-year-old boy, his sweetheart and his best friend in the desert problem. His rules for determining whether his life had been a success were: have I attained my goal; have I improved the world; have I amassed all the cultural and scientific knowledge within my power?

William C. Loy of Michigan City, Ind., said he would save the six-year-old boy, his sweetheart and his best friend.

Court Notes

Charged with speeding, Arthur Moreno, Santa Ana, was fined $20 in police court yesterday and when he was unable to raise the money, was sent to the county jail to serve 10 days.

Charged with vagrany, Henry Wilson, of Philadelphia, was given a 30-day suspended jail sentence in Judge J. F. Talbott's court yesterday.

Charged with possession of liquor L. Sandoval was fined $50 and a similar fine was meted out to R. Rodriguez, arrested at the same time on a drunk charge. Sandoval is said to have had a pint bottle of whiskey on his person at the time he was arrested Tuesday night by Santa Ana police officers.

The case of Ray Wallace, former police officer here, charged with forgery of a $100 note, was continued in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning until August 6 at 9 a.m. Bail of $3000 was held sufficient.

B. Lara, 31, and Nick Gonzales, 59, charged with disturbing the peace, following their arrests last night by Deputy Sheriff Harry Carter, were arraigned in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning and their hearing set for August 21. They asked a jury trial.

cation from pictures of Billings and Mooney and he expressed amazement that a native American, like Billings, would have anything to do with a Preparedness Day bombing," Goff testified.

Examined Pictures

"He examined the pictures alone," Goff said. "Later he said 'here is one of them' and pointed to a picture of Billings, adding 'he is the man who put the suitcase down'."

In picking out Mooney's picture MacDonald was not so sure, Goff told the court. He quoted MacDonald as saying "that looks like the man but I don't think he had a moustache."

Goff said he placed a finger over the moustache and then he quoted MacDonald as saying:

"I am quite sure that is the man."

"I never at any time led MacDonald to Mooney's cell and said, as MacDonald's repudiation affidavit relates, 'This is Mooney. This is your man'."

Goff said MacDonald walked down the cell rows and looked at 60 prisoners before he stopped at Mooney's cell and that he motioned Goff to approach and said he was the man who had accompanied the placer of a dynamite filled suitcase at the scene of the explosion.

"Then I said, 'This is Mooney,'" Goff testified.

The police officer did not recall the matter of Billings' personal identification but said he thought Chief of Police Gus White was with MacDonald then.

"I do not recall having been with MacDonald when he identified Billings in person," Goff told the court.

TRIP TO EGYPT DESCRIBED FOR SERVICE GROUP

Primitive methods of tilling the soil are still in vogue in the Canary islands, in South Africa, and along the Nile river in Egypt, it was revealed at the meeting of the Santa Ana Lions club by James Smiley, who recounted to the club some of his experiences and observations during a four months overseas tour he and his wife recently made.

Discussing traffic conditions in the Canaries, Smiley said that he was told by natives that if a motorist struck and injured a person he was fined $2, and if he killed a person the maximum fine was $10.

Speaking of Grand Canary island in particular, he said business streets are being broadened to 60 and 80 feet by the cutting back of structures that had been erected for years. The average wage there for labor is 55 cents a day and there is no definite ownership of land. The government owns all the land, and every seven years resubdivides the property, with no persons holding for more than the period one piece of ground.

His tour through Morocco and Algiers, in South Africa, disclosed that natives are still plowing with crooked sticks and he said it was not an uncommon sight to see two women and a burro providing the power for such plows.

In travelling along the Nile river, he saw a man attempting to irrigate lands by dipping water in buckets from wells, with frequent sights of four lifts to get water to land with considerable elevation above the river.

The speaker told of some of his observations in Cairo and Luxor, Egypt. At the latter point he said it cost him $6 to take a bath. He visited the Valley of the Kings and commented on relics found in some of the tombs, particularly that of King Tut, which, he said, contained many articles that are in use today, and which have been thought to have been of recent invention. He cited the instance of a speedometer on King Tut's chariot, the instrument registering the number of miles and the speed of the vehicle to which it was attached. Surgical instruments that are considered modern today were found in the tomb. These and other relics taken from the tomb are on display at the museum at Luxor.

A WORD OF COMFORT

By and large, men are accustomed to mind their own business because they are concentrated upon their selfish advantage. The serious thing is that such multitudes of men do not know what is their business.

It is your task to develop a strong, wholesome personality through a sincere endeavor to know and to fulfill God's will amid your daily occupations. It is your business to undertake all this because He expects it of you and gives you capacity and strength for it.

The reward is to be such a God consciousness and such a spiritual development as shall fit you to join your dear one in Paradise when the toil of your day is done.

A. J. CLARK, 54, HANGS SELF IN CLOSET AT HOME

Ill health was believed to have been responsible for the death by suicide late yesterday afternoon of A. J. Clark, 54, owner of the Clark Dollar stores in Los Angeles, in a house where he was living with James Ryan, a friend, in Laguna Beach.

The body was found within a few minutes after death by Ryan, who returned to the house after a trip to Balboa. Ryan cut the cord with a butcher knife and laid the body on a bed before calling a physician and the police.

Sheriff Sam Jernigan and Abe Johnson, the latter chief of police of Laguna Beach, hurried to the home and made an investigation. The body was removed to the Laguna Beach funeral chapel, where Coroner Brown took charge. Brown said he may not hold an inquest.

Clark had been residing in Laguna Beach for the past two months. He is survived by his widow, who resides in Balboa, it was reported. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Wholesale Firm's Sales For Past 6 Months $5,439,262

Sales totaling $5,439,262.26 and earnings of $60,761.86 for the first six months of 1930 were reported by W. S. Suddaby, president of the Smart and Final company, limited, large wholesale grocery firm in Southern California, with headquarters in Santa Ana, at the meeting of the board of directors this week.

Although sales were $311,243.77 greater than for the same period last year, earnings were substantially less than in 1929 and were slightly less than the average of the past five years. In view of general business conditions, however, the directors were well pleased with the showing made. An analysis of the earnings as applied to the capital structure of the company, shows that after deducting the dividends on preferred stock, they were equivalent to $2.31 per share on the common stock.

Assault Charge In La Habra Dropped

Ending a series of trials and hearings arising out of an asserted wild party in La Habra on the night of July 12, Harold Sutherland, 34, of La Habra, brought to trial this morning on a charge of assault and battery against an officer, had the case dismissed by Judge A. C. Earley.

Leo Friis, deputy district attorney, made a motion to have the case dismissed, stating that a conference had been held between city officials, the La Habra police and the district attorney's office. I. Reed, city attorney, and H. A. Lyon, of Fullerton, represented the city of La Habra while Tom McFadden, of Anaheim represented Sutherland.

Early this week, Sutherland was brought to trial for disturbing the peace but this case also was dismissed.

The candle-power of the sun is expressed by staggering figures—323 followed by 25 noughts, or 3230 quadrillions.

A car struck the rear of the Greene car as it turned in the camp ground at Joliet. Mrs. Greene received internal injuries from which she died July 18, two hours after the wreck. Mr. Greene and his son were not hurt nor was the car damaged. Mrs. Greene was buried in Howell, Mich.

MESANS TOLD PLATFORM OF STUART LUCAS

Another of the delightful neighborhood gatherings fostered by the many Lucas for Supervisor clubs was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Knox, of Tustin avenue, Costa Mesa for a group of two score voters of that immediate district.

Upon being presented Stuart H. Lucas mentioned the four planks, as printed on his cards, upon which he is basing his campaign, pointing out the necessity of having not only a man of business experience, but a man of unquestionable integrity, to act as supervisor, as there was the handling of almost $10,000,000 per annum of the taxpayers' money in the hands of the board. He pointed out that in the interest of county unity that while it was necessary to turn down many applications for funds for various purposes, that the arriving at decisions behind closed doors always tended to creation distrust in the minds of the people refused, while if the reasons for that refusal were known, the majority would see the wisdom of the refusal if it were honestly arrived at.

Lucas stated that the two thirds majority on all bond issues would have a tendency to prevent the exploitation of the property holders by those who wanted to put over measures for personal reasons and he scored the political maneuvers by which the attempt had been made to hang a heavy tax on the whole county in the interest of about three percent of the property owners interested in the flood control measure.

"Having had the honor to be the organizer of the Water Users' association, and as its president to lead the fight against that proposition, at the earnest request of many of my co-workers in that fight which was brought to a successful ending, I have consented to enter this race for supervisor, as my friends believe that I could more successfully carry on that fight from the inside looking out, than from the outside looking in," Lucas said. As this district voted two and a half to one against the bonds, there is every reason to believe that, while the waters have been muddied by a multitude of candidates, before August 26 the proper realization of the gravity of the situation will have been realized by the voters, and they will afford me the opportunity to carry on the work so well begun. I am speaking advisedly, friends, as the whole dam project hingers on this election for the cost of calling another dam election has been included in the county budget."

When asked what he would do for water conservation, Lucas replied that he favored the check dam system as worked out by Olmated in two canyons in Los Angeles county, which he said had been functioning perfectly for 12 years and he called attention to a report in the newspapers that the water officials in Los Angeles county were now turning their attention to that method of control, following the many fiascos in their dam projects.

When informed that it was being reported by the campaigners of one of his opponents that he was against harbor development, Lucas replied that he had worked for and voted for every harbor bond proposition that had been brought out except the one planned by Messrs. Lake, Shafer and Wallace, which tied up anything voted by the county upon the matching dollar for dollar by the government.

He said that three years ago he had favored that plan himself until he had been informed by United States engineer that such a plan was imposible as the government would not even consider such a proposal. As one of the harbor committee of 15 which included J. A. Beek, Lew Wallace, Dr. Hillmer, Harry Welsh, J. B. McNally whose duty it was to keep up on harbor affairs and act in an advisory capacity to the council of Newport Beach, he had been in touch with the government position and these facts were well known to every one of this committee. He stated further that his position had received the endorsement of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce in so much as directors had refused to endorse the measure for the same reasons that he had opposed it.

Lucas also stated that his support of harbor improvement was disinterested, as he owned no property whose value would be directly increased by that improvement.

Norman Paul, American Legion Drum corps candidate in the Fox theaters-Register Popularity contest is the first contestant to reach the 1,000,000 mark. This was achieved with the counting of votes made again last night. Mario Mercurio, who has been running first and second since the contest opened, was still well in the second place, but did not gain materially during the past several days.

Luvina Layton Schade, of the Green Cat cafe, who has been in first and second place since the contest opened, went back into first place again last night after being in second place for more than 10 days. She now has almost 60,000 votes more than Corrine Pennington, her nearest competitor.

A number of candidates showed strength during the last three days, since the votes were last counted, including Ted Newcomb, who is now third in the boys' division; Everett Conkright and Dorothy Reynolds, the latter of Orange. Miss Reynolds has been running a steady race from the start.

The next tabulation of votes will be made Saturday night.

ORANGE HAS HIGH BUILDING PERMITS

Showing that Orange is far above the average in building, a national report received by S. W. Strong, city building inspector, revealed that although permits were much lower than last year, they were still higher in percentage than other towns.

Up to this date last year, Orange had issued $214,525 in permits as compared to the figure for this year, $114,800. This is nearly a reduction of 50 per cent but a big majority of other cities covered in the report showed drops of one-third and lower. March was the best month this year with $36,200 while July had $18,300 as compared with $31,475 for last year.

SCHOOL WORK IS STARTED BY BUILDING FIRM

Work was started today by employes of the Wilson-Bever Construction company on the new buildings and remodeling at the Julia Lathrop junior high school on South Main street. Contracts were recently awarded for this improvement and expansion in the south side junior high school plant by the board of education.

Changes in the interior of the main building and remodeling of the old cafeteria to provide for a music hall are to be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible, it was stated today by R. H. Drake, superintendent of buildings and grounds, in order that the building may be ready for use by the time school opens next September. The construction work also provides for a new cafeteria building at the north of the present building and a new class room unit with eight rooms at the rear of the main building.

An auditorium, which was included in the original plans of the board of education for inclusion i nthe Lathrop program, had to be postponed due to lack of funds, as was a gymnasium and showers at the new Frances Willard plant. The board hopes to be able to finance these projects at some date in the future.

Motorists of Orange county who smoke and throw their cigaret or cigar stubs along highways must watch their "pops and pops" after this, for the state highway patrol and firemen will co-operate in an intensive drive next Saturday to educate drivers to the state law prohibiting the casting of stubs from moter vehicles.

According to John Luxembourger, chief of the Santa Ana fire department, firemen in uniforms will be stationed throughout the county at "stop" boulevard points, and they will hand to motorists who halt in response to the sign pamphlets containing information of the law.

While many motorists are of the opinion that the law applies only to mountainous sections, the fire chief stressed the point that it is effective as well on valley roads as on mountain highways.

Luxembourger pointed out that the summer heat has dried up the grass along roads and there is danger of setting a fire by the throwing of lighted cigar or cigaret stubs from an automobile.

RECORDS OF CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE SUBMITTED SEEN BY PEOPLE'S LEAGUE OF COUNTY

George W. Moody, secretary of the People's League of Orange county, today issued a statement thanking the many citizens who have responded generously to its call for membership subscriptions, published four weeks ago. Moody said:

"As stated at that time, its purpose is to aid in securing information that will help the voters to relieve themselves from the influence of machine politics. To do this, it has been necessary to secure information concerning the various candidates for office who will be voted upon at the primaries August 26th.

"We will very soon now present to you many facts and the records of several candidates, in so far as our investigators have been able to discover them.

"It is possible that the People's league will suggest the names of those candidates who more nearly represent the people as a whole, but at the present time it is not attempting to endorse candidates as such, but rather to furnish information concerning the candidates to the voters for their own judgment.

"Already the forces which heretofore have been practically selecting the candidates and the officers for the county are acknowledging, because of the league's activity, that a new day has dawned for Orange county's political action. It is acknowledged that several of the candidates whose only claim to preferment is that they are the candidates of a small group of politicians are almost certain of defeat and that they will be replaced,—in the judgment of this group itself—by candidates who have come out on their own responsibility in the interest of performing the function of the offices to the satisfaction of the people.

"The People's league is not against candidates simply because they are so-called courthouse candidates; it is against machine controlled candidates wherever they may be found, and there are several glaring instances of men who are not in the courthouse, who are so machine controlled."

The annual weed clean-up campaign conducted here by the city for a number of years has resulted virtually in the elimination of grass fires in the city, according to a declaration today by Clyde Jenken, city engineer.

The city official said there had been in the last three years only two or three grass fires, and that they were of little consequence.

"I doubt if any city in the state of California can show a freedom from grass fires equal to the record of this city," the engineer said. "This condition is due entirely to the practice of the city of cleaning weeds from vacant lots during the month of May. Owners are invited to clean their own properties, and the city steps in and clears the weeds where owners fail to do so. The cost is added to the property tax bill. There has been very little complaint on the part of owners to the procedure of doing the work and collecting the cost through the tax collecting department.

"Experience has taught us that unless the city leads the way and forces the clearing of lots, owners will defer the work until June or July. Drying weeds on lots during the two months offer a fire hazard seldom realized by the general public. There is little doubt but that the annual practice of weed clearing has saved residents of the city thousands of dollars in fire losses—losses that certainly would have been sustained had weeds been permitted to grow to maturity and dry up on vacant and other lots in the community."

Presbyterians Of County Plan Three Meetings Yearly

A good attendance and an interesting program marked the first union meeting of the 10 Presbyterian churches in the county at Anaheim city park last evening, and plans were laid for three such meetings each year.

Organization of a county wide church union, which had been proposed for the denomination, did not materialize at the gathering last night. A committee, composed of one member from each church in the county, was authorized to work out a program for the future meetings of the churches.

The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Santa Ana, who is president of the Presbyterian Ministers' association in the county, presided at the meeting last night, which opened with a pot luck supper. Speakers were Dr. Hildreth Caldwell, a medical missionary from Punjab, India, and Dr. Murdock McLeod, of San Francisco.

CHINA EVENTS DESCRIBED BY HARRY WORLEY

Editor's Note—A number of people in the city are in receipt of an especially fine statement of the situation in China seen through the eyes of the Rev. Harry W. Worley, who is in charge of the Methodist Theological seminary at Foochow.

This statement is one of the cleverest and most succinct statements we have seen on the Chinese situation, and undoubtedly will help clarify it in the minds of many. An added interest in this article is the fact that Mrs. Worley is the sister of Mrs. O. Scott McFarland. The Rev. Mr. Worley has written this article under the head of "What's Happening in China." He says:

"Seven month have passed since the last copy of this little folder went out. We have seen the return of the year, when generals go out to battle," to paraphrase II Samuel 11:1. The armies are battling on extensive fronts. The opposition to the Central government seem to be even more widespread than it was last year in June, but still with uncanny skill Chiang Kai Shek keeps in the saddle. Not less than five distinct revolutions aimed at the overthrow of the Central government have failed in the last 23 months since Peking was captured and unification announced. The sixth and most formidable is now in process of warlike settlement. How it will eventuate, anyone is at liberty to guess, but no one knows.

"If the Kuomintang or Nationalist party had come to power by virtue of the franchise of the people, or if the people by direct vote had selected Chiang Kai Shek for president, much could be said against those who are thus disturbing the peace of the country. But the Kuomintang is in power by virtue of a compromised military victory, so much can be said for the opponents of Chiang. What do I mean by a compromised military victory? When the armies of the Kuomintang started out from Canton on that memorable day in July, 1926, to unify the country and capture Peking, they had three army corps with a total strength of about 60,000 men. As they traveled northward they fought a few brilliant and strategic battles. But for the most part they made overtures to the military units that opposed them. With rare exceptions these units, whether ex-bandits or well-trained soldiers, accepted the terms of the Nationalists, and were incorporated in the armies of the Kuomintang. Before Peking had been captured the original three army corps of the Kuomintang had been swelled to thirty-eight! Neither these soldiers nor their officers had been converted to the principles of the Kuomintang, or to any real patriotism. It was just expedient for them to unite in this way, and hope for a turn of events which would permit them to return to their old game of banditry and military oppression of the people. If the armies of the Kuomintang had ruthlessly exterminated these armies of ex-bandits and mercenary troops, they would have found themselves in a position of absolute authority, able to do much for the peace of the country. But they had compromised their position and strength by taking into their fold many times their own numbers of unpatriotic and mercenary troops. It was a compromised military victory. Now they are facing these troops, who are trying to oust Chiang Kai Shek, and wrest his position from him.

"The paragraph above gives in very short form the reason for the continued fighting which has characterized China's civil life since the capture of Peking, and the unification of the country was announced less than two years ago.

"Doubtless the papers at home are full of stories of the present great effort to overthrow the Nanking government. Generals Yen Hsi Shang and Feng Yu Shang are calling on all the patriotic citizens of the country to unite in an attempt to drive out the traitor Chiang Kai Shek, who they say has usurped the presidency and surrounded himself with a large group of rapacious and self-seeking relatives. President Chiang has also issued proclamations calling on all the loyal citizens to unite in driving out these pestilential war lords who will not submit to the authority of the Central government. Easily a million soldiers are engaged on a wide front from Hankow to Shantung. The suffering and economic loss in the territory of the fighting is perfectly enormous. But more serious still is the loss of prestige to the whole country which such continued fighting entails.

"Back of all these storm clouds there is a silver lining as far as our work and safety is concerned. The normal attitude of the Chinese is not one of hatred for the foreigner. The unnatural wave of anti-foreign feeling, worked up by the Russian agitators in 1927, has largely subsided, so we have nothing to fear from the common people. The Chinese government is very anxious to receive the favorable recognition of the western powers. It knows that it must protect the lives and property of foreigners within its territory to receive this recognition. So from the people we have nothing to fear, and from the government we are afforded adequate protection. Consequently we have a sense of security in going about our work, which is quite out of proportion to the anxiety of many of our friends. Do not understand this to mean that all missionaries in all parts of China are safe. This is far from the case. But in view of the unsettled condition of the country at large, we have been surprisingly safe."

Metal Craft Shop Is Opened In S. A.

Ed C. Greeley and Fred W. Grimm have opened a shop at 807 East First street, which is to be known as the Metal Craft shop and where all kinds of general sheet metal work will be done by the firm.

Both members of the firm are residents of this city, Greeley having lived here for the past 13 years and Grimm for the past 11 years. They were formerly owners of the G. and G. Metal shop and have had the metal work of several of the largest sheet metal shops in the city

It is expected that in a short time a large force of men will be employed by the new firm. Both men are well acquainted with contractors and builders of the county and they anticipate establishing a business which will develop rapidly.

BY L. L. BEEMAN

I will continue my explanation of the efforts to end the war. In addition to those already mentioned there were three other efforts to establish peace made before the final one. One by the International Socialists, one by the Socialists of Germany and Austria, and one by the pope. The Internationalist Socialists' demand for peace was brought about by the Russian revolution. A Swede by the name of Branting, who was at the head of a Dutch-Scandinavian Socialist committee, invited Socialists of all nations to a meeting at Stockholm in March, 1917. The governments of the United States, France and England withheld passports from Socialist delegates and thus prevented them from attending. This Stockholm meeting failed. Then the Socialists of Germany and Austria met and drew up a peace program with the following provisions: (1) No annexations of territory. (2) No indemnities should be paid. That is to prevent any nation from making money out of the war. (3) Self-government should be given the subject peoples of Austria-Hungary. (4) Independence for Finland and Poland. (5) Commerce and commercial transportation lines on land and sea should be under the administration of an international authority. (6) The prohibition of the capture and arming of merchant vessels.

Pope Asks Peace

On August 1, 1917, the Catholic church through Pope Benedict XV, asked the belligerent powers to make peace on the following terms: (1) "Replace material force by the moral force of right." (2) Reduction of armaments. (3) The settlement of international disputes by arbitration. (4) Freedom of the seas. (5) No indemnities should be paid except in certain special cases. (6) The evacuation and restoring of all occupied territories. (7) An examination of rival territorial claims taking into consideration the aspirations of the populations.

President Wilson spoke for the Allies and flatly refused to accept the proposals tthough they included many of his most important "Fourteen points." He refused on the ground that the Allies could not negotiate with the irresponsible German officials. He said the German people must repudiate them, that the Allies would negotiate only with the German people.

Peace Principles

It is interesting to note in all these peace proposals that there are several principles in common. They are: (1) Freedom of the seas. (2) Freedom of trade. (3) Reduction of armaments. (4) The "self-determination of races," that is, any race or people should be free to determine for itself the kind of government it should have.

This fourth principle had more far-reaching results and caused more serious complications than any other principle. It is the fundamental principle of democracy and Locke and Jefferson said it is a natural and inherent right that cannot be taken away from a people, that it applies to all people everywhere.

In England, France, Italy and Russia till the revolution there, it was regarded as a good principle to be applied to the Central Powers, their enemies, but not to themselves. It was merely a military expedient for themselves. If all the subject races under the control of the Hohenzollerns, Hapsburgs and the Sultan were led to revolt and set up independent governments, the Allies of course would win easily. This is proven by the secret treaties by which Italy was to get not only her Italian territory and subjects but the Dalmatian coast inhabited by Serbs. Russia was to get Turkey in Europe and the Straits. Roumanians under Austrian authority were to bet set free and restored to Roumania, but Roumanians under Russian autocracy were not to be given their freedom and allowed to join their fellow countrymen. The Armenians under Turkish rule were to be given freedom but a much greater number of Armenians under Russian domination were not.

Independence Urged

The Poles, Czecho-Slovaks, Hungarians, Italians and Bosnians under the authority of Germany and Austria were urged to set up independent governments by the Allies. Some of them did and were recognized by France, England, United States. But they did not urge this great blessing upon the Finns, Esthonians, Latvians, Ukranians, and Armenians under the worst autocracy in the world, Russia, till after the Russian revolution and Russia became their enemy. After Russia had withdrawn from the war the secret treaty made with the Czar by which Russia was to get Constantinople was nullified by the Allies. Then to carry out the agreement between England, France and Italy and take care of Italian promises and interests the Greeks and Armenians and other Christians within the Turkish empire were sacrificed. There was no such thing as independence and self-government for them under the protection of the Allies. The massacre and deportation of these people was allowed to go on and is unparalleled in modern times, unless it be under the old regime in Russia. Some one has suggested that an appropriate epitaph for this million of Christians who were throughout the war enemies of Germany and friends of the Allies and who were massacred by the Turks would be, "They lost their lives because they were loyal to those who could have saved them."

Promise Forgotten

It should be noticed that England and France took and still hold against the will of the people of Palestine, Mesopotamia and Syria. Lord Balfour, foreign secretary for England, promised the Jews on November 2, 1917, Palestine for a national home, a promise forgotten as soon as the war was over. England did grant Hedjez, (Arabia) independence if she would revolt against Turkey. This promise she has kept but there were good military reasons for this. Egypt was given her freedom by England, but because of some trouble later, Egypt is at present under the domination of her old master, England.

Central Powers

We are now ready for the surrender of the Central Powers. You will remember that the famous Hindenburg line held at the same place for a little over three years, from December 1914 to the winter of 1918. During March 1918, the Germans began a new offensive along a 150 miles battle front on the west, extending from Rheims to Lille France. By June, they had driven the Allies back along this entire 150 or 200 mile line. The Germans had advanced to Chateau Thierry again, only 40 miles from Paris. The German big guns from behind the lines were dropping shells in Paris. All was fear and consternation in France and among the Allies. In May, the soldiers of the United States were first called into action at Chateau Thierry in a last heroic effort to check the onslaughts of the German army. They held an dthere was great rejoicing everywhere among the Allies. The French and their allies took heart again. On July the first, Marshal Foch ordered an offensive along the entire line from Switzerland to the sea, a distance of about 600 miles.

By this time there were over one million United States soldiers in France, well equipped and most of them ready for action. Three months later there were more than two million United States men in France. By September the Germans had been driven back past the Old Hindenburg line. The Allies were winning all along the line. This gave new hope to the Allies in the east, in the Balkans. A new army was organized there. It was composed of Serb, Greek, English and French troops. This army attacked Bulgaria and soon won a crushing victory. Bulgaria surrendered unconditionally on September 29, 1918. This was a serious blow to the Central Powers as it took one of them out of the war and divided them by cutting Turkey off. It also cut Germany off from rich and valuable supplies for her army from the east. General Allenby with a British Army had captured Palestine in 1917. He now took the offensive against Turkey from the south, capturing Syria and Mesopotamia and was pushing on north. At the same time Turkey was open to attack from the west. Thus exposed, she surrendered unconditionally on October 31.

Austria Crushed

The Italian army had taken the offensive against the Austrians. As Germany was now unable to send any assistance Austria was defeated and driven out of Italy. The subject peoples within the old Hapsburg empire now saw their opportunity for independence and freedom. With the encouragement and promised help of the Allies, they began to withdraw and set up new governments of their own. The Poles, the Czechs and Slovaks and Hungarians withdrew and set up three new republics. The Roumanians, Jugo-Slav and Italians also withdrew and each joined their fellow countrymen in new nations. Old Austria proper was helpless before the Allied armies, her people were starving and her government threatened with revolution. She threw herself on the mercy of the Allies and surrendered unconditionally on November 3.

As early as the middle of September the German military staff saw the "handwriting on the wall." The invincible German army was already defeated and might collapse at any time. The Allies, flushed with victory, were pressing forward rapidly and would within a few days or weeks be invading German soil. Consequently General Hindenburg and Ludendorff appealed to President Wilson for terms of armistice. President Wilson refused to treat with the old military and civil authorities, telling them that the German government must be changed so as to permit the people to rule, with whom he would talk terms of peace. Soon thereafter some changes were made in the laws and Wilson was informed that the people of Germany were now exercising the power. Wilson again refused to treat, saying the government had not been essentially changed and added that, "the nations of the world do not and can not trust the word of those who have hitherto been the masters of German policy." This meant that both the German military and civil officials must abdicate or resign and allow others to take charge of affairs in Germany. By October the German people suddenly got their eyes open. After four years of assurances of victory, territorial expansion and huge war indemnities, the truth could no longer be kept from them.

The invincible German army was already defeated, soldiers and sailors were mutining, and the whole army was on the verge of surrender or collapse. Things moved quickly after this. The Kaiser abdicated, the chancellor resigned in favor of Frederick Ebert, the leader of the German Social Democrats in the Reichstag. The Kaiser and his government were gone, a new republican government was set up with Ebert as president. This new government was accepted by the German army and navy and the German officials, both state and national. The only opposition came from the radical socialists. Their two leaders, Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg were killed and opposition stopped.

On November 8, President Wilson turned the matter of peace over to Marshal Foch to make known to the German people the terms upon which they would agree to peace. These terms had been agreed upon among the Allied leaders. The new German government accepted the terms and the armistice was signed November 11, 1918. Thus ended the greatest of all wars and also the meteoric career of the German empire after an existence of 47 years. You will note I said the end of the German empire, not the German nation or people. They have a great record of past achievement and will yet in the future achieve many more great and good things.

RETIRED ARMY OFFICER TALKS TO LIONS CLUB

ORANGE, July 31.—Lt. Steve Donnley retired officer of the U. S. navy was the speaker at the Lions club yesterday when he gave interesting incidents of his career which extended over a period of 38 years when he enlisted in the marines as a boy of scarcely 14 years of age until his recent retirement with the rank of senior lieutenant.

The difference between naval craft of the present day and naval craft of his early years as a seaman, were told by the speaker.

Diving methods of the past and present, were explained by the naval officer who said that while a diver might be lowered 300 feet in the water in three minutes time, it might take hours before he could be brought safely back to the surface after having been under such extreme pressure.

In former years the diver was left in the sea and drawn to the surface slowly, the speaker declared, but at the present time he may be brought up quickly and placed in a tank where the pressure approximates that of the water from which he was taken. The pressure is gradually lessened by mechanical means until danger of physical injury is removed.

The part Donnley played in the World war was of especial interest and the story of his capture by a German submarine in the Mediterranean was dramatically related. The more modern phases of warfare and of aviation in which Lt. Donnley is greatly interested, were told, the speaker telling of forced landings he had made as a flyer and other thrilling air experiences.

At the close of his talk the officer was asked to sing "My Wild Irish Rose" and he responded with "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," as an encore.

ORANGE, July 31.—Geo. Bartley, constable of Orange township, firmly believes that animals have good memories and as proof of this he offers the fact that the doe which he gave as an addition to the Irvine park herd three years ago has never forgotten him and never fails to greet him with a friendly nudge of her head whenever he visits the park.

Bartley bought the doe in the north and for three months kept her at his home at El Modena where she became greatly attached to him. Later he presented her to the park and often visited her there, taking with him things which she was fond of eating. The doe, whose name is "Nannie" is now a proud grandmother as two of her fawns are mothers.

At the present time Bartley says there are 14 deer in the herd, the greater number of the animals being does. Nannie's first fawn was a doe which was named "Violet."

There are two spiked bucks which caretakers at the park are anxious to dispose of, Bartley says.

The herd is viewed by hundreds of visitors to the park each week but only Nannie and Violet are especially friendly to human beings.

DISCUSSION ON NEW CHRISTIAN SERVICE HELD

ORANGE, July 31.—A very interesting and lively discussion was held last night by the members of the Christian church as they again considered the proposed change to the "Graded Unified Service of Worship and Instruction." The pastor, Franklin H. Minck, led the discussion, on "Advantages and Disadvantages of the Proposed Plan."

Some of the disadvantages were felt to be without much real foundation, but it was felt that there are some difficulties connected with the fact that the plan is new. This involves a great deal of teaching before it will be understood. The difficulty of being on time at the early hour was raised and the fact that the two church services would divide the morning congregation into two parts. The whole question here is whether enough will come to compensate for the division or whether circumstances will alter so that one church service can be held at 9:30 a. m.

The advantages were also discussed. It was felt that the young people are entitled to a vital part in the church service which will thus be of interest to them. It will unite their loyalties to the church rather than splitting it between Sunday school, Christian Endeavor and church. It gives people a chance of coming to a 9 or an 11 a. m. church service. An earlier dinner or an earlier start on a trip will be possible by coming at nine. It gives more time for Christian education. It provides for one worship service for each person rather than one at Sunday school and another at church. Preparation is made for every worship service one week in advance. This instruction will make the worship vital to the lives of the people. And finally it was felt that having the two services would result in more people hearing the gospel preached.

No decision will be made until September.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

Miss Cruickshank In Finals

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

Nothing succeeds like success, and so today the girl nobody knew is the most observed of the observers.

With any kind of luck at all, Josephine Cruickshank—Santa Ana's own Helen Wills Moody—will rank one-two-three-four among America's women tennis players by the end of her summer's campaign on Eastern courts.

There is no more improved player in the country than this comely envoy who has labored against so many unfortunate circumstances in the past.

Already this season she has beaten virtually every woman who ranks above her in the official ratings of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

First she won the National Collegiate singles championship. Schoolgirl opposition was just a breeze for Miss Cruickshank who went through the tournament with the loss of but four games.

At Essex, one of the major tournaments, Miss Josephine was eliminated only in the semi-finals by her doubles partner, "Midge" Gladman of Santa Monica, but only after three sets, 1-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Today she reached the final round at Seabright by defeating Miss Edith Cross, third ranking American woman player, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3. Other victims in this tournament include Dorothy Weisel, California state champion, at 6-3, 10-8; Ethel Burkhardt, eighth ranking in the nation, 8-6, 6-4, and Mary Lamme of New York, 7-5, 5-7, 6-2.

Mrs. Harper is one of the finest shotmakers in the world but Miss Cruickshank defeated her at Essex, 8-6, 2-6, 6-2, and if she is on her game probably will repeat at Seabright.

While she is too fine a sportswoman ever to complain, tennis followers know that Miss Cruickshank was the unluckiest of players the two times she competed in the National Women's tournament at Forest Hills.

We all have the right to hope that misfortune does not overtake her on this, the most successful of her invasions.

Two years ago, her first entry into the "big league" of courtdom, the Santa Ana girl was paired in the very first round against the invincible Helen Wills, now Mrs. Moody, who is without an equal in the tennis world. The then Miss Wills naturally defeated Miss Cruickshank. Scores were 6-1, 6-0.

Lightning never repeats, they claim, but it did last season. Miss Cruickshank's first round opponent was Phoebe Watson, a member of the British Wightman cup team and in many ways England's premier player. Mrs. Watson eliminated Miss Josephine in straight sets, although the Santa Anan played some fine tennis.

On the strength of her splendid form this summer, it is reasonable to assume that the tennis powers-that-be will "seed" Miss Cruickshank in the 1930 tournament. This is done with all ranking players. It is a system that prevents outstanding players from meeting in the early rounds and exterminating each other to the elimination of public interest before the semi-final and final rounds are reached.

Miss Cruickshank will play in tournaments at East Hampton and Rye before going to Forest Hills for the Nationals which begin August 18.

by DENNY SHUTE

I have heard many golfers say that holding a position at the head of the field, after attaining leadership before the final round begins, is one of the hardest things about medal play golf. I disagree with them.

Being in front never has held any terrors for me. Frankly, I think that is the main reason I have enjoyed greater success as a professional than I did as an amateur.

While leading the field there are many things to think about, but I usually figure out just what I have to do, then do it. I would, as a matter of fact, rather be ahead than a few strokes behind. It seems easier to me to hold a lead than to go out and get one.

In the two big tournaments I won during the winter, I got away to a lead before the final round and held it. In each case, I just figured out what I had to do, not making it too hard on myself, and did it.

I started the final round of the Los Angeles Open determined to get a 75. I knew that El Espinosa, who was following me, would have to get a 71 to tie me (I had a four-stroke lead) and would have to be under par to beat me.

Taking the rain and the slow condition of the course into consideration, I didn't think he had a chance to break par, or equal it. Furthermore, I didn't figure I did, either. However, a 75 seemed like easy sailing for me, so I went out after it. I actually came in with a 74 and had two three-putt greens I wouldn't have had if I had been concentrating. I think that method cures the inclination to get worried and lose ground, a fault of so many players when they're out in front.

'TUFFY' STOPS HEENEY, SPOILS BOUT FOR MAX

NEW YORK, July 31.—"Tuffy" Griffiths, of Sioux City, Ia., scored a technical knockout over Tom Heeney of New Zealand, when Heeney was unable to answer the bell for the final round of a scheduled 10-round bout at the Queensboro stadium last night.

Griffiths deserved his victory for he had done most all of the leading and received almost no punishment from the Anzac.

Griffiths, who scaled 187 against Heeney's 205 1-2, was credited with winning every round after the third. Heeney won the first round because Griffiths had been knocked halfway through the ropes within the first minute of the round. The second and third were even.

Unlike most recent bouts, the contest produced no aftermaths. Boxing circles here had it that Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, intended to use Heeney as a "warm-up" for his charge if Heeney made a creditable showing against the Iowan. Heeney, however, showed nothing to warrant such a move. He was saved from a knockout when the bell ended the ninth round. Griffiths had scored solid blows to the head and body near the end of the ninth.

Heeney went down, came back up in a hunch, ready to accept the coup de grace when the bell sounded.

'Cozy' Dolan Is Arrested As Club Raided

CHICAGO, July 31.—"Cozy" Dolan, former New York Giant coach who was barred from organized baseball by Commissioner Landis in 1924, was under arrest today, charged with violating the prohibition laws.

Federal dry agents, led by Thadd Rowden, new deputy administrator for this district, raided Dolan's Gold Coast Night club late last night, confiscated 12 cases of liquor, 500 bottles of beer and a quantity of wine and arrested Dolan and six other men.

In 1924, Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell were accused of attempting to bribe Heinie Sand of Philadelphia to "throw" a game so the Giants could win the pennant.

S. A. NET STAR WINNER OVER EDITH CROSS

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 31.—Two California women tennis stars advanced to the final round of the Seabright invitation tournament today.

Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper, Oakland, Calif., defeated Virginia Hilleary, of Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-2, while Miss Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Calif., beat Miss Edith Cross, another Pacific Coast player, 6-2, 6-3.

Both Miss Cruickshank and Mrs. Harper were in top form and ran through their matches without the loss of a set.

Miss Cruickshank, tenth ranking

Mrs. Harper's victory was at the expense of a young player whose triumphs this summer have been the sensation of eastern tournaments. Miss Hilleary is ranked fourteenth.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 31.—Continuing his sensational tennis career on eastern courts, Ellsworth Vines, lanky Pasadena, Cal., youth, entered the semi-final round of the Seabright invitation tournament today to face Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., second ranking player. It was the second meeting between the pair within a week, Vines having beaten Hunter in five sets in the Metropolitan turf courts championship Sunday.

Santa Ana night baseball fans can take their pick of two atrractive games tomorrow night.

They either can trek to Huntington Beach and see the Stars arrayed for the last time this year against Howard Morning, or they can remain at home and watch Santa Ana and Westminster fight it out for the Orange County "B" league championship in the Bowl.

Both contests promise to be close and interesting.. After weeks of bad baseball, Morning, once greatest of all owl pitchers, has regained his old form and figures to give Santa Ana a torrid argument all the way. Joe Cornelius will work for the Stars, according to Manager Herb Salveson's plans.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Four or five times is all that Bill Tilden ever uses one tennis racquet ..He discards it then for a new one..The discards always go to William T. Tilden III, No. 1 ranking player on the Haverford school team and nephew of Big Bill II.. Young Bill bids fair to become as great in the tennis game as his uncle..He's the son of Herbert M. Tilden, Big Bill's brother, who died 15 years ago..Philadelphia tennis fans say that Herb was better than Bill..but he gave up competitive play to develop his brother into the greatest tennis player this country has known..Young Bill looks like Uncle Bill..he's 16, weighs 175, stands a half inch over six feet tall ..and has a marked facial resemblance to his uncle.."Uncle Bill showed me how to hold a racquet a long time ago," said the boy.. "It's one of the first things I can remember"..Bill III wears knickers when he plays..Which offers quite a contrast to Bill II in white ducks.

NEW WORLDS TO CONQUER

It is evident that William Woodward reads more than just the racing news on the sports pages. He has announced that Gallant Fox, his sturdy thoroughbred, will go to England in search of prizes, immediately following the American three-year-old champion's campaign in this country.

Mr. Woodward must have noted in the sports pages that Americans haveb een capturing British honors right and left this year. The double triumph of Bobby Jones in golf and the tennis victories of Bill Tilden, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody must have convinced Gallant Fox's owner that the time to strike is while the iron is hot.

And so the son of Sir Gallahad III-Marguerite, who has won six consecutive stake race victories this season, will be led aboard an ocean liner and shipped to England, immediately following the running of

City league night baseball fanciers said today that the team to whip for the second half championship was the American Legion, which won its third straight victory of the new season when it manhandled the Excelsior creamery, 18 to 2, in the Bowl last night.

With the venerable veteran, "Oil" Jones, in his 1914 form, the Excelsiors had a tough time making any headway against the river of funs that poured all around them. Jones limited the Milk-Peddlers to five hits, three of which were bunched to score the two Excelsior tallies in the fourth, while his buddies were blasting bingles to every section of the Bowl.

The Legion made two runs in the first, six in the third and four in both the fourth and seventh. Fred Robertson contributed three hits. Barker, Wood, Bacon, Murillo and Boyle all hit safely twice.

The first half of the doubleheader also witnessed a one-sided slug-fest, with the Eastern Oil out in front of the Courthouse, 15 to 8. Bacon paced the Oilers with four bingles. Friend got three and Hudson, Smith, Lutz and Wishardt two.

The Auto Club of Orange County plays the Pacific Telephone company tonight. The score:

ORVILLE VEEH WINS MIDGET LINKS PLAY

Veeh was out in 46, back in 48 to equal par for 36 holes.

Charles Olsen and F. E. Welch tied for second place, Welch winning the prize in an 18-hole playoff. A. S. Freshman was fourth.

FOOTBALL NOTE

An innovation in midwestern football circles—the numbering of his players, both fore and aft—will be tried out this fall by Noble Kizer, below, young head football coach at Purdue university, who plans to make it easy for spectators, radio announcers and newspaper correspondents to identify the Boilermakers.

The jersey of each athlete will bear an eight-inch number on the back and a six-inch number on the front.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, July 31.—There apparently comes a time in the lives of men, even the most subtle of them, when the mind turns traitor and refuses to have anything further to do with the rest of the body. When that time comes, their legs start doing things at random—with the inevitable result.

Burleigh Grimes is known all over the baseball wheel as an intelligent ball player who is perfectly capable of doing his own pitching and hitting—and thinking. An analytical type, his opinions on ball field matters are respected, and, indeed, valued. Yet on the occasion of his first appearance in a Boston box score, he committed the unpardonable sin. He very abruptly stole third with the bases filled.

As a matter of fact, it might seem that only the wise are capable of outstanding absurdities in the plain view of all that baseball affords. The dullard is a conscious painstaking thinker. He quickly settles into the grove of baseball tactics and is careful never to transgress routine. Maybe he dimly realizes that he is not quite bright and so is constantly vigilant against mental error.

How else can one account for the fact that highly intelligent men like Fred Merkle, Dave Bancroft, Lazzeri, Koenig, and others have been guilty of the immemorial bone?

I have no acquaintance, personal or otherwise with the equipment of John Anderson, the original anatomist o fthe diamond. All one knows is that he is famed in rhyme and sonnet as the pioneer of a play that calls for a clean steal of second with all of the bases occupied.

"Red" Faber Did It, Too

Nor does one hear of Urban "Red" Faber, the venerable gentleman of Chicago, as being notable for a lack of intelligence. Yet in the midst of the 1917 world series, of which he was the pitching hero, he stole third quite without warning. In fact, he even neglected to take the base runners on first and third into his confiednce.

By this time, the point about the high degree of Merkle's intelligence has been sufficiently emphasized. So has the fact that his negligence was important only be-

JESS FAVORED: HERNANDEZ IN SEMI-WINDUP

Two little fistic robots who can give and take punishment mingle tonight in an eight-round main event at Promoter H. T. Foust's Orange County Athletic club. One is Tony Moreno, the "fighting fool" from Placentia; the other Jess Gabucco, game, tough little Filipino.

They will be exchanging leather for the third time, trying to decide which is the better man—a much disputed subject up to now.

Gabucco knocked out Moreno the first time he met up with Ralph Pantusso's courageous protege. Jess was hotter than a firecracker that night, and he was fighting a raw, inexperienced youngster from the bushes who was scared stiff as he sat in a corner of a "big time" ring for the first time in his life. Fans will remember that the bout was staged in Hollywood.

Year Between Bouts

There was an interlude of a solid year before Moreno got a chance to erase the stigma of that defeat, one of the very few on his record book.

Promoter Foust paired Moreno and Gabucco at Delhi two weeks ago tonight, and Moreno won. The decision was questioned but Moreno won just the same.

So the bantams, scaling 124 pounds, enter the ring all square this evening.

Gabucco has been installed a slight favorite but there is no particular reason why except that most everybody except Referee Steve Nyland believed the Filipino was a little better than Tony two weeks ago.

Moreno is a bad one to bet against, however, and the argument looks like a tossup in every respect.

Fast Fight Predicted

One thing is certain. Barring a quick knockout, Delhi fans should see one of the fastest fights of the season. Moreno and Gabucco are geared to speed, and they hit well for little fellows, too. Both can "take it" so the odds are against a repetition of their Hollywood battle.

Steve Nyland will be the third man in the ring again.

The state boxing commission now allows clubs to pick their own officials. Foust has selected Nyland, Bob White and Jack McDonald as the Delhi referees because they have done the best work here. It happens to be Nyland's turn to work tonight. McDonald will be in there next week and White the week after.

Hernandez Favored

Ortego has never shown at Foust's arena but he is reported to be good and game enough to test the rugged Hernandez, about ready to step out as a main-eventer in his own right.

An Ortego triumph would set Hernandez back in his classwork considerably but such an event is not likely. Hernandez is always a good bet. He is young and strong and ambitious.

"Spike" Harvey and Mickey Koshell head the preliminaries.

The other bouts probably will have to carry this one. Harvey is strictly a boxer and Koshell is just so-so. Harvey should outbox the Mick.

cause it was the means of deciding the 1908 pennant race. Likewise the fact that he only did what many another had done in similar circumstances — without, however being apprehended. Merkle simply was the victim of fate.

Bancroft's lapse and that of Lazzeri and Koenig were far more reprehensible, yet I doubt if many now recall the former and I have talked with baseball men who never even heard of the latter, although it happened only a few weeks ago. It happened, as a matter of fact, on the opening day in Philadelphia. Haas was on first base and was forced at second, Koenig to Lazzeri. The latter deemed the side to have been retired, and, rolling the ball into the middle of the infield, started for the bench.

Koenig was a little brighter, but not enough so. He retrieved the ball, and to the amazement of all, he started chasing Haas, the man who had been retired only a moment before, toward third. Meantime Simmons, advanced unmolested from first base. He scored, within the minute on a clean single to the outfield.

As for David J. Bancroft, admittedly one of the split-second thinkers of the profession, he was at the time of his shame McGraw's field captain and, as such, was required to be so smart that he even was expected to know what McGraw was thinking. The Giants were playing the Cubs this time and Bancroft was on third base, with first and second also occupied. But the man on first got too frisky and was picked off, leaving that base "open."

A moment later, the batter walked, and to the astonishment of everybody, Bancroft calmly started walking toward the plate. Bob O'Farrell, then catching for the Cubs, saw him coming, and, just as calmly, he waited, ball in hand. When Mr. Bancroft got close enough to tag, Mr. O'Farrell tagged him and the incident was closed.

TRAINS SLAUGHTER DEER IN COLORADO

DENVER, July 31.—(INS)—Colorado game officials today were puzzling over a method of reventing the unrecedented slaughter of door by railroad locomotives running west of Pueblo, between Salida and Canon City.

Deer have become so lentiful in that section that on almost every trip of a railroad train one or more of the animals are killed, according to the game officials.

At the approach of a train, the deer become confused and often seek to escape by running along the railroad track.

Five deer were killed at one time by a train the other day, and, although the number of such deaths is on the increase, no plan to save the deer has yet been worked out, according to R. G. Parvin, state game and fish commissioner.

Mickey Walker Is Knockout Winner

NEWARK, N. J., July 31.—Mickey Walker of Rumson, N. J., world's middleweight champion, knocked out Willie Oster of Boston, former navy champion, in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout before a crowd of 20,000 at Dreamland park last night. Walker's title was not at stake as both boxers came over the middleweight limit.

CHANCES LOOK GOOD

Mr. Woodward's decision to ship the American champion to foreign tracks was not reached until after he had given it considerable thought. The successes he has known abroad with his extensive string of thoroughbreds during the past few years was a determining factor. It is barely possible, too, that Mr. Woodward looked upon this as an American year of triumphs in England, in view of what has gone on.

The Fox will be given several weeks to become fully acclimated and familiar to running on sod. His trainer's instructions will be to get him in perfect condition and then race him in as many stakes as he may prove eligible to start in.

There is every reason to believe that Gallant Fox will win on British soil as he has won in this country. He has the speed and if he is allowed to become accustomed to English racing conditions, he should succeed. Reigh Count, the American three-year-old champion in 1928, made an extensive tour of England and enriched his owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz of Chicago, by several thousand dollars. Lord Derby who watched Gallant Fox race to an easy victory in the Kentucky derby said he could step in the fastest company with success.

Scout II, son of Sir Gallahad III and half brother of Gallant Fox, was listed among the favorites in the Epsom Downs derby. He finished outside of the money, but his decisive victory later in the Lincolnshire places him in high rank among the thoroughbreds of England.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Connie Mack, who worried a little about his wobbly pitching and shady hitting recently, now declares that his boys will win out.. "They're beginning to click now," are the words of the veteran manager..Connie still likes to talk of the last world series..In spite of what everybody said of Howard Ehmke and "Lefty" Grove in that series, Connie thinks Earnshaw did the niftiest job of pitching..although he lost, 3 to 1..John McGraw still lives in hopes that he'll find a Jewish ball player who can play good ball..Scout Dick Kinsella, who roams the coast circuit for McGraw, was instructed to supply at least one Jewish lad this season ..His contribution was Harry Rosenberg..If Rosenberg becomes a turnstile magnet this year, it is because the Bronx boys like the way he hits fungoes to the outfielders in practice.

John Pesek, the Nebraska Tiger man, who claims he can't get guys like Sonnenberg, Londos and Shikat to wrestle him, would go into the fight game right now . . . if Al Haft, his manager, would let him . . . The flame was kindled in Pesek after he had seen Carnera in a boxing exhibition. . . . "Listen, Al," and Haft listened, "if that big fellow can make a million dollars in the fight game, I can make two million," said the Tiger Man. . . . He's handy with his dukes, at that . . . Pesek's like a lot of other fellows, though—fellows who predominate in one branch of sport . . . Jack Dempsey pestered Jack Kearns with a crazy desire to take up wrestling. . . . Babe Ruth once wanted to become a boxer . . . Willie Hoppe always wanted to be a ball player. . . . Denny Shute would become a wrestler if they'd create a fleaweight division . . . and George Simpson always envied the husky football players.

Supertwist Test Convinces Goodyear Tires Are Best

If you think any other tires are as good as Goodyears, this test will open your eyes. It proves why Goodyears outsell any other make and why they absorb road shocks that weaken and make short life of ordinary tires. Let us make this test for you.

Late News From Orange County Communities

EFFICIENCY OF GUARDS SHOWN IN TRIAL TEST

LAGUNA BEACH, July 31.—First aid and life saving efficiency were demonstrated just before noon Wednesday in an authorized test on the central beach. The purpose was to make sure of co-ordination of the crews, of the training of the guards particularly and of the use of apparatus in emergency.

Though the test was unexpected by the first aid squad of the fire department, the quick response made and the efficient manner in which the crew worked showed the training given. It was the first opportunity that the beach guards had had to make an emergency rescue. More than a dozen ways in which the work could be improved were discovered as a result of the emergency test, it was reported by Dana Lamb. These ranged from launching of the boat to the handling of the crowd after the rescued person was brought in. As a result, it is expected that many improvements will be made.

The fact that many persons might be frightened was expected by those who knew of the test, but the desirability of demonstrating under actual conditions was considered essential.

Nearly 120 persons have been given some training in lifesaving and first aid on the beach, a crew of 26 trained guards has been developed, 16 of whom are adults, and three women guards are in attendance devoting their attention to small children. Few communities anywhere can boast of such preparedness, it is claimed.

The competent manner in which the first aid squad of the fire department took charge of the case was the subject of much favorable comment. During the last two years the most essential part of the department has been this corps. Comparatively few calls have been made this year on it.

Miss Harriet Shattuck was the young woman serving as "victim" in the "rescue" Wednesday.

Arrested, Pays Bail, Visits Tia Juana, Then Weds

SAN CLEMENTE, July 31.—A speeding auto Tia Juana bound, a vigilant cop, Harry Comber, a judge, Fred S. Warner, and a fine all resulted in a marriage at San Clemente Monday. It all happened this way.

Last week Max West, 24, Los Angeles and his fiancee, Helen Becker, 20, Hollywood, were speeding to Tia Juana marriage bound. At San Clemente they were arrested for traffic violation, put up bail and went on their way, but in Tia Juana they could not get married due to new Mexican legislation. They came back to San Clemente where the judge fined West $20. On hearing of the marriage plans, Judge Warner stated he would remit the fine when the couple wed.

West went to Santa Ana, secured a license to wed on Saturday and was married in San Clemente on Monday. They then proceeded to Tia Juana where the honeymoon was spent. The marriage was performed by Judge Landell in the Ole Hanson patio, as Warner was absent.

HUMMING BIRD MOTHS CAUGHT IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, July 31.—Other specimens of "humming-bird" moths are being "captured" following the announcement of the moth that the police department had "kept in jail" over night only for it to die before morning.

Dick Gearhart, 8, of 224 Berkeley avenue, Fullerton has caught three of the rare moths in his neighborhood.

The humming-bird moth known more scientifically as Celerio Lineata, has been reported from Santa Barbara county in large numbers but as yet has not penetrated the south to a great extent, it is said.

Dick Gearhart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Gearhart. The Gearharts report that they saw one of the moths at Laguna Beach July 4, but did not know then what it was. This is believed to be the earliest report on one of the moths south of Santa Barbara.

Young Gearhart makes a hobby of collecting moth specimens, having about 25 now, according to his parents.

CLEMENTE GOLFERS NEARLY WIN MATCH

SAN CLEMENTE, July 31.—San Clemente golfers nearly stole the show at the regular monthly golf tourney of the Orange County Coast association held at Catalina this week. As it was, Jess Heinecke and Bob Plume of the Spanish village tied for second place, just a stroke behind Bus Talbert and J. K. MacDonald of Huntington Beach who had a 119 for low net. James Knight and Jess Armitage of Sunset Beach with 120 tied with Plume and Heinecke. Third honors went to G. Scherck and Hal Warner with a net 123.

MacDonald parred the Catalina course with a 67 which gave him low gross honors. Knight with a 51 was the leader among the low net players. Heinecke's 74 was second gross while Scherck's 55 was second low net score.

Hal Warner, Heinecke, Plume, Win Keerl, J. C. Herbsman, G. Scherck and A. Travaglini and Hr. and Mrs. Dan Mulherron comprised the San Clemente party. An Italian dinner at Milano cafe, Long Beach, Sunday night climaxed the outing.

San Clemente scores follow: Plume, 87-23-64; Heinecke, 74-18-56—120; G. Scherck, 80-25-55; Warner, 93, 25, 68—123; Win Keerl, 79-20-59; J. C. Herbsman, 87-30-67; Dan Mulherron, 94-30-64.

ENJOY PARTY

LA HABRA, July 31.—A weinie bake and watermelon party was enjoyed by members of the World Wide Guild and their leaders, Mrs. J. G. Colley and Mrs. Miles E. Smith, Tuesday evening at Huntington Beach. A plunge party was enjoyed during the evening. Those in the group attending were Claudine Zumwalt, Blanche Newson, Margaret Thornton, Thelma Ness, Frances Hensey, Lovene Foss, Armeta Curry and Betty Jean Smith.

A funeral may be very moderate in cost and yet be a wholly beautiful and fitting service.

LETTER TELLS REASON OF AIR BASE SHIFTING

FULLERTON, July 31. — The policy of moving the army air base from San Diego, separating it from the navy base, has been a forced necessity due to the lack of ground on the North Island site, it is explained in a letter received here today by H. M. May, secretary of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce, in reply to a telegram protesting the removal.

"Due to the increased activity in the navy on North Island, sufficient space is not available to accommodate both the army and the navy activities at Rockwell field. Therefore the army air corps is forced to procure other sites," the letter said.

Moving of the corps will not weaken defense, it was claimed because of the great mobility of the units "making it possible to concentrate these units at vital points within a very short period of time."

"It has been decided," the letter stated, "to station the army air corps activities as follows: Air depot at Alameda county, the bombardment group at Marin county, and the pursuit group at Marsh field . It will be noted that this is an increase over the present army air corps units."

Investigation by the district attorney's office and members of the county fruit patrol of sales of fruit made by a Mexican to a Japanese merchant at Artesia, resulted yesterday in the confession of the guilty man and his sentence in Fullerton justice court.

Sam Snodgrass, of the fruit patrol, began the investigation, which through the co-operation of the Artesia merchant who gave the authorities the auto license of the man who was bringing the fruit, and the work of the district attorney's office, resulted in the apprehension of the asserted culprit. The suspected man, Steven Reyes, 43, who lives on the ranch of Paul Nicholas from which the thefts totaling 12 boxes of fruit had been made, confessed his activities after a grilling from Deputy District Attorney Sam Collins. He entered a plea of guilty to petty theft in the justice court and was given a fine of $1000, with his choice of spending 50 days in the county jail in lieu of paying the fine.

INITIATION RITES GIVEN OVER RADIO

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 31.—Initiation of new members into the Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion by radio was an innovation in Southern California Saturday, July 26. Mrs. Margaret Kaeding of Long Beach, department president, conducted the initiation over radio KGER for several auxiliaries. The auxiliary met in Huntington Beach at the home of Mrs. Mack Olson, 307 West avenue and the new members initiated were Mrs. Martha Yost, Mrs. Clarice Yost, Mrs. Olive Larter, May and Donna Fay Bennigsdorf, Ruth and Dorothy Kellar.

Following the unique radio initiation refreshments were served. The members of the auxiliary enjoyed the novelty of the affair and were able to carry on the ritual over the radio just as though the department president had been present in person, the candidates following instructions as received over the radio.

EARLY RESIDENT DIES

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 31.—John H. Logie of Redlands died in Glasgow, Scotland, July 28, where he was visiting in company with his wife. The body is being returned to Redlands for interment. Logie conducted a real estate office in Huntington Beach in the early days at the corner of Main street and Ocean avenue where the Obarr building now stands. He owned that corner and other property in this city, discontinuing his office here more than ten years ago. C. D. Heartwell was later in charge of Logie's property here.

AUXILIARY MEETS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 31.—The Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion were entertained at the regular meeting Thursday, July 24, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Patrick. The ladies sewed on the friendship quilt to be a benefit for the San Fernando veterans hospital. A gavel was received as a present from Mrs. Willis Evans of Dallas, Tex., formerly of this city and head of the auxiliary here. Mrs. Mack Olson and Mrs. Lee Chamness were hostesses for the meeting.

For splitting logs a wedge has been invented in which a charge of powder is placed and fired with a fuse.

DEFER ACTION ON FULLERTON CLEANING SHOP

FULLERTON, July 31.—Discussion of the right for the Unique Cleaners to continue in business at 122 East Amerige avenue, its present location, even though it be remodeled to conform to the new state law, was given late yesterday when the city council met with Frank D. Scovel, state deputy fire marshal.

Definite action will be taken by the city council at its regular meeting next Tuesday relative to the cleaning establishment.

Scovel said that the state would compel the remodeling of the plant even if it remained in the present location.

The question before the city council centers on whether the city building code will be cited to compel the removal of the plant. Scovel said that the state does not limit the stringency of any municipal regulations.

The entire question arose about four weeks ago when H. L. Dawson, proprietor of Unique Cleaners, made application for a permit to remodel his establishment in accordance with the new state law on cleaning plants. Property owners near the plant petitioned the council to compel the plant to move to an "industrial section" because of the obnoxious fumes and odors of the place as well as the automobile parking in front of the resident homes.

Members of the city council present at the meeting yesterday were Mayor W. L. Hale, O. A. Kreighbaum and W. B. Potter. Fire Chief R. R. Davis and Acting Building Inspector C. M. Thorpe also attended.

SEEK BOOSTERS FOR MANCHESTER ROAD

ANAHEIM, July 31.—Communications are being sent out by George W. Reid, secretary of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, extending a call for the boosters of Manchester road, about to form an Orange county branch association of the Greater Manchester association.

The meeting will be held Monday, August 4 at 7:30 p. m., at the city hall, where the organization is to be completed and plans formulated in order that something may be done during the year, according to Reid, who explained that the principal part is from the county line on north through Anaheim.

Westminster Water Bonds To Be Sold

WESTMINSTER, July 31.—It is estimated that it will be about six months before the work of installing the Westminster municipal water system can be begun, that being the minimum time considered possible in which the bonds may be advertised and sold and all necessary legal proceedings gone through with.

This will give time for the system to be in working order before the water troubles for next summer begin.

Callouses go also and you can rub off that hard skin on heels and toes with your hand—the magic treatment.

This joyful exhilarating foot bath is simply great—you'll enjoy every minute of it and your burning, sore, tired, aching feet will feel better than they have for years—ask for Radox and foot comfort will be yours.—adv.

BRIDE-TO-BE INCENTIVE FOR LOVELY SHOWER

ANAHEIM, July 31.—Miss Ethel Phillips, who is to be one of Anaheim's popular brides of the late summer, was the incentive for a lovely surprise shower given by Miss Fleta Eisenhauer, sister of the bridegroom-elect, at the Phillips home at 915 West Broadway.

Mr. Eisenhauer had taken his bride-to-be for a drive and returned home at 8:30 p. m. where she was completely surprised to find the guests assembled. Bridge was played during the early hours of the evening with prizes going to Miss Maxine Harris and Miss Georgia Alterow.

Following the bridge games the guests were bidden to the dining room where they found their places at a long table centered with a miniature bride and groom who were faithfully keeping watch over the heap of lovely gifts which were assembled for the bride-elect. The color theme was pink and green and was effectively carried out in all of the table appointments. After the midnight luncheon Miss Phillips shared with her guests the pleasure of opening her gifts.

Present with the honored guest and Miss Eisenhauer were Mrs. N. R. Phillips, mother of the bride-elect, Miss Barbara Welch, Miss Eloise Owens, Miss Georgia Altenow, Miss Charlotte Forsythe, Miss Dorothy Kopfer, Miss Maxine Harris and Misses Philura and Leola Felton of Anaheim; Miss Margaret Russell of Fullerton, Miss Peggy Schutz of Norwalk, Mrs. Owen Beck of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Eisenhauer, mother of the hostess, who assisted in entertaining. The Eisenhauers are from Los Angeles, but formerly of Anaheim.

ANAHEIM, July 31.—The weekly concert at the outdoor theater in the city park for Thursday evening promises to be one of the most entertaining of the series offered each week free of charge through the courtesy of the city of Anaheim.

Appearing on the program, which is entirely vocal, will be Mrs. Richard Drake Saunders, until recently Miss Laurel Nemith, fascinating actress-singer of Broadway and Hollywood, and John Uppman, baritone, opera singer, who comes highly recommended. Miss Nemith appeared in Anaheim during music week on a reciprocity program sponsored by the Anaheim Business and Professional Woman's club, and her second appearance is being looked forward to with much interest.

The aria "Un bel di" from "Madame Butterfly" (G. Puccini), Miss Nemeth will be followed by the "Toreador Song" from the opera "Carmen" (Massenet) to be sung in English by Mr. Uppman.

"Solitude" (Richard Drake Saunders); "April's A Liar" (Saunders) and "My Wish" (by the composer), will be sung by Miss Nemeth.

"Le Cor" (Fligier); "Trade Winds" (Frederick Keel)), and "Were You 'There'" (H. T. Burleigh), a negro spiritual. "Winds" (Marguerite La Wrence Test) with the composer at the piano, all to be sung by Mr. Uppman.

Mr. Uppman will be accompanied by Franz Darvas. Miss Nemeth will be accompanied by Richard Drake Saunders.

SCOUTS HOLD NIGHT CAMP IN RIVERBED

City Council At Beach Will Meet For New Business

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 31.—The city council will meet Monday, August 4, in regular session. No special new business is pending but the session being the first August meeting, will hear the reports of various city officers, including a special report by C. R. Furr, city clerk on the petition on the derrick ordinance referendum. The ordinance has been rescinded and the report is largely a matter of form.

The city clerk has received a letter from the national guard troops expressing appreciation for the hospitality accorded the guardsmen during their visit here last week and this letter will be presented to the council. The city attorney, L. W. Blodget, may have some reports ready on the beach condemnation proceedings.

The council will meet Monday, August 11 as a board of equalization to hear complaints on tax assessments if there are any. If no complaints are received the assessment will be approved as made.

Cost of Crime Is Told by Pickerill

BUENA PARK, July 31.—Tom Pickerill, secretary of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce, gave a talk on the "Cost of Crime and Carelessness," before the Buena Park Kiwanis club Tuesday evening. He stated that Orange county alone spends $480,000 a year on crime, not including the amount spent by the state and nation. His admonition was to prevent crime and thereby reduce this tremendous expense. He commended church school and clubs as agencies to educate crime, as education is the means by which the number of prisons and the extent of the police forces will be reduced. The speaker was introduced by W. H. Whitemore, who was in charge of the program.

Visitors present were S. T. Treff of La Habra, P. H. Mattner, John Strickland and T. D. Robertson of Fullerton and R. Quinnel of Los Angeles.

CLASSES TO MEET

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 31.—Members of the H. T. S. class of the M. E. church will meet at the church Tuesday, August 5, to make curtains for the church in compliance with the request of the Ladies Aid. Mrs. A. H. Dixon will be in charge and all members are invited to attend.

This Man Puzzled --- Lost 19 Pounds of Fat

Wants to Know Where The Fat Went to

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

This man was fat—60 pounds overweight—wanted to stay home every night and nurse the old arm chair—getting in and out of his auto was all the exercise he cared for—his desire for any form of activity had died years ago.

Then one night as he read the evening paper cheering news broke for him—he read the story of Kruschen Salts—what it was doing for the fat folks of America—they were losing fat—and plenty of it.

The next morning he started—one generous half teaspoon of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast—every morning the same—in a week he wanted to walk to business—he didn't know why—but the urge for activity seemed to flood his whole being and he followed the urge.

His wife was astonished—delighted—and when one evening he said with eagerness—"Let's go to a show tonight, dear,"—her joy was unbounded.

That virile Kruschen feeling that means more energy—more vigor—more ambition took possession of him—he took long walks every day—and enjoyed them.

He got on the scales one evening and came home with sprightly step—"eleven pounds of fat gone" he almost hollered—he danced a few steps with the activeness of youth—and his wife danced with him.

Soon 19 pounds of unneeded and unwanted fat had left him and he marveled—and his friends marveled with him.

"Where did it all go to?" he asked and no one could answer.

Kruschen Salts drives poisonous waste from the system—it acts on liver, kidneys and stomach and keeps them in tip-top condition—it keeps you feeling fit and fine all the time.

Mateer's Drug Co., and Givens and Cannon and leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts for 85c a bottle which lasts 4 weeks.—adv.

ANAHEIM CLUB PREPARES FOR 300 DELEGATES

Gov. C. C. Young will be the special speaker and honor guest at a group meeting of delegates of the 20-30 clubs in the fifth district of the organization to be held at the Elks club in Anaheim the afternoon and evening of Saturday, August 9, it was announced here today by Clinton Griggs, vice president of the Anaheim club.

Pointing out that preparations are being made for entertaining 300 men and women, Griggs said delegates would meet in the afternoon conference at 2:30 o'clock, while a bridge luncheon would be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Kemp for women accompanying delegates.

The conference in the afternoon will give consideration to features of the program that is to be developed in connection with the state convention to be held August 29, 30, 31 and Sepetmber 1, at San Jose. Long Beach and San Diego are bidding for the convention in 1931, and it is expected the group meeting will endorse one of the cities. The club at Anaheim is known to favor San Diego.

In the evening there will be a dinner at the Elks club. Entertainment will be provided and the evening will conclude with a dance.

The fifth district comprises clubs located at Santa Ana, Anaheim, Fullerton, San Bernardino, Upland, Riverside, Pomona, San Diego, National City, Escondido, Oceanside, Ontario and Las Vegas, Nev.

Tree Sitter Down After Staying Up For Over 96 Hours

Santa Ana was once more without a representative tree sitter last night, when Bruce Harnois, treetop dweller, made a forced landing from his platform on account of "engine trouble," after exactly 96 hours and 25 minutes in the boughs.

The "engine trouble," after a thorough investigation by his mother, was found to consist of stomache and headache, due to lack of exercise. Bruce also had insufficient sleep, his family said, because of people passing during the night and stopping under the tree. Another reason for his coming down, Bruce stated, was that he had to appear as a witness in the Huntington Beach justice court today. Having not quite negotiated 100 hours the contestant was still 400 and some odd hours away from the old car offered to him as a prize by his brother.

NEWPORT-BALBOA, July 31.—A 10-day celebration next year to mark a quarter-century of existence of the city of Newport Beach is suggested by Secretary G. C. Macleod of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce in an article in the annual harbor deveolpment edition of the local newspapers issued today.

The City of Newport Beach was incorporated September 1, 1906, and on September 1, 1931, it will be 25 years old. With the city's natal day coming September 1, Labor Day September 7 and Admission day September 9, next year, there will be a fine opportunity, the article says, for an event to celebrate the progress attained in this city's first 25 years, especially during the past few years.

The election to decide whether Newport Beach should be incorporated was held August 21, 1906, and the small beginnings of the city may be seen from the fact that although it was the "busy" summer season, the vote was: for incorporation 42, against 12.

In 1910 the federal census showed the city's population as 465, in 1920 it was 894, and this year, 2200. Newport Beach township, which includes the city and Costa Mesa, have 5237 and had the fastest growth in Orange county during the last decade, although the county as a whole grew nearly 100 per cent.

John King, now living in Los Angeles, was the first chairman of the board of city trustees, which met for the first time September 3, 1906. The other members of the board were C. T. Lancaster, deceased; George T. Peabody, also now living in Los Angeles; A. L. Lester and A. N. Smith, the latter still residing here.

The first city marshal was J. W. Stuckenbruck, the first city treasurer J. H. Sharps and the first city clerk, L. S. Wilkinson. Stuckenbruck and Sharps are both dead. Wilkinson only a few months ago was pensioned by the Southern Pacific and is still active in civic affairs here.

20-30 CLUB IN FULLERTON IS PLANNING MEET

ANAHEIM, July 31.—One hundred and fifty members and their wives are expected to be present when the Anaheim 20-30 club entertain representatives from all other Southren California organizations of that name at a pre-convention meeting to be held here on Saturday, August 9.

Clinton Griggs, vice-president of the club, has been given general charge of arrangements for the affair and some interesting events have been planned. Opening the day's activities will be a luncheon at the Elks' clubhouse for the delegates, and a bridge-luncheon at the same place, for wives and friends of the club members.

At the business session in the afternoon plans will be made for the state convention to be held at San Jose August 29 to September 1. The business session will be followed by a dinner-dance in the evening.

At the weekly meeting of the club Dr. Ray Lieser, past president of the Oceanside 20-30 club, one of the largest organizations in Southern California, addressed the local club with helpful methods of promoting the growth and interest in service club circles.

GUARDS ARRIVE IN SANTA ANA NEXT SATURDAY

Members of the Orange county units of the California National Guard now in camp at San Luis Obispo enjoyed their annual "big feed" at camp last night, with a turkey dinner and all the accompaniments thereof, according to word received from Lieut. James B. Pettit. Ice cream was one of the features of the dinner, which is regarded as one of the highlights of the training camp period.

The three companies, Headquarters and Company L, from Santa Ana, and Company I, from Orange, have been completing their summer training this week and are scheduled to arrive in Santa Ana about 6 o'clock Saturday evening. This week they have participated in a demonstration of a company attack, anti-aircraft combat and the review of the 79th brigade, which is composed of 184th and 185th Infantry regiments.

During the company attack, which took place Tuesday, the three Orange county companies were consolidated to give the effect of a war strength company, under the command of Capt. Ralph Johnson, of Riverside. During the demonstration the headquarters company, from Santa Ana, established the command post and message center and moved these forward as the front line advanced, maintaining constant communication.

The anti-aircraft combat was featured by an attack from three planes of the 115th observation squadron. These planes made a power dive on the troops, dropping dummy bombs, made of paper bags filled with flour. The soldiers were issued blank ammunition with which to return the fire from the planes.

The 40th division tank corps, aviation squad, signal company and military police company arrived at the camp this week and Major General David P. Barrows, commanding the 40th division participated in the brigade review as the reviewing officer. He was accompanied by his full staff and Brigadier General Wallace Mason, commanding officer of the 79th brigade.

Plans are being made for the returning companies to be met on their arrival Saturday by the American Legion drum corps, which will escort the Guard units to the armory on North Birch street. The men will be dismissed as soon as all equipment is properly cared for, according to Lieutenant Pettit, which will probably be about two hours after their arrival.

NEW PEARSON CLUB ORGANIZED IN S. A.

At an enthusiastic meeting yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Francis Dresser, on North French street, a Santa Ana women's "Pearson for Sheriff" club was organized.

Principal addresses were made by Verne A. Baker, of Fullerton, county director of the Pearson campaign, and Mrs. Sarah Brown, of Tustin, a W. C. T. U. official, in which the qualifications of Pearson as a trained police administrative officer and as a man whose life was in accord with law enforcement as well as the necessity of electing a man ot this important enforcement position in the county, who could be depended on to impartially enforce all laws, were stressed.

Plans for future meetings of the club and joint meetings with other women's clubs and men's clubs which have been organized in the interests of Pearson's candidacy were discussed.

Decision to maintain the Community chest office and activities on a year 'round basis, but in line with a suggestion of the secretary-manager, R. R. Miller, keep the office open only half time, was reached by the executive committee of the Santa Ana Community chest in a meeting at the chest office late yesterday afternoon.

Miller pointed out that the work of the organization had not yet reached the point where it required the full time service of an executive during the entire year after the work was fully organized as it has been this year, and stated that he had been selected by the Santa Monica Community chest to have charge of the work there on a part time basis, and advised that the work of the Santa Ana office was now in such condition that it could be handled satisfactory on the half day basis.

The committee took action on the recommendations of the secretary-manager, and during the coming year, with the exception of the campaign period, the office will be maintained on a half day schedule. The action will result in a saving to the chest of $1400 per year, which means that it will operate at a cost lower than any other city of the size of Santa Ana.

The Santa Ana office will be open six days a week during the mornings, under the new plan, Miller stated. He is to begin his duties at Santa Monica August 1. This is the first year the Santa Monica chest has opertaed on the year 'round basis.

The annual drives in the two communities have been set at dates that will permit the proper direction of the two efforts without conflict, and Miller advised that the Santa Ana office would be open full time during the period of the campaign. The date in Santa Monica is the third week in September and in Santa Ana the last week in October.

All Register subscribers who are deaf or partially deaf are invited to the Fox Broadway theater to try the theater's new deaf sets, instruments installed which produce the sound from the films through ear phones and which have been highly satisfactory wherever they have been shown.

The Fox theaters throughout Southern California have installed deaf sets, following the successful use of them at the Chinese theater in Hollywood, where they were tried first.

Any Register subscriber can obtain the sets at the box window. An usher will attach them to a plug in the floor and any sound coming from the screen will be transmitted to the guest. The patron of the theater is requested to make a deposit for the ear phones, which will be returned when the instruments are returned to the box office.

The new invention is a product of the Western Electric company and has been perfected after several years of research.

BOAT SPEEDERS WILL FIGHT AT CITY ORDINANCE

NEWPORT-BALBOA, July 31.—Operators of speedboats in Newport Bay will fight the city's ban on speed and other prohibitions in the ordinance which it was decided recently to enforce more strictly.

This was reported today, as more than a dozen speedboat men were preparing to engage attorneys to defend them on charges of excess speed, laid yesterday following arrests made by Harbor Master M. S. Robinson.

Among other warnings recently given the boatmen were signs put up in various parts of the bay. The city ordinance prohibits boats running more than 10 miles per hour in all parts of the bay within the city limits, which now includes practically every part of the lower bay, and more than six miles in turning basins and other designated places.

It was recently alleged in letters sent to the city council that the fast boats were endangering lives and property and the city fathers at that time gave instructions to the police and harbor master to enforce the ordinance.

Constitutional and other questions will be raised in defense of the boat operators, it is stated. A defense fund is being raised by the boat men and other business men interested in seeing the boats have as much sway as possible, it was reported today.

CLUB SECURES NOODLES FAGAN FOR PROGRAM

Noodles Fagan, internationally known entertainer and toastmaster, will be master of ceremonies at the meeting of the Santa Ana Breakfast club Thursday morning of next week, when candidates for county offices will be special guests of the club, it was announced by B. Z. McKinney, president, at the meeting of the club this morning.

Gene Kahen, who is chairman of the committee arranging the program, said that members should bring friends and that there would be an hour's entertainment full of "kicks."

President McKinney added the further information that invitations had been issued to Gov. C. C. Young, James Rolph, Buron Fitts and Milton K. Young and that it was expected one of the candidates for governor would be present.

McKinney impressed upon members the necesity of making reservations in advance if they contemplated bringing their wives or friends to the meeting.

Harold Matthews developed an entertaining musical program for the session of the club this morning, such popular entertainers as Miss Bobbie McKean and Mrs. Ruth Garrison participating. Accompanied by Mrs. Harrison, Miss McKean sang "Mystery Song" and "Spring Time in the Rockies."

Charming House-guest Is Made Incentive For Party

Joining in their hospitality, which found most fitting expression in the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. John Vernon at 2020 Santiago street, Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Harvey T. Riggle entertained with a delightful card party last evening, honoring the latter's house guest, Miss Esther Rhodes, of Seymore, Mo. Baskets of roses and dahlias in soft hues of pink formed a floral background for the affair, and served as the introduction to the color motif of the evening.

Both bridge and 500 were in order, and when the last hand had been played and scores all tallied, Mrs. Joseph Ryan, high in bridge, was awarded a much-coveted cactus plant set in an artistic little jar. Mrs. Jack Van Beek and Mrs. Oliver Wickersheim, who held first and second high scores in five hundred, found that they, too were favored with the unique cactus gifts. Mrs. Herbert L. Krahling and Mrs. George H. Roper were consoled with the daintiest of pink crystal bon-bon dishes. Miss Rhodes, the honoree, also shared in the prize awards, for she was given an exquisite negligee as special guest gift.

During the refreshment hour, the tables were spread with lovely madeira luncheon sets, and each one was centered with a slender pink taper, enhanced by a tulle bow in the same soft hue. The menu course as well, continued the delicate color motif.

Miss Rhodes has been the house guest of Mrs. Riggle for the past six weeks, and will leave Sunday for points north, and from there will continue on her way homeward. She will be the honoree at a steak-bake in Irvine park Friday evening, planned by Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Riggle as a last farewell courtesy.

Those present last evening, other than Miss Esther Rhodes, were Mesdames Olen F. Turner, Herbert L. Krahling, George H. Franzen, Jack Van Beek, Joseph Ryan, Harold Bell, George H. Roper, Oliver Wickersheim, Garland Coltrane, and the co-hostesses, Mrs. John Vernon and Mrs. Harvey T. Riggle.

One of their most recent little affairs was a dinner party, served amidst an attractive setting of bouquets of varicolored pom-pom dahlias. The evening hours were whiled away in happy fashion, with a stroll on the beach adding to the quiet pleasures.

Those present other than Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and their sons, Charles and Roy, were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Bowman of Tustin, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bach, and Miss Mary Craig.

That Miss Marie Rudolph, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rudolph, 921 Hickory street, was to be a September bride, wedding A. R. Muckenthaler of Paxico, Kans., on the twenty-second of the month, was the interesting news which climaxed a delightful party given last night by Mrs. Dean C. Hanson, 416 Orange avenue.

Guests assembled for an evening of bridge, found the tables arranged in a cool and lovely setting in which hydrangeas, asters and dahlias were effectively mingled. In the ensuing contest, Mrs. John M. Board scored high, to be rewarded with a graceful flower bowl in ebon glass. Miss Rudolph was presented the consolation gift for low score, an equally charming black glass candy jar.

Mrs. Hanson chose the refreshment hour as the time to disclose the betrothal news, and served a delicious two-course supper at tables arranged with pastel tinted asters and nut-cups, which were extremely effective in conjunction with her pretty linens. Bonbons wrapped in bright-colored tin foil were passed at the conclusion of the supper interval, and with each bonbon was a tiny card inscribed with the engagement news, and the chosen wedding date of the young people.

Mr. Muckenthaler's appearance on the scene, was an additional happy surprise, and the guests were delighted at the opportunity of meeting him and extending their congratulations in person. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Muckenthaler sr., of Paxico.

Mrs. Hanson's guests were Mrs. Glen E. Welsh, Mrs. Fred C. Wahl, Mrs. John M. Board, Mrs. Irene Tibbs, Mrs. Phoebe Simpson, Mrs. Minnie Harris, Mrs. Thomas P. Douglas, Mrs. Virgil E. Todd, Mrs. R. Quill Pen Folk Seek Joys of Anaheim City Park

Forming one of the innumerable parties which yesterday afternoon responded to the lure of the beautiful park which the neighboring city of Anaheim shares so generously with the county as a whole, Santa Ana Quill Pen members and guests enjoyed a refreshing swim and a picnic supper as a cool finale to a hot day.

The club has staged frequent little parties at the neighboring park, but never had a pleasanter time than this. In the late afternoon many of the members swam while others strolled through the park, pausing to admire the lily pools, conceded to be the finest in the state, due to the unremitting care of a master gardner, or gathered in little groups to rest beneath the park trees. Everything was so cool and delightful that flagging energies—and appetites—were revived, and the twilight supper hour gained in interest.

Scalloped potatoes and Spanish meat balls, that had sounded too hot earlier in the day, were found thoroughly appetizing when removed from the grills, and, served with cold salads, sandwiches and the usual picnic fare, paved the way for delicious home-made cake and crispy cold watermelon.

In the evening many of the club-members and guests again sought the plunge, joining the merry crowd that swam in the brilliant light, their bathing-capped heads glistening in the water until the great pool looked like a giant's Hallowe'en tub, filled with bobbing apples.

The event provided a surprise feature for one of the guests, when Miss Charlotte Harnois, daughter of a Quill Pen member, was presented with two sets of matched bed-linen that the club might be represented in the home she is to establish early in the autumn following her marriage to Chester Siegel.

Sharing the happy occasion were Mrs. Harry M. Smith, Mrs. R. A. Cushman, Mrs. Herman Reuter, Mrs. J. U. Viau, Mrs. N. E. Wells, Mrs. Samuel B. Marshall, Mrs. Marshall Harnois, Mrs. J. F. Adams, Mrs. J. D. Campbell, Mrs. Emmett Elliott, Miss Verona Wells, Miss Dorothy Clarkson, Miss Charlotte Harnois, Miss Virginia Viau, Miss Esther Loerch, William Fritcher, Vincent Elliott and Neil Adams.

Pegasus Club Revels In Pleasures of Seashore

With club members offering the hospitality of their beach cottages during the summer months, all-day meetings are becoming more and more popular with the Pegasus club and yesterday's session in the Balboa home of Mrs. George Bond was a most pleasureable one.

Luncheon was a noon feature, and the appetizing menu was served buffet style, under the capable supervision of Mrs. Roy Brown and Mrs. Roy Winchester.

Opening the program in the afternoon, which had been planned by the hostess, Mrs. George Bond, Mrs. Roy Winchester read one of Cornwall's poems, "The Sea," while Mrs. Bond continued with an original story, "The Tie That Binds." Carrying out the ocean motif which was so appropriate, Mrs. Caleb Jackson gave an original poem, "My Song of the Sea," while Mrs. Walter Foote, continuing this vein, read her interpretation of "No Sea." By special request she favored with another of her creations, a humorous number "The Battle of the Springtime." Contributing to the story group was Miss Marjorie Lusk, who read an original tale, "Bohemian Annie Pays Her Debt." A little touch from Edgar Guest was provided by Mrs. Harry Havely, who read one of his poems, "A Prayer for the Home." The last delightful feature was a story by Mrs. Frank Was, "A Lady With An Ivory Fan."

The next club meeting will be in the P. A. Robinson cottage at Balboa. Those sharing the pleasures of yesterday's events, other than the hostess, Mrs. George Bond, were Mesdames Ray Brown, Boy Winchester, Caleb Jackson, Walter Foote, Marjorie Lusk, Harry Havely, Frank Was, C. Wedding in Long Beach Unites Well-known Santa Anans

A host of friends in this city will be warmly interested in news of the marriage in Long Beach on Tuesday evening, July 29, of Edward Gray, 825 North Ross street, and Mrs. Fannie O. Russell, 1405 1-2 Coronado avenue, Long Beach.

The ceremony took place in the early evening, in the East Long Beach Methodist Episcopal church, with the pastor, the Rev. R.K. Swenerton, officiating. There were only the members of the family circle present, and after the wedding vows had been taken, all were entertained in the George Moore home, Coronado avenue.

A delicious chicken dinner had been prepared by Mrs. Moore, a daughter of the bride, and was served at a charmingly appointed table. Covers were laid for the honor guests, the new Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gray, the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. George Moore, and the young people of the home, Gladys and Homer Moore.

Mr. Gray is well known in this vicinity as a retired orange grower and rancher, and his bride is equally well known as she is a trained nurse of wide experience. The happy couple are now enjoying a honeymoon trip which will include visits to various Southland beaches, and after August 15 they will return to Santa Ana where they will be at home to their friends at 839 North Ross street.

Altar Society Stages Successful Party

Amidst luxuriant shrubbery and every imaginable summer blossom, St. Anne's Altar society members held their public card party on the parish grounds to the rear of the church edifice on Borchard street, last evening. Their efforts in planning the pleasureable event were well rewarded, for a large number of people gathered to enjoy the pleasant garden and the opportunity to indulge in cards and mingle with congenial friends.

Bridge was just a shade the more popular game of the evening, with eleven tables in progress, while the devotees of 500 were content with nine tables. Bridge awards went to Mrs. Charles Fenske and Fred Gillen, high score, Mrs. George Young and Jack Campbell, second high, and Mrs. Murray J. Louge and Urbin Engleman, third high. Prizes in 500 were given Miss Irene Colombini and Vincent Weicher for high score, Mrs. M. Nichols and Anthony Knights sr., second high, and Mrs. Roy Burns and Anthony Knights jr., third high. Hubert Gohres received the grand prize of the evening.

Members of St. Anne's Altar society were very much pleased with the success of the entertainment and attributed it to the faithful committee composed of Mesdames Charles Borchard, Antone Borchard, Barney Brock, L. Merrick, Charles Stack, James Colombini, Mary Castler and Bayard Spell. Proceeds will go to the Altar society funds.

Baskets of silver sage, intermingled with golden brown cat-tails, and massed with a wealth of fern, potted palms, and other greenery, increased the charm of the chapel of the First Methodist church, for the wedding rites which took place at high noon today, uniting Miss Zelma Beemer of this city, and Ray Walworth of Orange. A basket of waxen white roses, placed in the center of the altar, and other baskets of asters in tones of pink shading into mauve, added color to the impressive scene.

Preceding the ceremony, Cleo Bowers Hein sang "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied by Miss Eva Ramsey at the piano, who also gave a beautiful rendition of Lohengrin's Wedding March, as the bridal procession formed down the aisle.

The bride was charming in a period gown of white taffeta, with the skirt fashioned of tulle. A filmy veil was caught to her soft brown hair by a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bride's bouquet of exquisite white rosebuds.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Ruth Beemer, who also wore a period frock of green taffeta, and carried pink sweet peas. Millard Beemer, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The impressive service was read by the Reverend George A. Warmer, D. D., who is the pastor of both young people.

Immediately following the ceremony, the new Mr. and Mrs. Walworth left for a brief honeymoon of unknown destination. On their return, they will locate in this city. They plan to take a more extensive trip this fall, visiting in Illinois and Ohio where Mr. Walworth has property.

For her honeymoon costume, Mrs. Walworth wore a black and white ensemble, with black and white accessories. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Beemer, 1102 West Seventeenth street, and attended Santa Ana high school, and the Orange County Business college.

Mr. Walworth is one of the prominent young business men of Orange, where he is employed as foreman of the Owens Roofing company. He attended the schools of Williamsfield, O., and is a member and past dictator of the L. O. O. M. Both young people are well known in this vicinity, where interest in their romance and wedding has been expressed in a series of delightful parties and showers complimenting them.

Seashore Beckons Lively Young People

Again Corona Del Mar was chosen as the mecca for an evening of fun, when members of the Epworth league, young people's group of the First Methodist Episcopal church, 22 in number, met on the sands last night for an evening of pleasure.

The cool surf with its foamy breakers offered relief from the heat of the day, and many took advantage of this opportunity for a swim. Following swimming the group gathered about the campfire and toasted the ever-popular weiners and marshmallows.

Group singing was enjoyed while an interesting impromptu program was presented, including a group of readings by Miss Emma Williams, a reading by Herman Goodwin, and the most thrilling of ghost stories related by Miss June Arnold.

Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Make Your Own Glazed Fruits

Everyone enjoys glazed fruits but they are so costly it is mostly a case of look-and-long. There is no reason why you should not have quantities if you will spend the time to make them.

Sections of orange, pineapple, peaches, whole plums, whole and halved apricots, cherries, large currants and gooseberries (the giant variety) afford plenty of variety and practice.

To make the syrup boil a pound of berry sugar with 2-3 cup of water until it becomes brittle when dropped in cold water. Add a little lemon juice or half teaspoon of cream of tartar to prevent the syrup gaining. While using the syrup keep it liquid by placing the container in hot water, and do not stir, ever—it grains when you do, and must be thinned and re-boiled.

With oranges, peel and separate into sections without breaking the thin skin. Take each piece on a skewer, or long hat pin, dip into the hot syrup until completely coated, then hang them over the edge of a bowl or put on a buttered plate to dry.

Repeat the process as often as you wish—until they are as candied as you like, I should say. Canned pineapple sections, whipped dry, can be used. With the other fruits mentioned, choose fruit not too ripe, very choice as to size and color, and use the syrup as directed. Store in boxes between waxed paper.

Orange, lemon and grapefruit rind can be candied at the same time. Just cut in sections and parboil before dipping.

Ginger Pop

1 pound sugar
1 ounce cream of tartar
1 ounce powdered ginger
Juice of 2 lemons
4 quarts boiling water
1 compressed yeast cake

To the 4 quarts of boiling water add the sugar mixed with the powdered ginger and juice of 2 lemons. Stir until dissolved and the ginger has thoroughly seasoned the liquid. Take from the fire, add the cream of tartar and stir well.

Cool to blood warmth, stir in the dissolved yeast cake and let stand, covered for 24 hours. Skim off the froth, siphon off the pop, bottle, cap securely, and keep in a cool place. Put on ice before drinking or pour over chopped ice.

This is a satisfying drink for child and adult on a hot day. A quart bottle will make eight glassfuls served over chopped ice. Each glass will have a calory value of 50, which is found in the sugar, an energy-making food.

Piles Go Quick

Piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Only an internal medicine can remove the cause. That's why external remedies and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has such a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief even in chronic and stubborn case, that Schramm-Johnson says try HEM-ROID at my expense. Your Pile suffering must end or money back. —Adv.

SCENE IN 'QUEEN HIGH'

'ANYBODY'S WAR' IN LAST RUN TONIGHT

"Anybody's War," one of the funniest motion pictures that has been seen here in the past several months, closes its Santa Ana run today. The film opened last Monday at the Fox Broadway theater.

Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, play the leading roles and the plot concerns the activities of Moran, who is seen as the official dog catcher at Buford, Tenn., when the war breaks out.

He goes to France and becomes a great hero, returning to Buford, still wondering what it is all about.

'QUEEN HIGH' OPENS RUN HERE FRIDAY

"Queen High," a stage comedy, has been made into a Paramount all-talking picture and will be shown at the Fox-Broadway theater Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Charles Ruggles, one of the outstanding comedians of the screen, has the leading role, while Stanley Smith and Ginger Rogers play important roles. The story is more or less of a musical comedy.

When Frank Mandel first proposed to adapt "Queen High," his firm's Broadway musical comedy, to the screen, he was told that it would run far longer than the due to the complexity of its action conventional feature picture length, and plot.

FIGHT IN BALLROOM FEATURES UNTAMED

Contrary to general custom, when Robert Montgomery and Don Terry argue over Joan Crawford, they do not go "outside" to complete the discussion. Curtain cords are dragged down to make a ring, and fair young female seconds in evening clothes fan the battlers between rounds.

The battle between the two players has decided reality, because both players are boxers of experience.

"Untamed," adapted by Willard Mack, is a story of a girl brought up in a Central American jungle. On her way to civilization she falls in love with the first white young man she meets—and stays in love.

The cast includes Ernest Torrence, Holmes Herbert, Robert Montgomery, John Miljan, Gwen Lee, Tom O'Brien, Grace Cunard, Don Terry.

The 50,000th telephone in the city of Memphis, Tenn., was installed not long ago, almost 50 years after Memphis' first telephone was placed in service. Memphis is now one of the four cities in the nine southern states to achieve the 50,000th mark in telephones, the others being Atlanta, Louisville and New Orleans. In the last nine years the number of telephones in the city has doubled. When service was started in the city there were but 25 subscribers.

CITY IN MOROCCO BUILT FOR PICTURE

Hollywood's ability to reproduce anything from a railway station to Taj Mahal is well known, and yet there have been few sets to equal one erected at Fox Film corporation Hollywood studios recently for "Women Everywhere," the Movietone musical romance of Morocco and the Foreign Legion, which opens today at the Fox West Coast theater.

A Moroccan city, complete in every detail, its narrow winding streets replete with the savor of the Orient, was erected on one of the vast sound stages.

Nothing which properly belonged to such a city was eliminated. All was life size. There was a water font, with its small craft at anchor; numerous cafes, with their interiors; street after street of quaint houses; a prison, battlemented walls, a cinema and many other structures, all faithful copies of similar buildings in North Africa.

This marvelous set was supplemented by others, hardly less interesting, which was necessary for the action of the drama. A complete tramp steamer, moored at the docks of a French seaport, was built, as well as a desert fort of the Foreign Legion.

At the end of September, 1929, according to the British postmaster-general, about 44 per cent of the rural postoffices and railway stations in Great Britain were without public telephone call facilities.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

"Why do you Tinies laugh at me? That girl's as pretty as can be and I'm just being friendly," said Clowny, with a frown. "I'll bet you'd like to meet her, too, and so I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll wave at her again and motion for her to come down."

So Clowny motioned for a while and then the girl began to smile. She shortly left the balcony and disappeared from sight. In just about a moment she came running out. Said Clowny, "Gee, I'm glad to meet you." Then he shook her hand with all his might.

Then Clowny introduced her to the others. They all liked her, too. She told them 'bout some pretty things that they could see nearby. Then she exclaimed, "I must go now. I hope you get along somehow." She went back in the house then and this made wee Clowny sigh.

The Travel Man soon broke the spell. Said he, "I know a spot that's swell. I'm sure you will enjoy it and you'll see some real queer folks." "All right," said Scouty, "lead the way. That's what we're looking for today. I'll bet it will be great, unless it's just one of your jokes."

But they soon found that he was right, because a queer well loomed in sight. 'Twas right on top a spread of rocks, with people gathered round. They all had goatskins, which they'd fill and little water did they spill. Said Carp, "Gee, that water comes from 'way down in the ground."

The Tinies watched until each skin was filled and then they rushed right in. "We want a drink," cried Scouty. "Here's a dandy tin cup, see?" They drank and drank and drank some more. 'Twas well the well had lots in store. The Travel Man said, "My, that's as refreshing as can be."

Missing Letter Links

RULES:

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.
2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you used is one in good usage.
3. The order of the letters can not be changed.

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES CANAL ZONE TODAY

BALBOA, C. Z., July 31.—(UP)—Little damage was reported in the Canal zone today, although sections near here were shaken by an earthquake of severe intensity yesterday.

The temblors were described as the most severe since those of 1913. The earth trembled for approximately one minute and for some time it was feared extreme damage would be done.

Many people ran to the streets in terror.

Court Notes

Two complaints to quiet title were filed in superior court yesterday afternoon. A. F. Zaizer, Leo Borchard and D. E. Ford, plaintiffs, are asking the court to give them exclusive title to certain tracts of land in Orange county. The defendant in the case is W. E. Richardson. The other suit was filed by D. E. Ford and Leo Borchard, who seek a decree quieting title to land in Wilshire square, Santa Ana. Catherine Meyer and August L. Meyer are the defendants in this action.

The Bear State Lumber company filed a complaint for foreclosure of a mechanic's lien in superior court yesterday against B. C. Best, et al, for certain building materials which the plaintiff claims was used by the defendant. Judgment is asked for $46.27.

Damages totaling $1293.75 are asked in a complaint filed in superior court today by F. J. Kadowaki. Ruth Weckman is the defendant. An accident that took place at the intersection of Main and Bishop streets last April is the basis of the action. Damages to the car, personal injuries, medical expense and wages for a substitute to do his work while he was incapacitated are asked by the plaintiff.

The trial of the action brought by Chris Nelson against James H. Sewell and G. R. Robertson for money alleged to be due under a contract for the sale of certain property, is continuing today before Judge James L. Allen. The defendants yesterday filed an answer and cross complaint in which they deny certain charges brought by Nelson, allege that there was no consideration for the contract and ask damages in the amount of $5000 for false and fraudulant representations.

A certificate of amendment of the articles of incorporation of the Orange County Pipe and Supply company was filed with County Clerk J. M. Backs today, changing the name of the company to the Southern Counties Supply company, limited.

A petition to terminate the tenancy and establish the death of Fanny Bixby Spencer was filed today with County Clerk J. M. Backs, by W. Carl Spencer of Costa Mesa, husband of the deceased woman. It will be recalled that the estate of Mrs. Spencer was the largest that ever was probated in Orange county, amounting to over $2,000,000. Property in which the joint interest is sought to be terminated consists of 20 pieces of real estate in Balboa, Newport Heights, Newport Mesa tract and Harper.

On a change of venue from Los Angeles county superior court the divorce action of Frances M. Errecarte against Cipriano J. Errecarte was filed in superior court here yesterday afternoon. The plaintiff charges cruel and inhuman treatment, alleging that on several occasions the defendant threatened to kill her. She asks custody of their child.

An answer and cross complaint to the divorce complaint filed by James L. Cleeland was filed in superior court yesterday afternoon by the defendant in the original action, Fonta B. Cleeland. The document filed yesterday asserts that there is community property in Santa Ana consisting of real estate valued at $5000, furniture and an automobile, valued at $1000 and a farm in Iowa, valued at $20,000. She charges cruel and inhuman treatment in the cross complaint and asks that the decree be denied to the plaintiff, who charged her with desertion, and given to her.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, July 31.—(UP)—Further selling of public utility and special issues unsettled the list on the curb market in a quiet session today and the market as a whole moved toward lower levels, with attempts at resistance to bearish pressure confined to a few of the oil stocks.

Prominent among the latter was Vacuum, which was well supported and advanced more than a point. Misouri Kansas Pipe line moved up fractionally, but standard of Indiana and Houston were in supply at fractional concessions. However, oils showed better resistance to the downward movement as a result of a generally oversold condition and those that were off were narrowly so.

Bearish drives were launched with renewed vigor against some of the deaders in the public utility division, with declines ranging from fractions to almost 5 points taking place in America Gas, Electric Bond and Share, Cities Service, Eastern States Power B, St. Regis Paper and Associated Gas A. United Light encountered good support and was bid up fractionally. The issue has a reputation of meeting strong support on recessions and bears are hesitant about making offerings of the stock.

Special issues throughout the industrial list were targets for selling, these including Deere and Company, which sank to a new low on a 2 point drop, and Lerner stores, the later tobogganing almost 9 points to a fresh bottom. Investment Trusts weakened with the general trend. Goldman sachs eased a fraction, while Blue Ridge preferred sold off more than a point.

L. A. PRODUCE

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—(UP)—Movement of fruit and produce continued slow on today's market, with very little change in prices. Most fruits were in liberal supply, with fair movement. Vegetables, however, moved slowly.

Local loose avocados were in limited supply and slow, with seedlings jobbing at 30-35c.

Bunched vegetables found slow demand, with prices unchanged from yesterday. Local cabbage was in heavy supply and weaker at 40-50c per field crate. Local cantaloupes were in heavy supply and the market continued weak. Hale's Best and Paul Rose moved fairly well, with standard crates 24s and 27s bringing 60-75c.

Local yellow Siberian crabapples were unchanged at 50-60c per lug, few 75c. Local green corn was in lighter supply. Most dealers cleaned up well at $1.00-$1.10 on No. 1 stock.

The lettuce market was considerably weaker, with Santa Maria, Guadalupe, and San Luis Obispo dry pack 4s bringing $1.00-$1.25.

Local fancy packed Valencia oranges were unchanged, with 100s, $5.50-$5.75; 126s and 150s, $5.75; 200s and smaller $7.75.

The peach market was brely steady, with heavy receipts and slo wmovement. San Joaquin Elbertas jobbed at 2-2½c per lb.

CHICAGO BD OF TRADE

CHICAGO, July 31.—(UP)—Surging upward more than 2c on the Board of Trade today after its weakness of yesterday, wheat closed sharply higher despite some late selling by houses with Eastern connections. Short covering was heavy with offerings rather limited. Great strength in corn, an unexpected show of strength by Liverpool and a surprising good export business were the chief factors. Hedging pressure was light.

At the close wheat was 1¼c to 1½c higher; corn was ⅝c higher for July with the other months 2½ to 3c up, and oats were 1 to 1⅝c higher. Provisions were very strong.

NEW YORK STOCKS

The Dow, Jones & Company industrial average (preliminary calculation) advanced 3.18 points to 234.26 while the railroad average declined 0.65 to 130.90.

For a few minutes in the last half hour bears tried to duplicate the depresion of the early trading. They succeeded for a time in dislodging considerable stock but rallying tendencias quickly were resumed and many of the earlier highs were bettered in the last 10 minutes of trading.

The prime mover of the market was Gillette Safety Razor. This issue soared above 88, compared with a previous close of 82¾ and frightened the bearish element in other sections of the list. Shorts bid frantically to obtain Gillette stock and soon the issue was leading at a premium in the loan crowd with 10,000 shares needd by the bears.

Autostrop Safety razor rose to a new high for they ear at 81¾ up 4¼ points and held most of the advance. Talk in Wall street was that this company and Gillette would merger on a share for share exchange of stock.

Short covering spread from Gillette to other stocks and soon the tide was turned in the entire market. Even the utilities participated in the subsequent buying.

Consolidated Gas, which supplies New York City with gas and electricity, was hard hit in the early trading on news that the public service commission was working to reduce electricity rates here. It rallied later, however, and was near the previous close at the end of the day, having made up its earlier decline to more than 3 points.

United States Sttel resumed its advance interrupted yesterday and came close to 166 against a previous close of 164⅛.

RESIDENTS OF LAGUNA BEACH DISCUSS TITLE

LAGUNA BEACH, July 31.—That the courts should be asked to decide the ownership of the foot of Ruby street was the opinion expressed by citizens at the hearing before the council sitting as a committee Tuesday evening. The meeting was held to give interested persons an opportunity to present their views before the council.

John Jehle read a paper prepared by him which recounted the several transactions from the original patent to H .S. Goff in 1887 to date, and finished with the opinion that the city should take all needed steps to retain ownership.

Lilian Whiting referred to a similar problem in the vicinity of Sugar Loaf and thought that the city sohuld hold the street.

Stillman Jamieson, purchaser of the property presented his case. He said that he first purchased a 50-foot lot from Mrs. Grace Booth but was subsequently informed by her that she owned the adjoining street. He had supposed he was buying a corner lot, he said. Not wishing to have someone build next to him, he then bought the 25-foot lot considered as a street. He told of his plans for building on the property.

A. B. Marshall, president of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke of the many streets terminating at the ocean, said all were needed and asserted that the matter was one for the court to decide. He asked what right the Goffs had to sell the street, used for 43 years subsequently by the public. His assertion that the lot was listed for sale as a corner lot was subsequently withdrawn.

G. E. Thompson agreed with Marshall, believing the street is a public right of way to state and city owned tidelands, and hoped that an attorney would be employed as special counsel to work with the city attorney.

Roy W. Peacock, Realty Board president, urged that the matter be taken to the court for settlement. He referred, as had Thompson, to the park on the Cliffs, as valuable public property, and though tthe disputed street had a valuation of perhaps $10,000.

City Attorney Leslie F. Kimmell said that it seemed that any right the city has goes back to the Goffs or to the map, filed subsequent to certain sales, but doubted that the dedication as a park could be sustained because of no work done. The strongest points in favor of the city, he thought, was the failure to pay taxes on the street and the general belief by the public that it is a street. The whole matter might depend on user, but was a matter to be proven in court. The question, he believed, was whether the dedication was a matter of actual fact.

Others participating in the discussion were Frank Gowan, Fern Burford, Mr. Byrne, with some questions by members of the council present, Mayor J. E. Bishop, C. R. Clapp and M. B. McMillan. Action was not taken as it was merely a committee meeting.

PLAN GOLF MATCH FOR SAN CLEMENTE

SAN CLEMENTE, July 31.—Miniature golf course stars will take part in an 18 hole tournament on San Clemente's course on Sunday, August 9, according to Manager Ralph Young. Young states that handicaps will be based on scores turned in at his course office. Prizes will be awarded visitors. At present Bill Van, youthful star, holds the course record with a 45.

Arrangements are being made to hold a tournament with San Juan Capistrano putters, a 10-man team competing for each town. Hugo Forster will have charge of the Mission putt, putt stars while Hal Warner will lead the Spanish village players. After this tourney, scheduled for the near future, it is planned to challenge the Laguna Beach and Oceanside stars.

NEW AIR MAIL PATH SURVEYED BY GOVERNMENT

NEWPORT-BALBOA, July 31.—A new air mail route is being surveyed by the government, running from El Paso, Texas., to Seattle, via the coast, and the Martin airport, between Santa Ana and Newport bay, will be a station on the route, members of the Newport Beach Exchange club were told at their meeting at the Yacht club yesterday by L. D. "Skip" Ayers, one of the aviators at the Martin airport.

Ayers said that flying boats running between Newport bay and Catalina would provide a service which would be appreciated by many visitors to the Magic Isle from Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and San Diego counties. He predicted rapid growth of air transportation in the part of the country.

Owing to the yacht regattas here next week the regular Wednesday meeting of the Exchange club at the Yacht club will not be held. Instead the Beach Exchangites will meet with the Santa Ana Exchange club at the Santa Ana cafe next Tuesday noon.

CURRENCY SAVED

ZEELAND, Mich., July 31.—A pocketbook containing $35, lost eight years ago, was recovered this week by the loser. Back in 1922 Jacob Slagh was assisting his brother-in-law, Koene Vanden Bosch, near Harlem, harvest hay and lost his pocketbook. Vanden Bosch last week while cultivating corn in the same field spied the purse, so worn it fell apart when handled. It was carefully kept together and brought to its owner who turned it over to the United States treasury department for redemption of the currency it contained.

EVENING SALUTATION

"We not only cut our clothes according to patterns, but also our minds."
—RABBI MORRIS S. LAZARUS.

FIVE IN ONE

That there are candidates in the field for the various offices in the county, and particularly for the office of the Board of Supervisors, who believe that the officials should represent the voters and the taxpayers, and not simply themselves and a few others, should appeal to the voters of Orange county.

Behind closed doors the business of the county has been carried on, so that the will of the one becomes the will of all on all important matters, and the various districts have really no representation when it comes to issues. As far as the determination of most matters is concerned, we might just as well save the expense of the other members of the Board, and let one man have the complete power as to have this unnecessary expenditure for other supervisors, when as a matter of fact they are brought into perfect agreement before their vote is announced in public. Just as election approaches, there have been a few exceptions, notably that of the re-appraisal of the values in Orange county.

The refusal to save money in legal advertising for the taxpayers is another evidence of a belief that the members of the Board as at present constituted consider friendships and prejudices rather than business in the determination of the payment of taxpayers' money.

Recently the taxpayers paid for legal advertising in one bill an amount of $4408.46, while if the Board of Supervisors had accepted the proposal of a paper that has undoubtedly four times the circulation, it would have saved a total in that one bill alone of not less than $1990.92. The reasons they did not do this are well known. The Register objected to the employment upon the pay roll of the county of a man who was using his office to exploit the poorest element of our population, the Mexican people.

With affidavits and testimony before them, giving these facts, the Board of Supervisors declared they would retain this man "for the good of the Mexicans." We objected to this, and criticized it. There has never been one solitary defense of the action, but the Board of Supervisors in retaliation, voted to take the legal advertising from the paper, and placed it in a paper reaching but a fraction of as many people in the county, and paid the same money for it.

The argument which they understand is the argument of "money." "If you will support us, and not criticize us, you get the taxpayers' money. If you don't support us, we will use the taxpayers' money for our friends whether it is good business or not." We have carried the advertising in spite of all this as far as we could, without expense, printing it free in order that the major portion of the population in Orange county could have the benefit. When such a large amount was to be placed that we could not afford to print it without expense, we made a proposal to reduce the price, where several thousand dollars would be saved, thinking that at any rate the Board of Supervisors would consider the taxpayers' interest, and not be governed by politics and their prejudices.

But we were mistaken. Three of these men are now asking for the support of the voters and taxpayers.

We are confident that thousands of voters in the county, in the interest of a square deal for the taxpayers; in the interest of having the people know exactly what is being done, and why it is being done; in the interest of the principles of real Americanization which is opposed to exploitation and in favor of burden bearing and in favor of a free and not a muzzled press, will desire to have members of the Board of Supervisors who are responsive to the people, and to all of the people instead of to but a small fraction of the people.

"A sports writer," says one of them, "has an audience hanging on his words." Which seems to be the only alternative for those who have placed bets on sports writers' hunches—and lost.

LIVING COSTS DROP

The Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor announced a few days ago that the cost of living throughout the country was one-fourth less in June than it was at the peak of prices in the same month ten years ago. Furthermore, since June of last year the cost of living average dropped 2.1 per cent.

The greatest decrease in cost of living expenses, between December and June, was in the price of foods.

To the householder with a steady income, the news is good, even though the cost of living index in the United States in June was 166.6, based on the cost in 1913 as 100.

In the table of statistics which were drawn up for different cities, Los Angeles, which may be taken as indicative of this region does not rank particularly high in percentage of decrease in cost of living as compared with other cities. While the fact may not be consoling to the short-sighted home-manager, taking a long economic view of the matter, it is all to the good. An excessive drop means that someone is taking losses and that is more undesirable than a high cost of living, especially since wages had been adjusted to the living cost.

Therefore, these statistics which indicate that this section of the country is taking the drop gradually, are even more interesting than the news of the drop is to the housewife. The drop between December 1929 and June 1930 for Los Angeles was 2.9 per cent, for Boston it was 3.1, for Houston it was 3.4, for Detroit 3.1, for Philadelphia 3.4, for Norfolk 3.2, for New York 3, for San Francisco 3.

NOT SURPRISED

We were not surprised at the Associated Chamber of Commerce failing to act on the matter of the bonds for the harbor at Newport Beach. Nothing could be clearer at the present time than that a proposed bond issue, coupled up with the necessity of Federal support in order to make the money available would insure that Newport would get nothing. Hence the leaders in Newport have shown wisdom in refusing to accept such a proposal.

On the other hand, an issue of bonds probably in any amount would find little or no support by the people in the county if it were not attached to some such condition, and certainly an amount sufficient to insure the work being done properly could only pass in the county by a miracle.

The Register recognized this situation some time ago when it was presented, and refused to be a party to the proposed plan, for we knew there was politics, rather than a heart-felt desire to assist Newport Beach, behind it. As so frequently happens in that kind of a situation, when all of the facts are known, it ends in an impasse.

A French scientist has announced a plan of harnessing the energy of the Gulf stream. Well, he has a strong current to begin with.

HE WANTED GENE

It is hard to be told that you aren't wanted and it is a rare person indeed who can overlook the fact that he is persona non grata and do the one a kindness with whom you are not in favor, especially when "heaping coals of fire on the head" is not appreciated.

It all happened to Mrs. Gene Tunney. Touring a hospital, she stopped at the bedside of a boy and was introduced. "I don't want to see Mrs. Tunney. I want to see the fighter. It's tough to be here with all the other kids seeing Gene," spoke out the bed-ridden boy.

"Man's Inhumanity"

San Diego Union

When we read that Dr. T. Latow, dental surgeon, urges the public to obviate dental troubles by feeding their children as carefully as they feed their cattle, we are tempted to address a somewhat parallel plea to the great American railway companies. We would ask the railways to prevent suffering among their passengers by transporting them as carefully as they transport green vegetables.

It is possible to ship a cantaloupe across the Great American desert to the ultimate consumer in Chicago or New York without wilting it. It should be possible to do as much for a human being.

Experienced travelers will testify that there is no more heartrending spectacle in the whole category of human hardship than the sight of a transcontinental train load of tourists halted at Needles, Barstow, Yuma, or any one of a number of other warm spots on the journey across these United States. Despite all the advance of modern engineering, and the more-than-luxury built into many of the vehicles for which Pullman-fare-plus is exacted, the passengers are exposed to all the discomforts of dust and heat. While the humble cantaloupe nestles comfortably in the below-zero coolness of a refrigerator car, the human being who has paid good money for civilized transportation hangs limply over the back of a hot plush chair and torments himself with memories of mint juleps too historic to do him any good.

This is unjust. It is not common sense. It inflicts a kind of suffering that is almost certainly unnecessary, and it burdens a very appreciable handicap upon the great states served by the railways. Railway travel will be more profitable to all concerned when the Pullman passenger is no longer compelled to envy the inarticulate and ice-cold cantaloupe.

San Bernardino Sun

At last somebody has found a burglar under a bed.

The finder had drawn cash from a bank for a stay in a sanitarium where he was going next day. He went out on an errand, leaving the money in a bureau drawer. When he returned the room was in disorder and the money missing. He saw a pair of shoes sticking out from the bed. They did not look like his shoes. He pulled. The shoes came and the rest of the burglar came along with them. The burglar, needless to say, was young and new to the game.

What has become of the old maids who never got into a bed without looking under it for the burglar who might be hiding there, waiting to steal the gold watch and the earrings inherited from Greataunt Jane? That's easy. They are buyers or private secretaries with grand clothes and perfect marcels, who never need to think of looking under the bed. They pull it out from its closet and let it down in the living room of their expensive apartment. Aunt Emma's trinkets are in the safe deposit box, money is represented by the check book and fears are non-existent.

Except for the age-old fear shared by them with Aunt Emma and Greataunt Jane. But that is another psychology.

Golf Takes to Cover

New York Times

The craze for miniature golf courses continues to spread, with new links sprouting on vacant city lots all over the country. The latest development threatens to tame the game still further and make it an indoor sport.

The owners of a movie house, now dark, in Kew Gardens, are planning to tear down the screen, turn a deaf ear to the talkies, and install a fairway down the enchanted aisles. The balcony would become a sort of country-club veranda, where ice cream and soft drinks would be served to tired players. Here, too, would be discussed the wagers with which players are said to add zest to the miniature game.

If the house is one of those refrigerated palaces that gave rise to this Summer's simile, "as cool as the movies," it may be expected to draw golfers from its outdoor neighbors. An opportunity to enjoy the cool temperatures of the Scotch moors on a sizzling July day and to escape the rigors of wintry blasts in January should make the theater course a year-round delight for the golfer who takes his game in small doses.

Incidentally, musicians thrown out of work by the mechanical talkies, and even some of the more desperate of unemployed actors, might find work on the links or as caddies, in a pleasantly familiar atmosphere.

"The Elastic Work Day"

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Where is the worker who has not longed for an Elestic Work Day—one that would contract automatically whenever he felt the urge to play more and work less?

But this year several million men, with the urge to work more, have had thrust upon them another kind of Elastic Work Day—the kind that contracts until there is nothing left of it.

These self-disappearing work days, says President L. F. Loree of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, can be ruled out by intelligent planning. Witness the success of the Delaware and Hudson. In the present business depression not one of its employees has lost his job.

This real achievement came as the result of a sensible and practical "Elastic Work Day." The day stretches out toward ten hours when work is unusually heavy. The day contracts toward eight hours when work is not so plentiful. Thus a business depression brings fewer hours, not fewer workers.

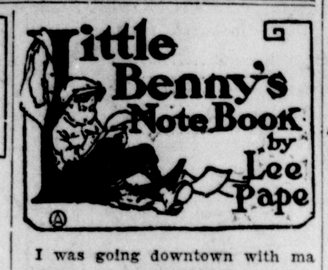

This plan reduced the labor turnover from 1,450 in 1920 to 172 in 1929—a reduction of over 88 per cent.

In 1920 the difference between the largest number employed in the maintenance branches and the smallest number was 1,914. In 1929 the difference was only 418.

"Both the men and the company," says President Loree, "benefit by the continuous employment of a group of men educated to its methods and trained to work together. The plan is highly appreciated and is very popular."

Much more popular, no doubt, than the explanation still offered to workers by various companies that men lose their jobs periodically "as a result of natural law," and nothing can be done about it.

THE HUMAN MILK JAR

I have just spent an exhilarating week-end on a Westchester farm an hour's ride by motor from the rush and roar of New York.

And the hours I spent in the dairy barn and creamery of my host's estate were a post-graduate course in social politics.

Since the coming of democracy, society has been fluid.

In pre-democratic days men were born and remained in a definite class or craft status.

In democratic days men, regardless of the class or craft status into which they were born, may land anywhere, higher or lower, according to their abilities and their application of energy.

In a democracy, the cream of genius is free to rise to the top of the human milk jar.

This fact has in it the possibility of peril as well as the possibility of progress.

Human greatness has always refused to be cradled exclusively in any single social class.

The poor and despised classes have always thrown up, now and then, their quota of genius; and to the end of time they will continue to breed occasional greatness.

Before democracy came into being, when the lower classes bred a genius, he had to stay put in his class; there was no free passage he could take into the higher classes. This meant that at all times the lower classes of pre-democratic days held me nof significant ability in their ranks, men whose greatness had never had the chance to show its mettle in positions of leadership.

Today it is different.

Democratic opportunity lures men out of the lower classes as soon as their ability is demonstrated, thus keeping the lower classes continually denuded of the able men they produce, so that the lower classes of a democratic society are actually lower in their stock of ability than the lower classes of an aristocratic society.

Democracy's greatest danger lies in just this lower stratum of its people which it keeps stripped of its able men.

OUR CHILDREN

ENOUGH

Our country has more things and more of those things than any country in the world. Our children have more and have it more variously, more abundantly, than any children in the world. They have so much that it is time to stop and ask how much is enough? How little is plenty?

It is our own grasping attitude that affects the children. We want to be comfortable so we begin to accumulate comfort. We want to safeguard our comfort so we can feel safe and we reach out for something more. Then we must protect that something more until we are slaves to the getting and the saving and the protecting of our goods.

It isn't necessary to own a thing in order to enjoy it and to benefit by its existence. I can look at the old maple next door, enjoy its beauty and its shade without wanting to own it, if I am a sensible person. But if I am not, if I want everything I see, I will begin planning to get the bit of land that bears that old maple and probably give myself a lot more trouble. I'll plan to get the money to buy it. I'll lie awake after that, every time the wind blows hard trembling lest it blow my treasure away. I might better have been a reasonable man and allowed my neighbor to own the tree. The shade and the beauty of it might have been enough for me.

When children hear us talking about getting this and owning that, they think that getting and owning and holding on to things is the end and aim of existence and in their enthusiasm and power go the older generation one better every time. There is real danger that they will never learn how little can be enough until their possessions smother them.

It would be interesting to try to teach a child to discover how little can be enough for him. I'm not picturing the joys of poverty. Poverty kills the soul. I'm trying to point out the beauty in sufficiency, the spiritual thrill in the feeling that one can master his world with a sling and a pebble and a keen brain.

We don't give brains half a chance these days. Before they can get under way somebody makes them useless by handing the child the job already done, the gift ready made, the hope in a neatly wrapped box marked so-much-the-dozen. He is so smoothered in muchness that the bare beauty of little, the complete enjoyment of power through imagination and personal effort is lost.

It is better to supply necessities and leave room for the creation of wants than to heap up possessions. Wants keep a child growing, providing the quality of his wants is high. It is better to put time and energy in cultivating his hungers, enriching his idea of wants, than it is to gather muchness for him. How LITTLE can be enough? That way happiness lies.

FIVE IN ONE

That there are candidates in the field for the various offices in the county, and particularly for the office of the Board of Supervisors, who believe that the officials should represent the voters and the taxpayers, and not simply themselves and a few others, should appeal to the voters of Orange county.

Behind closed doors the business of the county has been carried on, so that the will of the one becomes the will of all on all important matters, and the various districts have really no representation when it comes to issues. As far as the determination of most matters is concerned, we might just as well save the expense of the other members of the Board, and let one man have the complete power as to have this unnecessary expenditure for other supervisors, when as a matter of fact they are brought into perfect agreement before their vote is announced in public. Just as election approaches, there have been a few exceptions, notably that of the re-appraisal of the values in Orange county.

The refusal to save money in legal advertising for the taxpayers is another evidence of a belief that the members of the Board as at present constituted consider friendships and prejudices rather than business in the determination of the payment of taxpayers' money.

Recently the taxpayers paid for legal advertising in one bill an amount of $4408.46, while if the Board of Supervisors had accepted the proposal of a paper that has undoubtedly four times the circulation, it would have saved a total in that one bill alone of not less than $1990.92. The reasons they did not do this are well known. The Register objected to the employment upon the pay roll of the county of a man who was using his office to exploit the poorest element of our population, the Mexican people.

With affidavits and testimony before them, giving these facts, the Board of Supervisors declared they would retain this man "for the good of the Mexicans." We objected to this, and criticized it. There has never been one solitary defense of the action, but the Board of Supervisors in retaliation, voted to take the legal advertising from the paper, and placed it in a paper reaching but a fraction of as many people in the county, and paid the same money for it.

The argument which they understand is the argument of "money." "If you will support us, and not criticize us, you get the taxpayers' money. If you don't support us, we will use the taxpayers' money for our friends whether it is good business or not." We have carried the advertising in spite of all this as far as we could, without expense, printing it free in order that the major portion of the population in Orange county could have the benefit. When such a large amount was to be placed that we could not afford to print it without expense, we made a proposal to reduce the price, where several thousand dollars would be saved, thinking that at any rate the Board of Supervisors would consider the taxpayers' interest, and not be governed by politics and their prejudices.

But we were mistaken. Three of these men are now asking for the support of the voters and taxpayers.

We are confident that thousands of voters in the county, in the interest of a square deal for the taxpayers; in the interest of having the people know exactly what is being done, and why it is being done; in the interest of the principles of real Americanization which is opposed to exploitation and in favor of burden bearing and in favor of a free and not a muzzled press, will desire to have members of the Board of Supervisors who are responsive to the people, and to all of the people instead of to but a small fraction of the people.

"A sports writer," says one of them, "has an audience hanging on his words." Which seems to be the only alternative for those who have placed bets on sports writers' hunches—and lost.

LIVING COSTS DROP

The Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor announced a few days ago that the cost of living throughout the country was one-fourth less in June than it was at the peak of prices in the same month ten years ago. Furthermore, since June of last year the cost of living average dropped 2.1 per cent.

The greatest decrease in cost of living expenses, between December and June, was in the price of foods.

To the householder with a steady income, the news is good, even though the cost of living index in the United States in June was 166.6, based on the cost in 1913 as 100.

In the table of statistics which were drawn up for different cities, Los Angeles, which may be taken as indicative of this region does not rank particularly high in percentage of decrease in cost of living as compared with other cities. While the fact may not be consoling to the short-sighted home-manager, taking a long economic view of the matter, it is all to the good. An excessive drop means that someone is taking losses and that is more undesirable than a high cost of living, especially since wages had been adjusted to the living cost.

Therefore, these statistics which indicate that this section of the country is taking the drop gradually, are even more interesting than the news of the drop is to the housewife. The drop between December 1929 and June 1930 for Los Angeles was 2.9 per cent, for Boston it was 3.1, for Houston it was 3.4, for Detroit 3.1, for Philadelphia 3.4, for Norfolk 3.2, for New York 3, for San Francisco 3.

NOT SURPRISED

We were not surprised at the Associated Chamber of Commerce failing to act on the matter of the bonds for the harbor at Newport Beach. Nothing could be clearer at the present time than that a proposed bond issue, coupled up with the necessity of Federal support in order to make the money available would insure that Newport would get nothing. Hence the leaders in Newport have shown wisdom in refusing to accept such a proposal.

On the other hand, an issue of bonds probably in any amount would find little or no support by the people in the county if it were not attached to some such condition, and certainly an amount sufficient to insure the work being done properly could only pass in the county by a miracle.

The Register recognized this situation some time ago when it was presented, and refused to be a party to the proposed plan, for we knew there was politics, rather than a heart-felt desire to assist Newport Beach, behind it. As so frequently happens in that kind of a situation, when all of the facts are known, it ends in an impasse.

A French scientist has announced a plan of harnessing the energy of the Gulf stream. Well, he has a strong current to begin with.

HE WANTED GENE

It is hard to be told that you aren't wanted and it is a rare person indeed who can overlook the fact that he is persona non grata and do the one a kindness with whom you are not in favor, especially when "heaping coals of fire on the head" is not appreciated.

It all happened to Mrs. Gene Tunney. Touring a hospital, she stopped at the bedside of a boy and was introduced. "I don't want to see Mrs. Tunney. I want to see the fighter. It's tough to be here with all the other kids seeing Gene," spoke out the bed-ridden boy.

"Man's Inhumanity"

San Diego Union

When we read that Dr. T. Latow, dental surgeon, urges the public to obviate dental troubles by feeding their children as carefully as they feed their cattle, we are tempted to address a somewhat parallel plea to the great American railway companies. We would ask the railways to prevent suffering among their passengers by transporting them as carefully as they transport green vegetables.

It is possible to ship a cantaloupe across the Great American desert to the ultimate consumer in Chicago or New York without wilting it. It should be possible to do as much for a human being.

Experienced travelers will testify that there is no more heartrending spectacle in the whole category of human hardship than the sight of a transcontinental train load of tourists halted at Needles, Barstow, Yuma, or any one of a number of other warm spots on the journey across these United States. Despite all the advance of modern engineering, and the more-than-luxury built into many of the vehicles for which Pullman-fare-plus is exacted, the passengers are exposed to all the discomforts of dust and heat. While the humble cantaloupe nestles comfortably in the below-zero coolness of a refrigerator car, the human being who has paid good money for civilized transportation hangs limply over the back of a hot plush chair and torments himself with memories of mint juleps too historic to do him any good.

This is unjust. It is not common sense. It inflicts a kind of suffering that is almost certainly unnecessary, and it burdens a very appreciable handicap upon the great states served by the railways. Railway travel will be more profitable to all concerned when the Pullman passenger is no longer compelled to envy the inarticulate and ice-cold cantaloupe.

At last somebody has found a burglar under a bed.

The finder had drawn cash from a bank for a stay in a sanitarium where he was going next day. He went out on an errand, leaving the money in a bureau drawer. When he returned the room was in disorder and the money missing. He saw a pair of shoes sticking out from the bed. They did not look like his shoes. He pulled. The shoes came and the rest of the burglar came along with them. The burglar, needless to say, was young and new to the game.

What has become of the old maids who never got into a bed without looking under it for the burglar who might be hiding there, waiting to steal the gold watch and the earrings inherited from Greataunt Jane? That's easy. They are buyers or private secretaries with grand clothes and perfect marcels, who never need to think of looking under the bed. They pull it out from its closet and let it down in the living room of their expensive apartment. Aunt Emma's trinkets are in the safe deposit box, money is represented by the check book and fears are non-existent.

Except for the age-old fear shared by them with Aunt Emma and Greataunt Jane. But that is another psychology.

Golf Takes to Cover

New York Times

The craze for miniature golf courses continues to spread, with new links sprouting on vacant city lots all over the country. The latest development threatens to tame the game still further and make it an indoor sport.

The owners of a movie house, now dark, in Kew Gardens, are planning to tear down the screen, turn a deaf ear to the talkies, and install a fairway down the enchanted aisles. The balcony would become a sort of country-club veranda, where ice cream and soft drinks would be served to tired players. Here, too, would be discussed the wagers with which players are said to add zest to the miniature game.

If the house is one of those refrigerated palaces that gave rise to this Summer's simile, "as cool as the movies," it may be expected to draw golfers from its outdoor neighbors. An opportunity to enjoy the cool temperatures of the Scotch moors on a sizzling July day and to escape the rigors of wintry blasts in January should make the theater course a year-round delight for the golfer who takes his game in small doses.

Incidentally, musicians thrown out of work by the mechanical talkies, and even some of the more desperate of unemployed actors, might find work on the links or as caddies, in a pleasantly familiar atmosphere.

It would be interesting to try to teach a child to discover how little can be enough for him. I'm not picturing the joys of poverty. Poverty kills the soul. I'm trying to point out the beauty in sufficiency, the spiritual thrill in the feeling that one can master his world with a sling and a pebble and a keen brain.

We don't give brains half a chance these days. Before they can get under way somebody makes them useless by handing the child the job already done, the gift ready made, the hope in a neatly wrapped box marked so-much-the-dozen. He is so smoothered in muchness that the bare beauty of little, the complete enjoyment of power through imagination and personal effort is lost.

It is better to supply necessities and leave room for the creation of wants than to heap up possessions. Wants keep a child growing, providing the quality of his wants is high. It is better to put time and energy in cultivating his hungers, enriching his idea of wants, than it is to gather muchness for him. How LITTLE can be enough? That way happiness lies.

RECKLESS, INDEED

"Well, Tommy, I see your brother has a bandaged hand. Has he had an accident?"

"Ah, a motor car, I presume."

"Oh, no, sir—a nail."—Leeds, England, Mercury.
